

The very few remnants of the Daqun and Uthuk have been pushed to band together against the rising forces of undead commanded by the Heralds Of Dreadfall there may be no hope left for them. The Uthuk beasts are very different from us due to them having a lust for blood, besides that there are also fighting to stop the undead forces. The Uthuk have become very strange almost scared even. I have to end this entry quickly due to the rotting smell in the air which means they're close.
