MEMO

Subject: Dimensional Travel

Interviewee: Barry Allen, The Flash II

Excerpt from Field Report: As I ran on the Cosmic Treadmill, I began to alter the vibratory rate of my atoms. The world blurred around me, like other pictures, other worlds were being superimposed onto my sight. The walls of my laboratory faded away, replaced by a series of different, unfamiliar rooms. Then, when I got my internal vibrations to the frequency I wanted, I stopped running. My lab and the Cosmic Treadmill were gone. I was on another world, another Earth!

Observers: Colorado Air Traffic Control records

Excerpt from Khund Invasion file: Radar recorded Superman entering the atmosphere, pursued by two Khund fighters. He swiftly descended to 3000 feet, flying southwest at Mach 3, on an intercept course with Mount Bridwell. Radar showed he crashed into the mountain, producing a cloud of debris. The Khund fighters, lacking Superman's mobility, plowed straight into the mountain and exploded. Five seconds later, radar showed another debris cloud on the other side of the mountain. Then Superman's signature appeared on radar, continuing to fly southwest and gaining altitude rapidly.

Interviewee: Patrolman Kendo Fujimori, Tokyo PD

Excerpt from Interview: I was on patrol when this girl dropped out of the sky in front of me. The street cracked where she landed, sending out a spray of gravel. I swerved to avoid her and the pothole she'd just made. She yelled "Sorry! I'm late for school!" and then she leaped into the air again! I got out and looked in the direction she was traveling. She kept hopping incredible distances and from the sounds I was hearing, hitting a lot of things when she landed. We later collected the damage reports; she'd broken three walls, fallen through two roofs, destroyed a couple of gardens, and left at least four dozen potholes in her wake.

Subject: Teleportation

Agent: Operative 4183

Excerpt from Field Report: "So many times I've witnessed the destruction of worlds. So many times. I feel the pull. I feel the power rise up within me. I vanish, then reappear where the disaster is about to strike. I remember a worlds, an Earth like yours and yet so unlike it. I watch helplessly as the wave of antimatter sweeps through, destroying everything in its path. It is all I can do to grab a single native of that world as I vanish again. One life saved, but so many lost. So many — NO! It's happening again! Nooooooooooooo....."

Note: Remark by Pariah, shortly before he vanished from the interview site. This memo was included on p. 87 of the DoS, but the entire memo was blacked out.
