Introduction

Welcome to the LIVING GREYHAWK Campaign Sourcebook. This document contains everything that you, as a player or DUNGEON MASTER®, need to participate in the largest LIVING campaign in the history of the RPGA. Whether you are new to the concept of a LIVING game or a seasoned veteran, you will find answers to all of your questions here. The LIVING GREYHAWK campaign is a D&D core rules campaign and uses the most current printing of the rulebooks. The current release consists of the three D&D core rulebooks v.3.5. Reference to the Player's Handbook, Dungeon Master's Guide, or Monster Manual in this document refer to the D&D v.3.5 version of these books.

The LIVING GREYHAWK Campaign Sourcebook is divided into ten sections, each one detailing certain aspects of the game. These sections are briefly described below to provide you with a quick reference guide.

Chapter 1: What is a LIVING Campaign?

This section is an introduction for the player who is totally new to the RPGA and LIVING campaigns. It gives a brief overview of game play and mechanics in LIVING campaigns. It also suggests related sites allowing you to learn more about the subject.

Chapter 2: LIVING GREYHAWK Primer

This section explores the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign briefly explaining traits that distinguish it from other LIVING campaigns. It explains the regional system, different adventure types, and the various events available to players.

Chapter 3: Character Generation Guidelines

Learn how to make a starting character for the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign. These rules include which books are necessary for play and core rules variants used in LIVING GREYHAWK.

Chapter 4: Adventure Record & Master Item Logsheet

This chapter discusses the full page certificate used to record results from adventures you play in LIVING GREYHAWK. It examines the certificate in detail, including how it works, and how to complete one. Various play opportunities available at the end of an adventure such as purchasing new equipment, creating magic items, or scribing new spells into your spellbook are also discussed.

Chapter 5: Class Guidebook and Metagame Policy.

Though the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign is a core campaign, it uses material from various other Wizards of the Coast products. This chapter details what material is allowed from other books, and how to use it correctly. Variant rules necessary to convert these supplemental sources to D&D v.3.5 for use in the campaign are also covered in this chapter.

Chapter 6: Beyond the Core Rules

This section details additional rules and rules clarifications necessary for select spells and magical items to function consistently in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign. These rules help provide fair and consistent play worldwide.

Chapter 7: Magic Item Creation

As the title says, this section describes the creation of magical items within the campaign.

Chapter 8: Running a LIVING GREYHAWK Event.

So you want to run a LIVING GREYHAWK event? This is your section. Learn everything you need to know to DM sessions and run events. Discover how to handle the paperwork, where to turn if you need a ruling or have problems, and even some event do's and don'ts.

Chapter 9: LIVING GREYHAWK FAQ & Errata

These collected clarifications provide you with quick, easy answers to some of the most commonly asked questions. Check this section first before sending off that email, your question may already be answered.

Chapter 10: Contacts, Websites, & Message Boards

This Who's Who list of LIVING GREYHAWK, includes a contact list for the circle, regional points of contact, and other campaign administration. It also includes the current website address for regions that have websites, various regional message boards, metaregion links, and general campaign discussion boards.

Glossary

A quick reference to some terms unique to LIVING campaigns in general, and LIVING GREYHAWK in particular.

UPDATE POLICY

Like the campaign it describes, this sourcebook is a living document. It is updated to remain current with changes in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign. These updates usually happen approximately twice a year, near the dates for WINTER FANTASY and Origins/Gen Con Indy. Each update has a version number and release date on the front page. Once updated, a notice is posted on the LIVING GREYHAWK website at: www.wizards.com/lg.

Chapter 1: What is a LIVING Campaign?

'The RPGA oversees a number of games that are called "LIVING." Some examples include LIVING FORCE™, LIVING Arcanis, LIVING Death, LIVING Kingdoms of Kalamar and the most popular LIVING game of all, LIVING GREYHAWK. These LIVING games spring from the fundamental idea that a home-style roleplaying campaign can be expanded into a worldwide campaign and enjoyed by thousands of people. Your character in a home game is one of four or so player characters, but in a LIVING game, you can interact with hundreds and hundreds of other PCs, all of them living and adventuring in the same game world as your character. Many people new to LIVING games confuse them with liveaction roleplaying, but LIVING games don't require you to dress up in costume, play-act like your character, or behave any differently than you would at any tabletop roleplaying game that you would enjoy with your friends. If you have roleplayed before, then you're ready to enjoy a worldwide LIVING game.

The way LIVING games work is this: a number of adventures are published (on a secure website), and these adventures can be ordered and run during a session with one certified gamemaster (DM) and four to six players. (Sessions are sometimes called tables). Each player has a character, and this character is played in adventure after adventure, even at other sessions with different GMs and players. After each adventure, your character gets more powerful and can handle more dangerous adventures. You continue to grow and develop your character in many different adventures with many different people (you can play the same character all over the world!), just as you would in a home campaign. That's why these campaigns are called LIVING; your character grows and advances in games stretching from your living room to the other side of the country.

Getting involved with a LIVING game is easy. The first thing you need to learn is which LIVING games are available. Each campaign has a website and the best place to start looking is the RPGA website at www.wizards.com/rpga. Second, you need to join the RPGA which is free. Attend an RPGA event in your area and tell someone you want to join. The RPGA events calendar lists sanctioned events running all over the world. You can also join on the RPGA website by passing the Herald-Level GM Test. Once you join, you need to create your own character. The different LIVING games each have character creation documents (available from their website) to walk you through this process. You don't normally need to have your character checked off by anyone, as long as you followed the character creation rules. Next, attend one of the many gaming events (held all over the world) that support the LIVING campaigns you want to play. When you pass the Herald-Level GM Test online, you can order LIVING games and run them yourself. Play these adventure like you would play any other commerciallyavailable adventure, with a few restrictions mentioned below. At the end of each adventure, your character gains experience allowing you to play in progressively tougher adventures.

There are some restrictions that all LIVING games have in common. Since one DM can't run a campaign with thousands of players, ground rules have been established to ensure all the characters are played and judged fairly. First, you can't play a character from one LIVING campaign in a different LIVING campaign (a sci-fi LIVING FORCE character, for example, would be ill-suited in the Victorian horror of the LIVING DEATH[™] game!). Each LIVING game also requires that you keep track of your character's advancing wealth and experience, usually in the form of log sheets or adventure records that are signed by your DM at the end of every adventure you play. Usually, LIVING games require that you play a heroic character; players aren't allowed villainous characters in LIVING campaigns. GMs must pass the Herald-Level GM Test on the RPGA website to demonstrate they are qualified to run LIVING games. This online test is free, and you can use your rule books while testing. Additionally, in home campaigns, GMs tend to freely bend or even disregard adventure plots, but LIVING campaign adventure plots must be followed more closely to maintain consistency for worldwide play. Every LIVING game has some sort of administrative group that oversee the entire campaign and occasionally issue rules changes, provide campaign updates, and arbitrate serious disagreements. In LIVING GREYHAWK, this group is a handful of people called the circle. Finally, you may end up playing with a diverse mix of players, many of whom you're meeting for the first time at the game session, when you play LIVING campaigns at game days and conventions. It's best to be friendly and polite.

Some players don't like the restrictions discussed above and prefer to roleplay exclusively with a home group. However, many of us feel these restrictions are a fair tradeoff for the ability to play a character—the same character—at different venues while meeting new people.

The next chapter discusses rule variants and restrictions used in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign.

Chapter 2: Living Greyhawk Primer

As the campaign name implies, LIVING GREYHAWK is set in the WORLD OF GREYHAWK[™] fantasy setting. Originally conceived and created by Gary Gygax in the early 1970s, it has since evolved from a world he used for his home game into a campaign setting used by hundreds of thousands of players. The newest incarnation of this setting can be found in the Living Greyhawk Gazetteer. You can find this book at your local hobby shop or through several online bookstores. It is the one book that can bring you up to speed on the WORLD OF GREYHAWK and give you a solid base to work from. It is not required that you have this book to play in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign, but knowing a bit more about the world you are playing in makes it a lot more fun.

The official campaign website may be found at www. wizards.com/lg. All current documents, rulings, and errata are found there, and it is your official source of updates to the campaign. We also have a published source of information in DUNGEON[™] Magazine called the Living Greyhawk Journal. Within its pages, you find new prestige classes, spells, and monsters. There are also several message boards to find additional information on the campaign. See Chapter 10: Contacts, Websites, & Message Boards for more information.

The LIVING GREYHAWK campaign is currently the largest LIVING campaign in the history of the RPGA. In 2003 and 2004 the campaign enjoyed record numbers of players, and our numbers continue to grow each month. So, now you are probably wondering what sets LIVING GREYHAWK apart; well, we are glad you asked. The LIVING GREYHAWK campaign has a few exciting twists.

REGIONS

The campaign world of the LIVING GREYHAWK game, the continent of the Flanaess on the planet Oerth, is divided into several nations and political states. These nations are mapped onto sections of the real world, and your physical location determines where your character is located as well. For example, if you live in Los Angeles, then your character is from the wide, fertile plains of the Kingdom of Nyrond. If you live in Kentucky, your character is from the Free League of the Yeomanry. Your character must have a home region – there are no regionless characters. See Chapter 3: Character Generation Guidelines for more information about home regions. Your real-world home is the default home region of your LIVING GREYHAWK character, as the following chart indicates:

If you travel, so does your character – a unique aspect of the LIVING GREYHAWK game. Each region possesses a regional flavor that sets iott apart from the other regions. If you play at a convention in Milwaukee, WI, your character travels to the forested region of Highfolk. If you then attend a game in Cleveland, OH, your character travels to the Archclericy of Veluna. Regions are loosely grouped into metaregions based on their geographic relationships on Oerth. Metaregions are explained under Adventure Types section below.

Some areas of Oerth are not available as home regions for any character. These areas include the Free City of GREYHAWK, and dangerous areas like the Bright Desert and the Amedio Jungles. This isn't to say that your character won't adventure in any of these places, but your hero won't call any of these places home.

Each region is overseen by a trio of volunteers called the regional triad. The triad is responsible for almost everything that happens in their region. They oversee the regional plotlines, write or edit the region's adventures, design incharacter organizations called meta-organizations that your character can join, and organize conventions in the region. Most triads also maintain a regional website and Yahoo! group for the players in their region to organize games and distribute important regional information. More information on how to contact your local triad and their websites is located in Chapter 10.

Which region your character calls home is up to you. You actually don't have to assign your character to your default home region; you could live in Florida, but give your character a home region of Onnwal (or United Kingdom in the real world). However, you'll find it much easier for your character if your character's home region is the real world region in which you play the most (probably the one you live in.) Furthermore, whenever you move your home in the real world to a new real-world region, you can petition the triad of your new region to allow your character to change regions.

Some nations of the world do not have a region assigned to them at this time. Players from those nations must still select a region for their characters. However, they will not be able to play regional or metaregional adventures within the borders of their nation; only core adventures are available in a nation without a region assigned to it. The circle evaluates gameplay numbers, as reported to the RPGA, for LIVING GREYHAWK each year, and will only consider adding a nation without a region to one of the currently existing regions based on those numbers.

TIME UNITS

Your LIVING GREYHAWK hero can't be everywhere at once. The amount of time your character has to adventure, craft magical items, and perform other tasks is limited. This is represented in the LIVING GREYHAWK game by time units (TUs).

At the beginning of each calendar year, your character receives 52 time units to spend. The most common way to spend time units is by adventuring, but you might also spend them joining organizations (like knighthoods or adventuring companies), or creating magical items for yourself. The cost in TUs of these non-adventuring activities can vary. The TU cost for playing an adventure is found on the adventure record (AR). Usually, adventures costs I or 2 TUs but can be higher. When you are out of time units, you cannot play that character again until next year when your TUs reset to fifty-two. However, you are allowed multiple characters in the campaign, so if you run out, make another character and keep playing.

ADVENTURE TYPES

Regions define more than your character's home; they determine which adventures are available for you to play. There are four types of LIVING GREYHAWK adventure: regional, metaregional, core and core special. Chapter 10 provides more information on which regions fall into which metaregion. You may only play one PC in each LIVING GREYHAWK adventure, and may only play a LIVING GREYHAWK adventure once.

Regional Adventures: Each region publishes several adventures each year, and these regional adventures are only available for play in the corresponding real-world region. Regional adventures for Highfolk, for example, can only be played in the state of Wisconsin and nowhere else. If you visit Wisconsin from somewhere else, your character can play Highfolk regional adventures but cannot play adventures from its home region while in Wisconsin. Regional adventures advance plots and introduce nonplayer characters important within that region. Regional adventures usually cost characters I TU for home region, or 2 TUs for non-home regions. Each region is allowed to produce eight rounds of regional adventures each year.

Regionals may not run outside their region for any reason. This includes playtests and slot o's. The only exceptions to this rule are circle approved, cross-regional events (and then, only at the show site on the days of the show), and the RPGA Open Gaming Fiesta.

Metaregional Adventures: All of the regions are grouped into one of five meta-regions. Metaregions unite regions that share a similar theme. For example, the Bandit Kingdoms, Perrenland, Highfolk, Furyondy, and the Shield Lands all border the realm of the evil Iuz, and are therefore connected as the Iuz's Border States metaregion. Like regional adventures, metaregional adventures can only be played in the real-world regions that make up the metaregion. Metaregional adventures advance larger plots and introduce nonplayer characters important to the entire metaregion. Metaregional adventures for your character's home region usually cost 1 TU, or 2 TUs for metaregionals that don't contain the home region. Each metaregion is allowed to produce eight rounds of adventures a year.

Metaregionals may not run outside their metaregion for any reason. This includes playtests and slot o's. The only exceptions to this rule are circle approved cross-regional events (and then, only at the show site on the days of the show), and the RPGA Open Gaming Fiesta.

Core Adventures: Cores usually take place in the nonregional areas of the game world: the City of Greyhawk, the Nyr Dyv, the Duchy of Tenh, the Underdark, etc. Core adventures can be played by any character, anywhere in the world. Core adventures advance campaign-wide plots and usually cost your character 2 TUs. On average, there are twenty rounds of core adventures each year, plus several more special adventures run at select shows or venues (see below).

Core Special Adventures: These adventures can take place in almost any location on Oerth. They often run at the larger national shows and often have limited play. Core special adventures are often one-shot adventures or give greater detail to a larger core plotline. On average, there are three to four rounds of core special adventures each year. A core special is not the same as a core adventure when it comes to options that you might have during a normal core event. Adventure TUs for core specials vary greatly and can range from 2 to 14 TUs – possibly even higher.

If you don't travel at all to play, your character can participate in your regional and metaregional adventures for the region you are in and all core adventures. If you travel to play, then you open up your play opportunities even more. With the current system, you can easily spend your 52 TUs each year without ever leaving your home.

CAMPAIGN DOCUMENTATION

You need to keep more than your character sheet with you when you play. You also need documentation showing how experienced your character is, and a list of possessions. In the LIVING GREYHAWK game, the documents you'll need to keep handy are your adventure records (ARs) and your master item logsheets (MIL).

After every LIVING GREYHAWK adventure, you receive an adventure record that details your character's awards for that adventure. Any other changes to your character are also recorded on the adventure's AR. When you add the awards from an adventure you played to the totals on your last AR, you have your character's new totals, and you've documented the advancement of your character. Although some of the important numbers in your character development (experience points and gold piece total) are always current on your most recent AR, you should keep all your past ARs, so you have a record of all the adventures played.

The master item logsheet lists the items that your character owns, and is updated as your character buys or sells items in the game. It's a handy way to track the bits of equipment your character collects.

Chapter 4 explains the adventure records and the master item logsheet in detail.

METACAMPAIGN

Anything that happens outside the game session are considered metacampaign or metagame activity. Your local triad should have a copy of their metacampaign activities on their website for you to look through. Some examples of what you can do are described below.

- Metacampaign Groups: Join a bard's guild, become a Knight of the Hart, join the Church of Rao, or become an apprentice in the secret thieves guilds of Dyvers. Each region may have dozens of groups that can add flavor and background to your character, as well as provide access to feats, spells, and items not normally available to the common adventurer. Each of these groups has requirements to join as determined by your local triad.
- Introductory Adventures: These are for 1st-level characters and are aimed at those new to the campaign (though any 1st-level character can play them). They are regional in nature and help new players get a better feeling for what makes their region different and what they can expect in future adventures from their region.

- Interactives: These cover things from the king's wedding to the defense of a town. Unlike normal adventures, these have no set running time and allow activities not available in a normal adventure. While some interactives run like your typical adventure, in others, players choose to dress up in costume as part of the game. You never know what might happen during one of these, and they can be a lot of fun.
- Special Mission: These adventures are requested by players. They range from meeting special in-game requirements for prestige classes to going back to that dungeon one last time to finish off the evil cleric and her minions. Contact your local triad for that to happen. Special missions are rare and not all are approved, but they can be very satisfying experiences for your character if completed. A player (not character) can only participate in one special mission per year.

ONLINE PLAY

As the internet continues to grow and amaze, the play of some LIVING campaigns has spread to online play. The following rules apply to the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign for online play.

- Only events designated as core adventures may be played online. Under no circumstances may regional, metaregional, or core special events be played online. LIVING GREYHAWK is a regional based campaign and playing of these types of adventures goes against that goal.
- The adventures must be ordered and reported just like any other RPGA event. The DM must mail or deliver in some fashion the signed AR's to those who participated. His signature must appear on the paperwork.
- Using teleconference/phone systems to conduct play is considered online play for the purposes of the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign.

Chapter 3: Character Generation Guidelines

These guidelines give you the basic information you need to create a starting LIVING GREYHAWK character, and to advance your character above 1st level. Please be aware that these guidelines, like the LIVING GREYHAWK Campaign Sourcebook, will change. As more D&D or GREYHAWK material is published, new options are add to the official LIVING GREYHAWK rules. These changes may mean previously available options become restricted-though this only happens after careful consideration.

These guidelines have a version number and date on the front cover. All LIVING GREYHAWK characters must comply with the most current version of the Player's Handbook, currently v.3.5, and these guidelines. When new options become available, you may take advantage of them by adding them to your character at the next normal opportunity (usually level advancement). You may not retroactively change your character to take advantage of new options or changes to the rules.

In the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign, each character is from a specific region of the Flanaess, the main continent of the GREYHAWK campaign setting. As a default, all characters in the campaign are assumed to be from the region assigned to the real-world area in which their players live (each region is maintained by local administrators known as regional triads). There is a list of real world locations and their corresponding LIVING GREYHAWK regions in Chapter 2 and Chapter 10. Also, all new characters start at 1st level with zero experience points. The LIVING GREYHAWK campaign does not use the optional rule of starting as a multiclass character at 1st level.

To create your LIVING GREYHAWK character, you must first print out a LIVING GREYHAWK character sheet. You can find a PDF version of this sheet on the Downloads page of the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign website (www. wizards.com/lg). To help GMs facilitate play, all players must use this character sheet. It makes it easier for the DM to find what he is looking for when needed. With your character sheet printed and your Player's Handbook v.3.5 ready, continue to step one.

STEP 1: ABILITY SCORES

To put all players on an even footing, the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign uses the nonstandard point buy method for ability scores (page 169 of the Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5.) The LIVING GREYHAWK setting is considered a Tougher Campaign; hence, each character uses 28 points to buy ability scores. For example, a character's attributes might be purchased as follows:

Str 15: 8 points Dex 13: 5 points Con 14: 6 points Int 10: 2 points Wis 11: 3 points Cha 12: 4 points

Apply racial adjustments to abilities adjustments after the base scores are determined. Thus, ability scores range from 8–18 for humans, and 6–20 for nonhumans. The point cost chart is included here for your convenience (Table 3-1: Ability Costs).

Do not use this chart for ability scores gained as part of a character's level advancement. Those points count as one, full ability point as explained in the Player's Handbook v.3.5.

Table 3-1: Ability Costs
Cost	Score	Modifier

STEP 2: RACE AND CLASS

You may choose any race and class option described in the Player's Handbook v.3.5. You may also choose a class listed in the Expanded Creation Options section, listed below. The LIVING GREYHAWK campaign also uses the following special rules for character creation. These override or limit the character options in the PHB.

Human characters should choose one of the subraces of humanity explained in Chapter 2 of the Living Greyhawk Gazetteer as their primary racial background These subraces include Baklunish, Flan, Oeridian, Olman, Rhennee, Suloise, and Touv. While very few humans are purebred, most do have a dominant ancestry that shows. Elf characters must be of the gray, high, or wood subraces. Dwarves may be hill or mountain dwarves. Gnomes must be rock gnomes. Halflings may be lightfoot, tallfellow or deep halflings. All half-orcs are human/orc crossbreeds. When choosing a subrace that is not in the PHB, please see Table 3-2 on the following page for information on the races above not listed in the PHB.

The Touv are detailed in the out-of-print Greyhawk accessory, The Scarlet Brotherhood. For those without access to that accessory, a brief description follows (reprinted from that accessory): The Touv people have dark brown or black skin; blue or brown eyes, with black eyes being rare; and straight or wavy hair. They have rounded facial features and are typically shorter than most people of the Flanaess, with the tallest Touv reaching about 5'10" in height. While most Touv males do not have facial hair, certain subgroups can grow narrow beards on their chins. Women's figures are often round and lush. The Touv reside almost exclusively in Hepmonaland. They speak Touv, a complex language that is a polyglot of tribal tongues containing many words that mean the same thing.

When picking bonus languages, new characters are free to choose from the languages and dialects listed on pages 11-12 of the Living Greyhawk Gazetteer, except for Druidic, Ferral, and Lendorian Elven. The most prominent of these languages are the human racial languages: Ancient Baklunish, Flan, Old Oeridian and Ancient Suloise. New PCs may also select Touv (see previous paragraph) as a starting language. See the campaign website for a complete list of languages.

You must choose a non-evil alignment that meets all requirements for your character's class

A cleric must serve a specific non-evil deity from the LIVING GREYHAWK Deities document (found on the campaign website). PC clerics may not serve Wastri. For your convenience, we have included a short list of deities (Table 3-4: Allowed Deities in LIVING GREYHAWK - this is only a partial list) allowed in the campaign that appear in the PHB; the complete list of all allowable deities appears on the LIVING GREYHAWK website. The list contains only the deity's name, alignment, domains, and favored weapon. If two weapons are listed, either may be used as the favored weapon. If two alignments are listed the first is that of the god. The second one is the most common variant of her worshipers. For more information, see one of the sources listed previously or go to the LIVING GREYHAWK website at www.wizards.com/lg. A paladin need not (but may) serve a patron deity. Non-clerical or paladin characters are not required to worship a deity, but if they do, they must pick from the same chart as clerics.

Check the campaign website for the most recent version of the LIVING GREYHAWK deity document. This will also include updates to domains as new books come into the campaign.

A character may begin play at any age from adulthood to old age, as defined in the age section of Chapter 6: Description, in the PHB. Age adjustments to ability scores are not used in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign. The character may be of any height and weight allowed by the height and weight tables for the character's race.

Prestige Classes: Whenever your character meets the requirements, you may choose to take one of many prestige classes found in the Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5, the Complete series of player guides, the new Races series of player guides or those found in Living Greyhawk Journal. Chapter 5 of this document goes details some of the requirements needed to take the more exotic prestige classes. Consult that chapter before selecting a prestige class.

STEP 3: HIT POINTS

At creation assign your starting character the maximum hit points possible for the chosen class. For each additional character level, assign hit points according to the new class by taking half the maximum value for the class, add I point, and then your Con bonus (or penalty). For example, a character with a IO Con adds 3 hit points upon gaining a new level in the Sorcerer class.

STEP 4: SKILLS AND FEATS

Characters spend their starting skill points on skills listed in the Player's Handbook v.3.5 taking into account the change to Knowledge (local) described below.

You can choose any feat from the Player's Handbook v.3.5 that your character meets the requirements for. A character may not select feats from outside the PHB until they have reached 3rd level. For more information on taking a feat not found in the PHB, please refer to Chapter 5: Class Guidebook and Metagame Policy.

A few skills need additional rulings:

Craft, Perform, Profession, and Sleight of Hand: All these skills allow your character to earn extra coin if time units are spent directly after regional adventures.

Knowledge Skill: You may only choose Knowledge skills specifically listed in the PHB.

Knowledge (local): Because of LIVING GREYHAWK'S regional nature, you must specialize when selecting this skill. When you take ranks in Knowledge (local) you must pick a subset. The subsets choices are: Core; Sheldomar Valley MR; Velverdyva MR; Iuz Border States MR; Nyrond & Environ MR; and Splintered Suns MR. While in Keoland, use Knowledge: (local [Sheldomar Valley MR]) for any checks required during the event. All regional and metaregional events use the metaregion knowledge for the metaregion they belong to. All core events use Knowledge (local [Core]) regardless of where they are set. If you do not have ranks in the needed subset, you cannot make a trained Knowledge (local) check.

STEP 5: EQUIPMENT

Characters receive maximum gold pieces for their starting class from the PHB Table 7-1.

During character creation you purchase character equipment from the trade goods, weapons (Small and Medium), armor, and goods and services sections of Chapter 7: Equipment in the PHB. The LIVING GREYHAWK campaign does not use the spellcasting and services section of Table 7-8: Goods and Services. See Chapter 6: Beyond the Cores Rules for more on NPC spellcasting costs. Chapter 4 of this document details purchasing expanded gear as you adventure and gain more money.

The carrying capacity rule is used in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign, so track what your character is carrying and how much it weighs.

STEP 6: HOME REGION

All LIVING GREYHAWK characters are based in one of the nations of the Flanaess, as detailed in the Living Greyhawk Gazetteer. There is no such thing as a regionless character. The default home region where your characters operate is determined by where you actually live. You may choose a different home region for a character, but the character suffers out-of-region penalties when you use it in the game region assigned to where you live. Remember your home region represents where your character is currently living. Characters may have been born elsewhere and traveled to your current home.

Each year on January 1, you may change your character's home region. This becomes the character's home region for the rest of that year. If you move to a different region in the real world, you may petition the point-of-contact triad (POC) for your new region asking permission to change your GREYHAWK home region as well. You are not required to change your home region when you move, but you will suffer out-of-region penalties when playing regionals where you live.

EXPANDED CREATION OPTIONS

In addition to the creation options normally available to all LIVING GREYHAWK characters, some special options exist for new characters created or existing characters active in the campaign. Some of these options are new feat choices from "GREYHAWK: Regional Feats of Oerth" and "GREYHAWK Feats: More Regional Feats of Oerth", articles appearing in Dragon #315 and #319, respectively. See Chapter 5 for specific source information. In the near future, Paizo Publishing will make these two articles available on their website, www.paizo.com. Until the download is available, you must bring the Dragon Magazine containing the article or articles relevant to the table with you, as with all noncore rules items.

See the table below for a listing of feats available to your character at any level in your region (provided you meet the prerequisites – some cannot be taken at 1st level). Any feat available to your character from the chart below is available to you from 1st level onward (unless an ingame circumstance otherwise dictates a change). Human characters with mixed heritage (such as a human with both Suel and Oeridian blood) must choose one race from which to draw these feats.

Also, in addition to feat options, you may create a 1stlevel character of any of the following new base classes. Starting gold is listed after each class. You must have the appropriate rulebook with you at all times to reference your character's class (or classes). Consult Chapter 5 for specifics on the new classes. Note that these classes are open to all characters, regardless of level, provided the character meets the class requirements.

- Marshal (Miniatures Handbook) 200 gp
- Hexblade (Complete Warrior) 240 gp
- Swashbuckler (Complete Warrior) 240 gp
- Favored Soul (Complete Divine) 200 gp
- Warmage (Complete Arcane) 120 gp
- Scout (Complete Adventurer) 200 gp

LEARNING NEW ARCANE SPELLS

At the end of any adventure, wizard characters may attempt to learn as many new arcane spells as they have caster levels, as long as they have a source for those new spells (a spellbook from another character playing in the session, a spellbook plundered from an enemy wizard, campaign documentation allowing a spell, or a scroll). However, the two spells a wizard receives for level advancement are bonus spells learned, and don't count toward this after-adventure maximum. Use the standard rules and costs from the PHB for scribing new spells. Learning these spells does not cost additional TUs. A character may take 10 on this roll per the rules in the PHB.

A character may not select a spell from outside the PHB until they have reached 3rd level. For more information on taking a spell not found in the PHB, please refer to Chapter 5: Class Guidebook and Metagame Policy.

LEVEL CAPS

The following are the level caps (maximum character levels) allowed within the campaign:

- Upon reaching 18th level, a character is retired from the campaign and may only play in events specifically designated as high-level adventures. In addition to standard adventures (core, regional, and metaregional), unplayable adventures include all interactives, special missions, and other events. Their concerns have grown to encompass dangers and threats beyond what mere mortals must deal with. The first of these higher-level events is scheduled for the end of 2005/early 2006 release. As of January 1, 2006, the level for retirement to high-level adventures goes from 18th level to 16th level, and will remain there for the foreseeable future. If a triad member believes that you are avoiding retirement (by death, playing down, creating unneeded MIC items, etc.) then they can report you to their circle representative and your character may be retired into the high-level campaign regardless of level. Respect the spirit of the rules and move on when your time comes.
- A character that is four or more levels higher than the maximum APL supported by an adventure may not participate in that adventure. If the maximum APL supported by an adventure is APL 12 or higher then this cap does not apply. So for example, if an adventure supports APL 2 through 8, then a 12th-level or higher character cannot participate in it. Make a new character more appropriate for those levels of adventuring.
- If the table of characters exceeds the maximum APL of the adventure, but the individual characters are all eligible to play that adventure, then that table plays at the maximum APL allowed in the adventure.

LIFESTYLE AND UPKEEP

Your character usually has expenses to pay to stay healthy and well supplied. The gold required to support characters during and after adventures is called upkeep. Think of upkeep as a living expense. Usually your character spends 12 gp per TU. This expense is the adventurer standard. Spending this gold allows characters to spend time in warm beds, eat hearty meals, travel in relative comfort (for adventurers), replenish rations, mend clothing and equipment, refill healing kits, restock up to twenty normal arrows and bolts (found on Table 7-5: Weapons of the PHB), and properly heal between adventures. Characters paying the adventurer standard (or higher) heal all temporary ability damage before the beginning of the next adventure.

If your character suffered from a disease during the adventure, paying the adventurer standard still requires saving throws to fight infection for each day of the adventure until you fight off the infection. If the adventure takes less time than the incubation period for the disease, you must succeed at one saving throw for the disease at the end of the game session. You also heal any ability damage between adventures and fight off any further infection in many cases, but the special effects and requirement for diseases including magical healing for mummy rot, the permanent drain of demon fever, the persistence of devil chills, or the blindness of blinding sickness stay in effect and are reported on the play notes until the requirements rectifying the specific damage are met. When playing a multi-round adventure and where you paid adventurer standard (or higher) upkeep, you must finish all the adventure rounds to gain this benefit.

You may choose not to pay the adventurer standard. Choosing this option, you retain temporary ability damage into the next adventure, must buy new spell component pouches and healer's kits, and you may suffer other ingame penalties or sometimes even gain in-game benefits as detailed by your DM. You can avoid many of these penalties by living off the wild. At the beginning of the adventure, if you possess four or more ranks in Survival and succeed a Survival check (DC 20), you may heal temporary ability damage as if you had paid the adventurer standard, refillspellcomponent pouches and healer's kits, and restock twenty arrows and bolts if your character

Instant FAQ:

When I earn enough XP to gain a new level, can I delay taking that level until a later date?

No. If the XP in the final total XP box on your adventure record is enough to gain a new level, you must take that level before you can play that character again.

When gaining a level, can I leave a feat slot empty, or not spend skill points until later?

No. When you gain a level you must follow the chart under level advancement on pages 58-59 in the PHB in the exact order it shows before you play that character again.

has at least four ranks in Craft (bowmaking); you may still suffer in-game penalties, or gain wilderness-savvy related benefits. You are allowed to take 10 on this roll.

Temporary ability damage and permanent ability drain transferring to the next adventure are recorded in the play notes section of your adventure record.

You may also pay more gold to live better than the average adventurer. Beyond the adventurer standard are rich and luxury upkeeps. For a cost of 50 gp for each TU spent, rich upkeep gives you the same benefits as the adventurer standard, but you gain a +2 circumstance bonus on Bluff, Diplomacy, Gather Information, Intimidate, Perform, Profession, and Sense Motive checks applied when your DM determines that the increased social status of your wealth grants you a reasonable benefit. For a cost of 100 gp for each TU spent, luxury upkeep grants a character a +4 circumstance bonus in such cases. You must request to use this modifier immediately before the check is attempted in order to gain the bonus.

Declare your upkeep to your DM before play begins. You must have enough gold to cover the adventure's TU cost at the beginning of play, but the actual deduction of the gold occurs after play.

PAPERWORK

When you create a character, list all of your starting equipment purchased from the PHB on your character sheet. In the future, record purchases on the MIL. Items from the PHB are not tracked on the MIL. Please see Chapter 4 for more details. After each adventure, you receive an adventure record certificate. On the bottom left of this certificate, your DM awards you experience points. On the bottom right of the sheet, you record the gold piece value of your share of the loot and any purchases or sales you make. This certificate also tracks the number of time units spent during game play, gold and experience points you spent during game play, new special items or game effects that your character may enjoy or suffer, and adds the adventure to your play history. The master item logsheet and the adventure record are described in Chapter 4.

TRADE POLICY

Items appearing on a master item logsheet or character sheet may not be traded to another character. During adventure play you may loan items and coins to other characters for the duration of the adventure, but their loss (by destruction, consumption, or spending) is reflected in your gold piece totals at the end of the game. Coin, surviving items, and anything purchased with borrowed gold reverts to your character at the end of the game. You may not loan money to a friend to buy an item you cannot normally buy for yourself. Items that the lender is not allowed to keep must be sold and as much gold as possible returned in its place. Any payment for an NPC's services does not revert to its original owner, even if only one PC benefited form the services (e.g. paying an NPC to cast a spell on one character).

Adventure records are linked to both the character and player named n the certification field. A character cannot be played by anyone other than the player named.

All certificates in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign are the property of Wizards of the Coast and must be returned to the campaign staff or their representatives upon request. They have zero cash value (US $0.00) and cannot be sold for cash or other real-world considerations. Sale of any LIVING GREYHAWK campaign certificate, or trade contrary to the certificate trading rules, is penalized by sanctions imposed by the campaign staff, up to and including banning all offending parties from future RPGA events. The campaign staff determins the ban's duration.

CHARITY AND BENEFIT AUCTIONS

Nothing that grants a benefit in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign can be created without the campaign staff's approval. In addition, no benefit or LIVING GREYHAWK certificate of ANY type may be sold or auctioned off for real money in any fashion. This includes, but is not limited to, die bumps, convention only benefits, magical items or special certs. An event may still designate an adventure as a benefit and donate the entry fee to charity.

GUIDELINES FOR ETHICAL PLAY

In the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign, we expect that you conduct yourself in a manner suitable to group cooperation and group enjoyment. Specifically,

Players

- Contribute to the fun of the whole group. Don't play in a style that detracts from the fun of the game.
- Play fairly and honestly.
- Be considerate of others, and their right to enjoy the game as much as you do.
- Follow both the spirit and letter of the rules.
- Respect the decision of your DM; he or she is the game judge and uses the D&D rules to decide the effects of your character's actions and NPC's actions.

Gamemasters

- It is your job to run the game. You are not playing against the players; you are challenging them. Presenting a fun D&D experience is your top priority.
- All players should be treated equally and equitably, by you and by other players.
- You represent the RPGA and the campaign to your players. Run games in a professional manner.
- Abide by the expectations that apply to the players.

Administration

- Communicate in an articulate and timely manner.
- Uphold the authority of gamemasters, and do not overrule them without careful investigation.
- Abide by the expectations that apply to the players and the game masters.

Chapter 4: Adventure Record & Master Item Logsheet

So, you created a character, and you are ready to play. You just finish playing your first LIVING GREYHAWK adventure, and the gamemaster hands you a complicated looking form to fill out. You look at it, scratch your head, and then elbow the player next to you asking what it is. You discover it is your adventure record, and you get one with every adventure you play. The player also shows you a master item logsheet with all the cool things that character's picked up while adventuring. Looks pretty neat, but you need some more information. Well keep reading my friend.

The adventure record documents your progress in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign showing what you have played, earned and seen in your travels. Without these records anyone could write 10th level on the top of a character sheet without justifying how it got there. Though the adventure record and master item logsheet may seem a bit intimidating, they are actually very easy to use and offer you many options throughout your play.

ADVENTURE RECORD

"Another Wand !! I'll take the gold instead."

– Regdar, 592 CY

The adventure record tracking system has a simple base assumption: when you adventure you get an equal share of the loot. With that share you can equip your character with a reasonable selection of mundane and magical equipment to help you face greater challenges at higher levels. While magic is rarer in GREYHAWK than on other worlds of the Material Plane, Oerth also has its share of wizards, clerics and other spellcasters who, for the proper compensation, create and sell magic items. More than gold or steel, magic is a commodity that the powerful personages of the Flanaess desire to possess and control. Your character can find and acquire magic items during the adventure and in down time. How successful you are in gaining these items could determine your fate and the fate of your region in years to come.

After each adventure you receive an adventure record. It contains all the information needed to advance your character and record what was found and what transpired. As you play more and more, the adventure records track your character's history. From the first adventure played to the current one, they provide proof of your heroic deeds. Keep them safe. If you lose them you have no way of showing what level you are or what equipment you have. We recommend making copies of your current ARs or scanning them into a computer to give you some security in case something bad happens.

THE ADVENTURE RECORD INCH-BY-INCH

You will find a sample adventure record later in this document. We numbered each component for easier reference as we walk through how you complete an AR and discuss the special rules for using them. If you have questions read Chapter 9: LIVING GREYHAWK FAQ, Errata & Rules Variations. If you still cannot find an answer, contact your local triad's point of contact.

1. Player/Character Certification:

The first blank certifies the character's name followed by current classes and class levels. The blank below it certifies the player's name and RPGA number. If you don't have an RPGA number, ask your DM or the Senior DM to sign up. Below these fields, the AR states the name and type of adventure (either regional, core, core special, or metaregional) and the region where the adventure took place. Neither players nor characters may participate in the same adventure twice.

2. Play Notes and DM Certification:

The upper left corner of this section contains the heraldic symbol for the region where the adventure takes place. To the right of the symbol is the play notes section. Your DM will note anything carrying over to the next adventure in this section. We have included some of the more common notes as check boxes to make the DM's job a bit easier. Please fill in your character's home region. The bottom of this section is the DM's certification of the adventure record. GMs don't sign and date the AR until it is filled out completely and any empty boxes have lines drawn through them

Instant FAQ: What happens if I lose my adventure records?

If it is a small number of adventure records (for example, from your last convention or gameday), try to have them replaced as soon as possible (contact the event coordinator for replacements).

For a larger loss (or loss of all records), report your loss to your triad immediately. Your triad will assign your character a total gp value that can be used to re-equip the character with items that character currently has access.

Are photocopies of my adventure records OK?

Yes. You are encouraged to keep photocopies (or scanned copies) of all your adventure records. These photocopies serve as legitimate representations of your adventure records in the event of their loss. However, if you have the originals, they must be used.

(such as a line through gp spent if no items were purchased at the end of the adventure). The event line is for the name of the convention, game day, or home game where you played this adventure. Examples are Gencon 2002, Mialee's Gameday IV or Basement Home Game III.

3. Adventure Record #:

Number every adventure record receive in sequential order. For your first LIVING GREYHAWK adventure, write a "1" in this box. If you played before, add one to the number on your last AR.

4. Level of Play:

Your DM circles one of these listings to note what level you played this adventure at as determined by your average party level (APL). The maximum experience points and gold piece value available for your character at that play level are also listed. Keep in mind your character is usually awarded experience points and gold pieces below these maximums. Characters are never awarded experience points above these maximums and only awarded gold pieces above these maximums by pursuing other means such as through skills (as detailed in Chapter 6: Beyond the Core Rules) directly after a regional adventure.

5. Adventure Information

This section presents information specific to the adventure that may influence your character during item selection and beyond. Usually, this section includes items that expand your character's item selection choices and details items that your character may acquire upon fulfilling the necessary requirements.

The sample AR shows the Highfolk regional adventure, "Don't Fear the Old One". Ashley's character Mialee discovers a rod of substitution [fire], an item found in Complete Arcane. The information on the certificate gives all the information needed to adjudicate this item in play. In this case the information includes the metamagic feat that the rod's ability duplicates. After the normal magic item information block is the item's requirements for magic item creation (see Chapter 7). The adventure information section may also contain special game effects, or the requirements to discard cursed items.

Encountering this rod gives Mialee enhanced magic item acquisition abilities. She can buy it after this adventure as part of her treasure split. If Ashley chooses to buy the item, she must show her DM this certificate every time she plays in a game where Mialee carries the rod. Currently, Mialee does not have enough cash to buy the rod, but she may have the chance to do so later.

6. Items Found During the Adventure

Initially, characters are limited to purchases from the Players Handbook (see Chapter 3 for details). Once your character starts adventuring, a whole new world of possibilities opens up. Items found while adventuring are listed in the adventure section of your ARs and expand the list of equipment you can purchase for your character. Depending on the APL you play, you gain the ability to purchase new items for your character either after an adventure or in the future when you save up enough gold pieces.

Once your character has completed one LIVING

GREYHAWK adventure, you may purchase equipment based on the following rules. All references to the D&D core rulebook assume v.3.5 unless specified otherwise.

- Anything in the PHB from the following tables.
- o Table 7-3: Trade Goods
- o Table 7-5: Weapons (Small & Medium)
- o Table 7-6: Armor and Shields
- o Table 7-8: Goods and Services, except you can't have spells cast on you by an NPC.
- Any potion or oil from the DMG Table 7-17 with a market price of 750 gp or less.
- Any Scroll from the DMG Tables 7-23 & 7-24 with a market price of 750 gp or less.
- Any +1 weapon of a type listed on Table 7-5: Weapons (Small & Medium) in the PHB. (Composite bows are limited to a +4 Strength bonus).
- Any +1 armor or +1 shield of a type listed on Table 7-6: Armor & Shields in the PHB. This includes barding as listed in the PHB at normal costs.
- You may upgrade any standard masterwork weapon (ammunition in groups of 50), armor, or shield into a +1 version of that item. Purchase these by paying the difference between the masterwork market value and the +1 market value. You may only upgrade an item to +1 if the resulting item is still considered a standard item by the MIC rules. See Chapter 7: Magic Item Creation for more on how to determine if an item is considered standard.
- You may add alchemical silver to an existing steel weapon per the rules on page 284 in the DMG.
- You may purchase a normal, masterwork, or +1 weapon of a type listed on Table 7-5: Weapons in the PHB made of cold iron per the costs listed in the DMG, page 284.
- The following items from the DMG:
- Ring of protection +1
 - 0 Amulet of natural armor +1
 - o Bracers of armor +1
 - o Cloak of resistance +1
- 0 Amulet of health +2
- 0 Cloak of charisma +2
- o Gauntlets of ogre power
- o Gloves of Dexterity +2
- 0 Headband of intellect +2
- 0 Periapt of Wisdom +2
- Any item listed on an AR as long as the character meets the purchase requirements (see details below).
- Any upgrade listed on an adventure record as long as the item being upgraded is considered to be standard. See Chapter 7: Magic Item Creation for more on how to determine if an item is considered standard.
- The character has campaign or regional documentation allowing the purchase of an item not listed above.

The following items may not be purchased or possessed by a character under any circumstances. If you have one please contact your triad to have it corrected as soon as possible.

- Potion of Shield (any source)
- Ring of Animal Friendship
- Ring of Shield (year I Highfolk certificate)

So let's say our intrepid adventurer, Mialee, played the adventure listed in the sample AR at APL 4. First, the DM crosses off the lists for APL 6 and APL 8 – she doesn't have access to those items. She has access purchase to following six items.

- Wand of magic missiles (Adventure; 1st-level caster; DMG)
- Potion of mage armor (Adventure; 2nd-level caster; DMG)
- Bracers of armor +2 (Any, DMG)

And from APL 4

- Potion of haste (Adventure; 5th-level caster; DMG)
- +2 longsword (Any; DMG)
- Helm of comprehend languages and reading magic (Regional; DMG)

After each of the items you will notice a little block of information. The first part of the block is called the frequency. This lets the player and the DM know when this character is allowed to buy the item. There are five standard frequencies:

- Adventure: This item may only be bought directly after the play of this adventure or the three adventures that follow it.
- Regional: This item may only be bought directly after the play of a regional adventure set in the region(s) that appears on the AR on which the item was found.
- Metaregional: This item may only be bought directly after the play of a metaregional or regional adventure set in the region's metaregion that appears on the AR on which the item was found.
- Core: This item may only be bought directly after the play of any core adventure, including core specials.
- Any: This item may be bought after the play of any adventure.
- Cursed: This is a cursed item that has bonded itself to the character; it may only be discarded in ways detailed in the requirements section of the item description. Once it is discarded, the DM who adjudicated its removal records this change in the play notes. Cursed character must have this item on their item list until it is discarded. You must show the DM this adventure cert before the beginning of each game you participate in. Failing to reveal cursed items your DM results in disqualification from that session and carries a penalty of no less than 2 TUs. These TUs represent a state of emotional imprisonment suffered as malign effects of the cursed item: usually paranoia or something worse. Characters that gain possession of cursed items do not have to pay any cost to own that item, nor can they gain any gp from the loss of the item.

Meta-organization access benefits are considered Frequency: Any with the following exception. Metaorganization access benefits for magic items, mundane items, special materials, upgrades, and arcane spell acquisition are considered to be both Frequency: Regional (in the region(s) in which the meta-organization exists) and Frequency: Metaregional (in the metaregion(s) in which the region(s) exists). PCs may no longer spend TUs to change the frequency of these items to any.

Mialee gains access to the wand of magic missiles first. It has a frequency of adventure. If she wants this item she must buy it at the end of this adventure or the three that follow and record the purchase on AR where she makes the purchase. On the other hand, the bracers of armor +2 have a frequency of any. She may purchase that item before or after any LIVING GREYHAWK adventure she plays. She would love to purchase the helm of comprehend languages but does not currently have the gold to do so. Since it has the frequency of regional, she can purchase it after playing future Highfolk regional adventures.

The second part of the information block is the caster level of the item. Most items found in an adventure have the minimum caster level needed to create them. Occasionally, characters find items with higher caster levels.

Next comes the gold piece cost for items not listed in the three core rulebooks. Characters must pay this price unless the player has campaign documentation allowing otherwise.

The last bit of information is the rules source where the item is described in detail. Most items are from the Dungeon Master's Guide. The reference may direct you to the middle of the AR if the item in the adventure is not found in the DMG.

The paperwork for buying and selling items is completed at the end of the adventure. Page 17-18 of this document details how to record these transactions on the adventure record. Recording the items on your master item logsheet is covered later under Items Bought.

7. Starting Time Units

In this box, write the number of time units remaining for this character before starting an adventure. New LIVING GREYHAWK characters start with 52 TUS. For characters you've already played, carry over the TUS remaining from your last adventure record. If this is your first adventure in a new year (new campaign years start on January 1), your time units reset to 52 (unless something from the previous year has reduced this starting total).

8. Time Unit Cost

This value is the cost in time units for this adventure. Core adventures costs 2 TUs per round. Regional and metaregional adventures cost I TU per round for inregion characters and 2 TUs per round for out-of-region characters. If there are two choices in this box, circle the one that applies to you.

9. Additional Time Unit Costs

Some campaign option completed after an adventure cost additional time units. Some examples are: creating magic items, or practicing a craft or profession. If something happens in the adventure that requires additional TUs, they are recorded here.

10. Time Units Remaining

Subtract the TU cost and any additional TUs spent from your starting total and record the difference here. This number is your starting total for your next adventure.

11. Starting XP

Enter the number of experience points you had before this adventure began. New LIVING GREYHAWK characters start with o XP. For characters you've already played, use the final XP total from your previous adventure record.

12. XP Lost or Spent

Some campaign events cause you to lose experience points. Record that loss in this box. The most common XP drain is magic item creation. A subtotal box is included on the AR to streamline the math.

13. XP Gained

Enter the experience gained during the adventure in this red box. This number cannot be greater than the max. XP possible for the APL you played. In the sample adventure record the adventure was played at APL 4; the character could not earn more than 675 XP.

14. Final XP Total

Record your final XP total in this box. To calculate final XP take the starting XP (11), subtract XP lost or spent (12), add XP gained (13). When you gain enough XP to advance a level, you must take that level and make the required choices (skills, feats, spells, etc.) before playing the character again.

15. Starting GP

This amount is the gold piece total your character had at the start of the adventure. New LIVING GREYHAWK characters start adventuring with the gold remaining after they purchase their starting equipment. Existing characters use the final gp total from the previous adventure record. The campaign does not track fractions or any coin less than a gold piece.

16. Lifestyle Costs and other Coin spent

Chapter 3 discussed lifestyle cost. To summarize, lifestyle covers all the expenses between adventures – the mundane stuff that we don't want to micromanage. Use this section of the AR to record those expenses.

Pay your lifestyle at the beginning of an adventure. Lifestyle benefits and attempting to live off the wild are detailed in Chapter 3. After the adventure, check the appropriate lifestyle box on the AR. If you are living off the wild, choose "none" and write, "lived off the wild," on the sheet. Multiply the lifestyle chosen by the time units spent and record that sum in the lifestyle cost box. A lifestyle cost must be paid on the same adventure record where TUs are spent unless you have regional or campaign documentation stating otherwise. For example, to spend 3 TUs crafting a magic item requires you also spend the appropriate lifestyle cost. If you receive free lifestyle from regional or campaign documentation, please have the DM write a brief note referencing the benefit in the Play Notes section of the adventure record.

Sometimes you spend gold during an adventure for things that aren't recorded on your master item logsheet. Other coin spent tracks these intangibles. Examples include donating money to a church, bribing a villager for information or paying a thug to ransom a captured party member

The sum of your lifestyle cost and other coin spend is your total coin spent. Follow the arrow on the AR and write this total in the box under your starting gp.

Use the subtotal boxes in this part of the AR for your convenience. Depending on what you buy and sell, you may not need them. Put a line through unused boxes.

17. GP Gained

This red box is where you put the gold pieces earned during an adventure. The APL played determines the maximum amount that can be gained. Using the example AR, if the character had no special considerations and played at APL 8, a maximum of 1,250 gp is possible.

Gold pieces gained cannot be greater than the max gp possible from the APL played unless one of these two things occurs:

- I. The character has campaign documentation allowing additional income. The documentation specifies how gold is earned.
- 2. The PC uses the rules in Chapter 6to earn additional money after a regional adventure.

18. Items Sold

As your character gains levels, old equipment becomes less effective. The trusty longsword your father gave you worked slaying orcs, but doesn't make the cut with shadows. You sell off the old and buy newer items. Record these transactions under items sold.

On the left record which item you sold. Write the FULL value of the item to the right. If you sell more than five items, use the back of the adventure record to record everything, but make a note to, "see the back." Once finished total up everything sold, and write that amount in total value of sold items. Divide that value by 2 and record the difference in the green gp gained box.

You need to keep notes on your character sheet and master item logsheet when you sell items. These note requirements are covered later in this chapter when discussing the new master item logsheet.

19. Items Bought

Now that you sold off the old stuff, you're probably champing at the bit to buy that new sword or wand you saw at Adventure Gio's Trading Post. Like selling items, you keep notes on your master item logsheet when purchasing new equipment. More details on that in a bit.

Using the space provided, record your purchases along with their FULL value. You must record every item you purchase. If you run out of room, you may use the back of the adventure record but make a note to "see the back." Total up all the items purchased and write that amount in the total cost of bought items box. Follow the blue arrow to the blue box and record this amount. Remember, you cannot spend more gold than you have. It sounds pretty obvious, but you would be surprised the questions DM's get asked some days.

Review 6. Items Found During the Adventure above for exactly what you are allowed to purchase. If you cannot show the DM your documentation allowing the purchase of an item, the DM is within their rights to refuse you.

20. Final GP Total

One last step and you are done. Total everything from your starting gp down to gp spent and write that number in the final gp total box. That's your new starting total for your next adventure. Hand the completed sheet to your DM, along with your last adventure record, for verification of your starting totals. Once signed you get these documents back. You are now ready for your next exciting GREYHAWK adventure.

FINAL THOUGHTS ON THE ADVENTURE RECORD

The adventure record method of tracking your character is very different from a home game. In home games, when you defeat the bad guys, you add what they had to your own equipment and keep going. Your DM provides a counterbalance to ensure the party is adequately equipped and challenged. In a LIVING campaign, this balancing act is much harder. With more than three hundred adventures in play and well over 13,000 people playing, it is impossible to give each session or player the same loving care as a DM in a home game. The AR system allows the campaign directors to balance the campaign without being overly restrictive or requiring excessive paperwork.

Consequently, at the end of the adventure, you earn gold pieces instead of receiving a list of items to keep. You are probably thinking to yourself, "But dang it, I wanted that +1 chain shirt, not gold." Well, in a way, you are getting it.

Let's say you and your friends have defeated the evil Lord Unguth. You both fought bravely and walked away with 1,250 gold pieces—a nice haul. At this point, that total does not represent gold in your pocket. It represents the value of the stuff you are taking away from that adventure. You could spend your 1,250 gp and purchase that +1 chain shirt at the end of the adventure. According to your character he defeated the evil villain and took his chain shirt as spoils. Your wizard friend on the other hand saw nothing of worth and decided to sell his share of the loot for some cold, hard cash. While we have a game mechanic in the middle to workout the math, in game your character is salvaging the item you want. This provides an even footing for everyone playing while maintaining a wide variety of game options and treasure.

THE MASTER ITEM LOGSHEET

So, you have all this cool equipment but, how do you record it? That is where the master item logsheet comes into play. It records everything important that your character carries in a format that is easy for your DM to read. It will also verifies where you found or purchased each item, and if applicable, where you sold them. Before going into detail, let's go over some basic rules for the MIL.

- Keep your MIL up to date and legible. Your DM will appreciate when it is organized and easily read. If the validity of an item on your MIL is questionable, your DM may legitimately deny you from using it in the adventure. So, be proactive and have a neat sheet ready for inspection at the start of the game.
- When your MIL gets too cluttered and needs to be updated, print out a new one and copy everything over. Don't transfer items you no longer possess. Show both your old and new MILs to your DM. After verifying both copies match, your DM will sign the new sheet. Always keep your old MILs. Sometimes it is necessary to go back and check where items came from. Retaining your old paperwork makes this easier.
- Items listed on your MIL function as described according to their original source unless specified in a variant rule or errata. For example, if you have a converted sword of the rogue from "A Snake in the Grass," it still follows all the rules as described on the original certificate.
- Purchases from the Player's Handbook are not required to be listed on the master item logsheet. List these items legibly on your character sheet.
- If none of your items are required to be listed on an MIL, you are not required to have one. Show your DM your character sheet, and you are all set.

THE MASTER ITEM LOGSHEET, INCH-BY-INCH

"With a loud 'whoosh' the room erupted into fire. When it cleared only charred piles of ash remained of the orcs and the tables they had been hiding behind."

"Nice wand, Mialee. Where did ya get it?"

– Jozan, 593 CY

The master item logsheet shows all non-PHB equipment that your character currently carries. Step 6. Items Found During the Adventure in the AR section above covers what you purchase. Now let's go over how you record it. Each item listed on the master item logsheet shows where you gained access to it, where you purchased it and where, if applicable, you sold or lost it. Remember, in order for this system to work you must keep all your adventure certs and adventure records numbered and in order. Be proactive and be prepared.

The following page shows a sample copy of the master item logsheet. A copy of this document for your own use is available on the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign website at www.wizards.com/lg in the Downloads section. For now, let's look at the different sections and how they are used.

Each item section on the MIL has common elements. We'll examine the common elements first then look at individual sections in more detail below.

Item: The name of the item as it appears in the DMG or source document granting access to item.

Cost: The market value of the item listed.

Found AR #: List the source document granting access to this item. If the item was originally a year one certificate, write "Year 2" followed by the number of the AR the original converted cert is stapled to. If a metagame source grants access to the item, write "Meta" on the line and make sure you have your meta-org cert handy for reference. If you created the item, write "MIC #" to notify the DM you created the item yourself. The # sign is the AR to check for the paperwork. If access to the item is granted in this document, the LGCS, then write "LGCS."

Bought AR #: When purchasing items track the money spent here. In most cases the AR where you found an item is the same one where you purchased it. Sometimes you buy things at a later date. If the item was purchased before January 1, 2003 write, "Year 2" in this space.

Gone AR #: This field tracks items that have left your possession. If sold, record the AR # where the gold was added back to your gold piece total. Alternatively, you may have drunk a potion, exhausted a wand, or met a rust monster that divested you from the burden of armor. Any time you no longer have use of an item you must mark it gone and note the AR where it was used or disappeared. Now, let's examine the MIL in more detail.

1. Name and Verification Block

This section only needs to be completed when you first create an MIL sheet or rewrite an old one. Enter your characters name, your name, the date it was initially filled out and your RPGA number. The DM verifies the information is correct and validates the MIL. Validation requires a GMs signature and RPGA number.

2. Master Item Logsheet Number

Like your adventure records, each MIL has a number. The first logsheet is number one and the number increases each time it's rewritten. This process documents your characters progression. How often you rewrite you MIL is up to you, but never throw away an old one.

3. Location Based Item Sections

Certain items have limits on the number that can be used or equipped simultaneously. These sections represent these items. You may only equip one item of a certain type on at any one time. While you may have three cloaks, you can only use one at a time. With rings you may have two active at one time. You can also have one set of armor and one shield active at the same time. If you have more items listed than you can use at one time, you must note which you are currently using. Mark an * next to the active item. Unless you specifically tell the DM otherwise, it is assumed you are using your default equipment.

4. Miscellaneous Magic Items

Reusable magic items that aren't location based are listed here. Examples include a bag of holding, horn of blasting or pearl of power.

Disposable Magic Items: One Shots

Disposable magic items are listed here. The most common examples are scrolls and potions. With disposable items, if you plan to purchase items to exactly replace those used during the adventure after the session, you do not need to mark them off. This step prevents clutter on your MIL and simplifies your DMs job. You must keep records deemed satisfactory by the DM tracking items used during the session. DMs may legitimately strike items off your MIL and require you to write down again when you purchase replacements.

6. Wands, Staffs, & Other Charged Items

Any disposable item with more than one charge is recorded here. Common examples include wands, arrows or a robe of useful items. The other info section is for things such as caster level and metamagic feats used in a wand for example.

FINAL THOUGHTS ON THE MASTER ITEM LOGSHEET

The master item logsheet is pretty easy to fill out and easy to keep up to date. For non-casters it may only need to be updated two to three times a year. Casters need to update it more often but that is the price for creating your own magic items. If you do not have enough room on the sheet to record all your items, print another copy on the back of your existing sheet. That gives you twice the space with only one sheet to keep track of. Keep and eye on the website for MILs specialized by class in the near future.

Be sure to use the official LIVING GREYHAWK character sheet and MIL. Standardized documents make it easier on the DM. Using custom sheets means DMs must search for information and takes time away from play.

Chapter 5: Sourcebook and Metagame Policy

As both LIVING GREYHAWK and the DUNGEONS & DRAGONS game expand, new character options are introduced into the campaign. This chapter explains how game and metagame possibilities introduce rules expansions. Chiefly, these expansions are feats, items, spells, and prestige classes from the Living Greyhawk Journal and the new Complete and Races series of player guides (collectively known as core supplements). This chapter also addresses common metagame issues.

Material from any of the sources listed below is only allowed if specified in the following rules, contained in the D&D core rulebooks v.3.5, or permitted through campaign documentation.

A core rules v.3.5 update to material still legal in the campaign is included at the end of this chapter. As a reminder, the old "builder books" (the 3.0 class guidebooks) have been removed from the campaign.

A character may not take a feat or spell not found in the PHB until reaching third level. Exceptions to this rule are noted elsewhere in the LGCS.

The current printing of the following books and their published errata are considered core books for the campaign:

- Players Handbook v.3.5 (PHB)
- Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5 (DMG)
- Monster Manual v.3.5 (MM)
- Living Greyhawk JournalCampaign News (found in Dungeon Magazine) (LGJN)

The following sources and their published errata are used in the campaign but require campaign documentation for use by players. The book or article must be brought to the session by the person using them. After each book title is an abbreviation used later in this chapter. If something is not specifically named as useable from the following sources in this document then it cannot be used by players in the campaign without campaign documentation on an AR. Additional books may be usable by authors only. See the LIVING GREYHAWK Writers Guidelines for more details.

- Complete Warrior (CW)
- Complete Divine (CD)
- Complete Arcane (CA)
- Complete Adventurer (CV)
- Races of Stone (RS)
- Races of Destiny (RD)
- Races of the Wild (RW)
- Miniatures Handbook (MH)
- Frostburn (FB)
- Living Greyhawk Journal articles (LGJ)
- LIVING GREYHAWK web articles found on the RPGA Website. (LGWA)
- Dragon Magazine #315/#319 GREYHAWK feat articles (either D315 or D319)

All feats, spells and prestige classes from any non-core book source are broken down into one of following four categories.

- Core: Any character of 3rd level or higher who meets the requirements may take anything listed as core.
- Limited: A character must be 3rd level or higher and have some sort of campaign documentation to take anything in this category. Note that the Expanded Creation Options in Chapter 1 are considered campaign documentation.
- NPC Only: These are usable by authors only. They may not be possessed by player characters.
- Restricted: These are not used in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign.

If your character takes anything from a non-core book, then you must bring a copy of that book with you to every game where you play that character. Alternatively, you may bring a photocopy of the rules material you're specifically using, so long as you own the original book. You must inform the DM prior to play that your character has something from a non-core source and allow access to the documentation upon request.

FEATS

All non-core sourcebook feats fall into one of four categories. After each feat name is list rules source and, possibly, the name of the feat it replaces. If an entry lists more than one source, all are acceptable. You may not use an old source for a feat when a new source is listed.

Feats from Dragon #315/#319: These are special feats that have been graciously made available to the campaign by Paizo Publishing. As the information in Chapter 3 states, several of these feats can be selected at 1st level dependant upon a character's race or region. A few points are listed below to clarify the use and acquisition of these feats:

- The feats from these articles are listed below in the appropriate categories (most are limited). If a feat from one of the Dragon articles does not appear on the list in Chapter 3 for your race/region but appears below, you may consult your triad for ways in which your character may gain access to the feat (typically through adventure play or meta-organization membership).
- Your character's race and starting home region determine which feats that character has access. Switching regions does not grant access to a new set of regional feats.
- For every 2 ranks in Knowledge (local) for a specific metaregion you have, you may choose one region within that metaregion to give you the access listed on Table 3-3 in Chapter 3 for that region. For example, Dante's character Ulrin the Quick, an Oeridian human, has a starting home region of Dyvers. He may choose the following feats (looking at Human, Oeridian and Dyvers on Table 3-3): Born Follower, Noble Soul, Mercantile Background, Rapscallion, Rhennlore, and Well Read. In addition, Dante put 2 ranks in Ulrin's Knowledge (local [VTF metaregion]) skill. He selects Verbobonc (a region within the VTF metaregion) for access, and gains access to Elflore (he already had access to Mercantile Background and Well Read). At Ulrin's 3rd character level, Dante's invested 2 ranks of Knowledge (local [Iuz metaregion]), a different metaregion, and selects the Shield Lands. He gains access to Defensive Expert. Dante could have chosen to give Ulrin 2 more ranks in Knowledge (local [VTF metaregion]) instead, and picked Ekbir, Ket, Tusmit, or Veluna for access.

- Regional choices should be noted in the play notes section of the AR when the character invests the ranks in Knowledge (local). The DM should include a note like, "Feat Access: Furyondy," once the player has made a selection. The player must select a new region with every 2 ranks invested in Knowledge (local) at the time of skill rank selection or they receive no access for that particular skill rank investiture.
- Existing characters, as of the first printing of these feats in the LGCS (January 2005), that have ranks in Knowledge (local) may also select regions per the guidelines given above. If selections are not made by the beginning of a character's first adventure after March 1, 2005, no access is received for preexisting skill ranks.
- Once you've selected another region, your character is treated as though you're from that region for feat prerequisites. Your character only gains access to feats on Table 3-3, unless the character has regional or campaign documentation.
- There is one exception to the above rule: ranks in Knowledge (local [Core]) cannot give you access to feats from a core region. The only way to obtain access to those Non-core sourcebook spells fall into four categories. After each spell you will find the book it is from and possibly the name of the spell it replaces. If it lists more than one book then either is acceptable. You may not use an old source for a spell when a new source is listed.

Instant FAQ:

Can my wizard copy a non-core spell out of another PC's spellbook and have it noted in the play notes section on my adventure record?

NEW BASE CLASSES

All non-core sourcebook character classes fall into one of four categories. After each class you will find the book it is from and possibly the name of the class it replaces. If it lists more than one book then either is acceptable. You may not use an old source for a class when a new source is listed.

CORE CLASSES:

Favored sul (CD) Hexblade (CW) Marshal (MH) Scout (CV) Swashbuckler (CW) Warmage (CA)^t

LIMITED CLASSES: None

NPC ONLY CLASSES:

Healer (MH) Spellthief (CV) Spirit saman (CD) Warlock (CA)

RESTRICTED CLASSES:

Ninja (CV) Samurai (CW) Shugenja (CD) Wu jen (CA)

PRESTIGE CLASSES

Some prestige classes have special requirements that can be tough to adjudicate, or have been updated to v.3.5 of the rules. Below are some guidelines for prestige classes requiring adjustements followed by a complete list of available prestige classes.

- Alienist: This contact must be specifically listed in an adventure to count or gained through your local triad. Summoned or otherwise magically compelled creatures do not count.
- Battlesmith: Owning a dwarvencraft item (see Races of Stone) satisfies the special prerequisite of the prestige class. For purposes of the battlesmith's special abilities, using the Craft Magic Arms and Armor feat to enhance a warhammer or suit of armor counts as an item that the battlesmith has created.
- Bladesinger: Use the most current version of this prestige class as presented in Complete Warrior.
- Church Inquisitor: The corruption must be either specifically noted on an AR for an adventure or the triad has designated the occurrence as valid. Contact your local triad for more information.
- Consecrated Harrier: The assignment and its completion must be setup through your local triad.

- Contemplative: This contact must be specifically listed in an adventure with the god or gods it counts towards or gained through your local triad. Summoned or otherwise magically compelled creatures do not count.
- Cloud Anchorite: The retreat to a high-altitude wilderness environment costs 2 time units. This should be noted in the notes section of the next AR gained.
- Darkhagard: Make the following adjustments to update the prestige class to v.3.5:
 - o Replace the class skills Intuit Direction and Knowledge (navigation) with Knowledge (geography) and Survival.
 - o Change the uncanny swim (Ex) ability to, "Uncanny Swim (Ex): On a successful Swim check, a darkhagard may swim his full speed (as a full-round action) or one half of his speed (as a move action), failure indicating no progress. Furthermore, members of the darkhagard suffer normal armor check and encumbrance penalties to their Swim checks, rather than the double penalty most swimmers face."
- Deepwarden: The 2nd-level ability stone warden cannot give your character a higher AC bonus than that which is listed as the maximum Dexterity bonus to AC for the type of armor worn.
- Dragon Disciple: The type of dragon your character is depends on your alignment. This represents your dragon blood steering your life and beliefs in certain directions. Characters may only choose from the metallic dragons listed here without having campaign documentation. Characters may not change their alignment before taking a level in this class (must have been the same for at least 3 levels) and once the character takes a level in this prestige class their alignment cannot change unless something in the campaign forces a change.
 - o Lawful Good: Bronze, gold, silver
- o Lawful Neutral: Bronze, silver
- o Neutral Good: Brass
- o Neutral: None (must gain campaign documentation in play to take this class)
- o Chaotic Good: Brass, copper
- o Chaotic Neutral: None (must gain campaign documentation in play to take this class)
- Dread Pirate: Player character dread pirates must choose the path of an honorable pirate upon advancing to 2nd level in this class.
- Drunken Master: Being chosen by an existing drunken master and the night of revelry must be specifically mentioned on an AR.
- Dungeon Delver: Only the second method can be met in play. The DM has the discretion if the situation in the adventure meets this requirement and if so will note it on your AR. Method 1 and 3 must be requested through your local triad.
- Elemental Savant: This contact must be specifically listed in an adventure to count or gained through your local triad. Summoned or otherwise magically compelled creatures do not count.

- Green Star Adept: The sufficient quantity of starmetal must be acquired in normal play, and needs to appear as treasure on the AR. The ritual requires the spending of 1 time unit and 1,000 gp. This should be noted in the notes section of the next AR gained.
- Hunter of the Dead: (Scar of unlife) This must be recorded on an AR in the notes section. A level or ability score must be permanently drained in order to qualify. Temporary damage or level drain that is then offset by spellcasting before taking full effect do not count.
- Invisible Blade: This single combat must be setup • through your local triad and documented.
- Mage of the Arcane Order: Your local triad will provide information on where the initiation fee is to be paid.
- Menacing Brute: Use of the 2nd-level ability resourceful search does not allow you to keep the item gained at the end of the adventure.
- Nightsong Enforcer: The character must be affiliated with a thieves' guild or other organization (instead of the Nightsong Guild). Contact your local triad for details.
- Nightsong Infiltrator: The character must be affiliated with a thieves' guild or other such organization (instead of the Nightsong Guild). Contact your local triad details.
- Rainbow Servant: Contact your triad for information on meeting this special requirement.
- Reaping Mauler: Each qualifying combat must be documented on an AR in the notes section and happen during play.
- Sacred Exorcist: The special requirement must be met through a meta-org that specifically grants it or through your local triad.
- Seeker of the Misty Isle: This invite must be noted on an AR as a special reward or the invite can come from another player at your table and noted in the notes and signed off by the DM.
- Seeker of the Song: Another seeker of the song must be met in normal play and noted in the notes section on your AR.

- Shadowbane Inquisitor: This prestige class upholds the ideals specified in the text, but is not part of the Order of Illumination (this knightly order does not exist in Living Greyhawk).
- Shadowbane Stalker: This prestige class upholds the ideals specified in the text but is not part of the Order of Illumination (this knightly order does not exist in LIVING GREYHAWK).
 - Silent Ones: Make the following adjustments to update the prestige class to v.3.5:
- o Mask of Cymius ability allows disguise self at will, not change self at will.
- Spellsword: This must be met in normal play and noted in the notes section on your AR.
- Stonelord: The ritual requires the spending of 5 time units and 1,000 gp. This should be noted in the notes section of the next AR gained.
- Temple Raider of Olidammara: Contact your triad for information on being invited into this prestige class.
- Veth: Make the following adjustments to update the prestige class to v.3.5:
- o Under requirements, replace Scry 8 ranks with Spellcraft 8 ranks.
- o Under class skills, replace Innuendo, Knowledge (Nyr Dyv), and Scry with Bluff, Sense Motive, Knowledge (geography), and Knowledge (arcana).
- o Modify the reading the lake ability: Remove all mention of the scry ability or the scry check. The base chance of success on the reading is 70% + 1% per caster level, to a maximum of 90%.
- Wayfarer Guide: Contact the triads for detials..

Each prestige class in the DMG, the class guidebooks, the Complete books, or the Living Greyhawk Journal is designated as either a Core, Limited, NPC Only, or Restricted. After each prestige class is book it is from and possibly the name of the prestige class it replaces. If it lists more than one book then either is acceptable. You may not use an old source for a prestige class when a new source is listed.

Chapter 6: Beyond the Core Rules

This chapter clarifies some rules presented in the D&D core rulebooks v.3.5 that must be altered or expanded due to the needs of our play environment. This clarification includes the role of animals that are brought on adventures, the use of the Leadership feat, spells and magic items that need additional clarification or rules to be used in the campaign, and how to handle character death and NPC spellcasting in core adventures.

ADVENTURING ANIMALS

This section clarifies the use of animals in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign. These rules expand those found in the D&D core rules v.3.5 and only supersede those rules when explicitly stated.

You are responsible for reading and understanding these rules and the rules in the three core rulebooks on which they're based. If you are playing a character that brings animals on adventures, it is your responsibility to have appropriate documentation for these animals prepared for inspection and use by your DM. This documentation must include the complete stat block for the animal as well as any tricks that it knows.

Unless stated otherwise in these rules or in the Player's Handbook v.3.5, animals and magical beasts that accompany your character on adventures have the average hit points listed within their description in the Monster Manual v.3.5.

Animal Categories

There are two basic animal types that you can bring into play: magical beasts gained by way of class abilities (such as a paladin's mount, animal companions, or a spellcaster's familiar), and domesticated animals. Animals fall into two behavioral categories: trained and wild (see below).

Familiars and Paladin Mounts: Familiars and paladins' mounts are not normal creatures. They are intelligent magical beasts, not animals, and thus do not need to be trained. Familiars and mounts can respond to any command they are physically capable of performing. Your DM has the final say on what is the reasonable use of a familiar or special mount. You cannot choose an evil familiar.

Standard familiars are acquired as per the rules found on Player's Handbook v.3.5 page 52. You may pay the 100 gp for magical materials during character creation or at some point later, but the fact that you paid that cost and gained a familiar must appear in the play notes of your next adventure record. Unless you have campaign or regional documentation that grants you expanded familiar choices, you may only pick one of the standard familiars listed on page 52 in the Player's Handbook v.3.5, or (when appropriate) those granted by the Improved Familiar feat found in Complete Warrior or the Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5. Paladins' mounts are acquired as per the rules found in the Player's Handbook *v.*3.5, page 45. In the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign, small paladins may choose a riding dog (page 196 of the *Monster Manual v.*3.5) instead of the standard warpony. A paladin's mount starts with the average hit points for the particular base animal as listed in the *Monster Manual v.*3.5. For each bonus Hit Dice a paladin's mount receives, it gains 5 plus their Constitution modifier in extra hit points. Special mounts not covered here require regional or campaign documentation. Gaining a paladin's mount must appear on the play notes of your next adventure record. The warhorse is a normal animal that becomes a magical beast when it is called. As such, it only has the skills and feats of a normal warhorse. The warhorse does not advance as a magical beast, it advances as a paladin's mount.

If a familiar is dismissed or slain, such an occurrence must be reported on the play notes of the adventure record of the adventure that event took place. These magical beasts cannot be replaced until 52 TUs (or one real year) of the character's play have passed from the point that it was either slain or dismissed. A lost paladin's mount follows the rules in the Player's Handbook v.3.5 for replacement.

Animal Companions: Animal companions are normal or dire animals that share a strengthened bond with a druid or ranger. This companion is treated as a normal animal (it is not a magical beast). For complete rules see page 36 in the Player's Handbook v.3.5. To determine an animal companion's level when your character has both ranger and druid levels, add half the ranger level to the druid level once it has at least 4 levels of ranger. Otherwise, use the standard rules. You may not take a dinosaur animal companion without campaign or regional documentation.

Starting Companion: Only 1st-level druids start with an animal companion. They choose from the list on page 35 of the Player's Handbook v.3.5.

Changing Animal Companions: You can change your base animal companion each adventure you play if you desire, as long as you prepare appropriate documentation before playing.

AdvancingAnimalCompanions: Animalcompanions advance using the rules laid out in the PHB. They do not gain anything (larger size, etc.) that is not specifically mentioned in the PHB.

Tricks: Your animal companion at the start of an adventure can be trained with its full compliment of tricks (3 for every point of Intelligence plus bonus tricks as indicated in the PHB). The list of animal companion tricks is on page 74 of the Player's Handbook v.3.5 under Handle Animal. Special tricks (ones not listed in the PHB) are only allowed by way of campaign or regional documentation.

Non-Standard Animal Companions: You must have campaign documentation to have an animal companion that is not listed in the Player's Handbook v.3.5. You must also have a level adjustment associated with your animal companion for purposes of determining the companion's characteristics and special abilities. Contact the triad that issued the special animal companion for more details if needed.

The following rules apply to added HD to any creature that might be brought along on an adventure as well as items they are allowed to wear. DMs are allowed to make exceptions in certain situations.

- They gain I skill point per Hit Dice as they level (Why? Their Int is so low, the modifier drops it to less than one, or one).
- They gain I feat per 3 Hit Dice as anyone else. These feats can only be taken from the PHB or the MM. All prerequisites apply. Additionally, the animal may not qualify for all of the MM feats. All of these feats are core for the creature.
- Unless the AR says otherwise, they do not gain feats from any other source. Most ARs say, "You may gain a feat from source X..." not "You or your companion..."
- Unless an approved rules source explicitly states an item is usable by animala, animal companion, mount or familiar,s these creatures only use these item types:
 - A. One suit of barding
 - B. One collar, necklace or other neck gear
 - C. One cloak.

Domesticated Animals: Most animals you can buy and adventure with are trained to some extent. These animals include those listed on Table 7-8 of the Player's Handbook v.3.5. The Handle Animal skill can be used to further train these animals.

Almost all of these animals (except donkeys and mules) can perform the basic attack trick, detailed on page 74 of the PHB under Handle Animal. You must be riding a horse or a pony in order for it to follow the attack command. Commanding an animal to perform a trick is a move action and pushing an animal is a full-round action (see Handle Animal for more details). A druid or ranger can command an animal companion to perform a trick as a free action and push it as a standard action.

When you buy an animal, you may pick an extra trick for each point of Intelligence the animal has. You must pick the tricks from page 74 of the PHB under Handle Animal. For the riding dog, you may either pick two tricks or use these trick slots to make the dog trained for fighting and granting them a trip attack (as specified in the riding dog entry in the Monster Manual v.3.5). Animals gained that start play with more than the standard training must be supported with campaign or regional documentation.

Characters with the Handle Animal skill can train their animals further. To do so you must have the ability to train the animal type desired (see skill description, PHB page 74), and spend I TU to teach one animal one trick. You must succeed at a Handle Animal check (DC varies – see skill description) after the TU cost is paid. A failed check means the animal isn't trained. You are not able to attempt another check until after you have played another regional adventure. You may not take 20.

Animals and the APL

If you bring domesticated animals that have been trained for fighting and your DM determines that such animals are a boon for the particular adventure (usually war horses and riding dogs), use Table 6-1 to determine the number of effective levels added to your character level for determining the APL. You may only use four or fewer animals of this type. Animals with different CRs are determined separately using the chart below; then, take the highest CR animal (or animals) and add 2 (drop fractions). This result is the effective character level for a mixed-CR group of animals. Determining a party's APL is described in each adventure, but we have also included it in the Glossary at the end of this document for your convenience.

THE LEADERSHIP FEAT

The Leadership feat allows you to gain a single cohort, a skilled adventuring sidekick to share your adventures, as well as an assortment of other followers. Your cohort may accompany you on regional, metaregional, core and core special LIVING GREYHAWK adventures as long as you follow the rules for their inclusion (see below). Your followers only come into play during special events and only if those events explicitly allow them.

Cohort Inclusion in an Adventure

You may include your cohort in the play of standard LIVING GREYHAWK sessions if and only if there are four or five players participating in that adventure. At most, six adventurers, be they characters or cohorts, can participate in a LIVING GREYHAWK adventure. A cohort may only participate in an adventure if there is an open slot at the session and no RPGA member wishes to participate to fill that place. If more than one player wishes to bring a cohort but there are not enough openings, one or more of player must leave their cohort at home. If players wishing to bring cohorts cannot decide who leaves their cohort at home, the DM is free to rule that no cohorts are allowed.

A cohort at a table counts as a character in every respect. So, for example, their level is included in the APL calculation, and they can be targeted by NPCs within the event and might actually end up being the lead character in the story in certain situations.

Designing Your Cohort

Cohorts are designed and restricted exactly like LIVING GREYHAWK characters using the current LIVING GREYHAWK character creation rules – with the following exceptions:

Step 1: Ability Scores-Cohorts only have 22 points to spend on ability scores.

Step 2: Race, Class, Deity, and Alignment

Level: The starting level of your cohort is determined by your Leadership score as described in the Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5, page 106. You can only modify your Leadership score for determining cohort level using the modifications listed under 'The Leader . . .' on page 106 unless you have special regional or campaign documentation specifically granting other modifiers. Cohorts begin play with the minimum experience points for their starting level.

Starting Gold: Use Table 4-23: NPC Gear Value on page 127 of the DMG to determine your cohort's starting gold.

Step 3: Hit Points-No changes.

Step 4: Feats–Your cohort can never gain a cohort of his own via the Leadership feat.

Step 5: Equipment–You may purchase your cohort's equipment from the list of available items for your character. Cohorts may not spend more than half of their starting gold (see above) on a single item during cohort creation but may buy items normally after that point. You are not required to use the suggested starting NPC items listed in the DMG.

Step 6: Home Region–The cohort must have the same home region as the lead character at all times.

Cohort Advancement and Special Cohorts

Cohorts advance the same way as any LIVING GREYHAWK character. They gain adventure records and can hold special item and favor certificates. Like all characters, they have and spend time units. At the end of an adventure they gain a half share of treasure and experience points (note: they may never be within one level or higher than a character they are a cohort of and lose any experience points gained in an adventure that would put them in such a position). You must keep track of your cohort's advancement and play in the same way that you keep track of your character's advancement.

Even under the best of circumstances it is hard for a cohort to keep up with their leader. Each time the character that has the leadership feat gains a level you will recalculate your leadership score and set your cohorts level to this number. In some cases this will not result in the cohort going up levels each time your character does. The cohort's new gp total is set to the appropriate amount per Table 4-23: NPC Gear Value found on page 127 of the DMG minus all equipment currently owned (the total gp value of the cohort cannot be greater than the amount of Table 4-23). If the cohort currently has more gold than listed for his level in the DMG, it loses any extra. Cohorts are only updated when the character with the feat levels.

Due to this system, there are some additional rules that go with having a cohort. A cohort cannot take or use any magic item creation feats. If the character has a class that gives a magic item creation feat for free then they cannot use it. A cohort cannot have more than 10% of its total wealth wrapped up in consumable items at any one time. When a cohort's gp value is adjusted for gaining a level, the cohort must use this in purchasing permanent magic items only. It can then use gold gained in further adventures on consumables (keeping the 10% cap in mind).

If your cohort dies, it can be brought back from the dead in the same manner that a character. If you choose not to bring your character back from the dead, you can attract another cohort at an expense—500 gp and 4 TUs as you search the land to find a new loyal sidekick. Also remember that if the DM believes that the cohort's death was your fault you suffer a -2 penalty to your Leadership score from that point forward. If you no longer need the services of your cohort you may dismiss him. When you next look for a cohort you must spend 500 gp and 4 TUs as your search the land for a new loyal sidekick. You suffer a one time -1 penalty to your Leadership score when determining the level of your new cohort since you have earned the reputation as a fickle leader.

Special cohorts, as described in the Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5, Defenders of the Faith: A Guidebook to Clerics and Paladins or other D&D sources, are only granted by way of regional or campaign documentation.

Level Loss and Cohorts

If you lose enough levels so you are within two levels or at an equal or lower level than your cohort, your cohort does not abandon you, but the cohort does not adventure with you until you regain the lost levels. However, if the character ever drops below 6th level (therefore losing the Leadership feat), the cohort immediately abandons you disheartened by your failure.

Playing Cohorts in Living Greyhawk

Cohorts, like most folk, enjoy their own possessions and believe that their items belong to them. They only give over one of their own items to a character in the direst of circumstance. A cohort must be played during a session in order for a character to use their items and not at the expense of the cohorts own wealth or person. A DM is free to override any exchange that treats the cohort as a magic item factory and not the trusted ally that they are. At the end of the adventure, all the cohort's wealth and items revert back to the cohort.

Cohorts are played by the player but must always be played as secondary characters. A player with a cohort does not get twice the attention of the DM or the other characters. DMs may take over playing a cohort when they feel it is played in an unrealistic fashion. DMs should only taking over a cohort in the most unusual situations.

Followers in Living Greyhawk

For most intents and purposes, followers gained from the leadership feat are not used in LIVING GREYHAWK. They are mostly roleplaying flavor existing in the background of your character. Since some special events and interactives involve followers in various fashions, you may create your followers in detail if you wish. Followers use the same creations rules as cohorts with the following changes:

The only equipment they are allowed to purchase is out of the PHB.

They may not loan or be loaned equipment. They are simple guards and such. Not adventurers.

CHARACTER DEATH AND BACK AGAIN

The life of an adventurer is a dangerous one and sometimes bad things happen that you would like to undo. Character death, level loss or ability score loss are hard burdens to accept even for the best of us. Since Oerth is a magical world, these problems can be undone—for a price. The following rules are the standards for bringing your character or cohort back from the brink.

LIVING GREYHAWK CHARACTER DEATH RULES

No Wills: Under no circumstances may the possessions of a dead character or cohort make their way into the hands of another character. The death of a comrade is a tragedy not a yard sale.

Plot Item Exception: If a dead character or cohort is carrying a special item vital to the plot of the adventure where the character died, the item may be transferred to another character at the DM's discretion.

Player Directed Restoration: Only the player of a dead character or cohort is allowed to direct the disposition of their character's corps—including any arrangements for restoration. If they want to stay dead, the other players at the session cannot force the issue.

Must Be Resolved at the Session: When a character or cohort dies, their fate must be resolved at the session where the death occurred. A player may use his or her character's wealth (if the items survived the attack that killed the character) to facilitate spellcasting that will restore the character. Players may enlist monetary aid from other characters or cohorts only during the session where the death occurred to gain such spellcasting. If the spellcasting requirements cannot be met during that session, the character is permanently dead. All the character's adventure records, along with its cohort's (if any), are handed to the DM. As the representative of the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign staff in these instances, the DM destroys or voids these records (player's choice). At multi-session events, the Senior GM may want to establish a GM in charge of character death appeals. Ideally, this GM is a ranked Grand Master or higher by the RPGA and is not running an adventure during any slot that he or she is designated as Appeals GM. If an alternate is not assigned this role, the Senior GM for the event is the Appeals GM. When a player believes that his or her character's death was due to a DM's mistaken call, he or she may ask for a second opinion from the Appeals GM. The player and the session DM are each five, uninterrupted minutes to explain their point of view. Thereafter, the Appeals GM makes a decision. The Appeals GM's ruling is final, and you must abide by that decision.

Charity of Friends Clause

If your character was revived but died in such a way that it lost all its equipment, you may enlist the charity of friends. This gives the character one-fourth the total from Table 5-1: Character Wealth by Level from page 135 in the Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5 or all of your character's coin value from your last adventure record— whichever is greater. The charity of friends clause may also be used if the character does not die but loses all of its equipment (such as being enveloped completely by an acidic creature).

Wizards may opt to discard 33% of this charity to create a new spellbook identical to their former spellbook or take the full charity and rebuild their spell book by way of scrolls. This charity represents family and friends chipping in to help get you back on your feet. No player at the session is allowed to contribute to this amount and no players actually adjust their gold on hand total.

DM Note: It is in your discretion on what losing all possessions entails. If the character's horse survives then obviously he has still lost everything. You can declare that any minor surviving gear is lost and let the player invoke the Charity of Friends Clause.

NPC-PERFORMED SPELLCASTING

If characters are incapable of casting a desired spell during a game session, they may opt to have an NPC cast the spell. This is expensive but straightforward.

Each region in LIVING GREYHAWK should have its own rules for NPC spellcasting available on their website detailing NPC spellcasting. For all core, metaregional, or regional adventures where the triad has not detailed regionspecific rules for NPC spellcasting, use the following rules:

Default Cost: Determine the size of the settlement the characters have access to in the adventure (Table 6-2). Characters pay NPCs for restorative spells according to Table 6-3.

Influence Points/Favors: Influence Points may not be used to reduce these costs unless the cert states a specific circumstance and the DM rules that it applies in this case.

Adventure Specific Costs: A LIVING GREYHAWK adventure may have situations that override these rules. For example, the text of the adventure may detail an NPC who owes a favor to the characters for services rendered and agrees to cast certain spells for a reduced cost. These situations written into an adventure take precedent over rules presented here.

Determine Level of Caster Available: Depending on Table 6-2: Town Size and Spellcaster Level

Town Size	Spellcaster Lev
Village or Smaller (0-900 people)	3rd
Small Town (901-2000)	5th
Large Town (2001-5000)	9th
Small City (5001-12,000)	11th
Large City or bigger (12,001 – and up)	13th the adventure, a spellcaster of the needed level may or may not be available. Review Table 6-2 to determine what level spellcaster is available by the size of the settlement detailed in the adventure text. If a higher-level spellcaster is written into the adventure, that NPC may be used instead. When the adventure does not specify what size settlements are close at hand, the DM is encouraged to make his best guess and go with it. All spells are assumed to be cast at the minimum level needed to cast them. Adjust the cost appropriately if the players wish them cast at a higher level.

Spell Costs

The spells on Table: 6-3 may be cast by NPCs under a DM's control. Regional rules and individual adventure text may override these costs.

¹ There are two ways to pay for raise dead. First, pay the cost as listed and receive the benefits of the spell. Second, pay all of your gold on hand except 100 gp up front (minimum 2,000 gp – you may sell items as normal to pay this cost) and 5 TUs. The remaining balance must be paid out of future adventure earnings as quickly as possible (all gold earned from future adventures, after lifestyle costs and other mandatory costs, must go towards this debt until it is fully paid off). If you do not have enough TUs, you may spend TUs from the next campaign year to meet this requirement. This payment represents working off your debt with the church and coming up with more funds to pay them. Others at the session may chip in gold to help offset either method of payment. You are not required to pay upkeep on TUs spent in this fashion. Only one debt of this fashion is permitted at any one time.

LYCANTHROPY

During your character's many adventures, it is possible to pick up a few nasty curses. No curse can destroy party chemistry faster than lycanthropy. A trusted comrade turning on the party in the middle of a tough battle is more than most parties can take. The following rules apply to those who currently have or may acquire this disease.

- A player whose character is afflicted with lycanthropy must inform the DM of such before the adventure starts. Failure to do so will cost the character 20% of the XP and gp earned in that adventure.
- If the adventure does not specify whether there is a full moon, then the DM rolls a d10 before play starts. If it result is a 1, there is a full moon during this adventure.
- A PC can become aware of this affliction by making a Wisdom check (DC 15) after changing back or by having a fellow party member witness and report the change to the character.
- Once characters are aware of having the disease, they must attempt to remove it. If they neglect this attempt, their alignment shifts to that of the were-creature after the next change and they become NPCs under the DM's control. Mark the character's adventure records void and remove the character from the campaign.
- Check your triad's website for regional information on having this curse removed from characters. If your triad does not have rules on it then use the following core rules.
- o An afflicted character who eats a sprig of belladonna (also called wolfsbane) within an hour of a lycanthrope's attack can attempt a Fortitude save (DC 20) to shake off the affliction. If a healer administers the herb, use the character's save or the healer's Heal modifier whichever is higher. The character only gets one chance no matter how much belladonna is consumed. The belladonna must be reasonably fresh (picked within the last week). Any town of decent size (2,000+ people) has belladonna for sale (5 gp). A Survival check (DC 14) allows characters to find some. However, fresh or not, belladonna is toxic. The character must succeed at a Fortitude save (DC 13) or take initial damage of 1d6 points of temporary Strength damage. One minute later the character must succeed at a second save or take an additional 2d6 points of temporary Strength damage.

- o If the player cannot have the curse removed in the adventure and it is within three days of contracting lycanthropy, a remove disease or heal spell cast by a 12th-level priest will remove it. This costs 360 and 720 gp respectively and 1 TU. This cost may be modifies using an appropriate cert or if the player has another way to cast the spell.
- o If three days pass, lycanthropy is much harder to remove. Afflicted characters must seek out a caster to cast remove curse or break enchantment on them while the moon is full. Once a caster is found, the afflicted character must spend either 150 gp or 450 gp respectively, and 4 TUs. This payment allows the character to make a Will save (DC 20). Characters failing this save must spend the necessary gp and TUs to attempt another save.
- o The character must continue this process until making the save or running out of money. Other players at the session may donate money to help pay this cost. Characters unable to pay 150 gp are assumed to be performing menial tasks for the church to help pay this service.
- o Characters running out of TUs are finished being played for the year. Once TUs reset on January 1 of the next year, they can try to remove the curse once again.

GEOMETERS

The geometer prestige class (from Complete Arcane) allows a character to create spellglyphs, which can be used at a later time. Spellglyphs are made using Magic Item Creation (Chapter 7) and work like creating scrolls (except their cost is only the spell level x 25 gp). A geometer can create a spellglyph of any spell known. Spellglyphs never cost XP to create; up to 5 may be created before the start of a qualifying adventure (see Chapter 7) with the expenditure of one TU and the applicable gold.

COLDFIRE

Coldfire is a spell component used in several spells from Frostburn, an environmental supplement. Ounces of coldfire must be found in an adventure and listed on the AR in order for a character to purchase this component.

XP EXPENDITURE FOR SPELLS

For each adventure round played, a character, and any other spellcasters that are controlled by a player (such as a cohort), has a maximum total amount of XP that can be spent for spellcasting. This total is equal to $50 \times APL$ for one spell. A character cannot cast spells totaling more than the XP cap for the adventure round. So, for example, a wizard playing an adventure at APL 10 would have a maximum XP cap of 500 XP for spellcasting purposes; this cap is the most the wizard may spend on XP-draining magic (or one spell could be cast above this XP cap). Note that this number represents the total amount of XP that can be spent between all characters under the control of an individual player (so, there is no separate XP expenditure tracking for a cohort, for example). Magic item creation is unaffected by this rule.

SPELL CLARIFICATIONS

Due to the nature of LIVING games, some spells need changes to work properly within the framework of the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign. There are some basic ground rules to discuss before describing specific spells.

- No spell or ability may generate a benefit that extends beyond the end of the play session unless documentation exists to allow it.
- In a multi-round adventure, a spell effect may extend into the next rounds if appropriate (DM's call).
- Players must have documentation during a session when casting any of the spells listed below.
- We recommended DMs keep the current campaign standard on hand for easy reference during games.
- The rules for the spells below are retroactive. If you somehow cast a wish spell to give yourself a +1 inherent stat bonus or cast greater planar binding to summon a being to give you a million gp for its freedom, those bonuses go away.

Clone

The clone spells creates a body for wizards or sorcerers that their soul inhabits upon their death. As a permanent effect that resolves at a later date, the follow rules apply.

- Wizards or sorcerers may use this spell to create a clone of themselves only.
- The caster must spend 12 TUs and 1,000 gp when casting this spell.
- The players must inform DMs at the start of each play session that they have clones.
- Once dead, the characters soul enters the body of the clone. Characters lose one level as if resurrected. Characters unable to rejoin the party are effectively out of the adventure.
- If out of the adventure, casters only gains XP and gp up to the point they died. If they can rejoin the party, they gains XP and gp as normal.
- If surviving party members recover the deceased's gear, it retains possession of all surviving equipment. If no party members survive or cannot recover the gear, the caster loses everything and can invoke the charity of friends clause found earlier in this chapter.
- At the start of each new campaign year, casters of the clone spell must spend 6 TUs keeping their clones up-to-date or loose them and start again.
- The DM records a character's use of this spell in the play notes of the adventure record when it is cast.

Drawmij's Instant Summons

This spell places a mark on an item and enables the PC to summon it. Since this is effect permanent until discharged, the follow rules apply.

- Wizards or sorcerers may use this spell on any item currently listed on their MIL or character sheet. It may not be cast on another PC or NPC's possessions.
- When first cast, the caster must spend 1,000 gp for the gem. The gem remains on the PC until the spell is activated at which time the gem is destroyed.
- The DM records when this spell is cast and the name of the item marked in the adventure record play notes.

Fabricate

The use of this spell allows the caster to create a permanent item. The following rules apply.

- The DM decides if the item created requires a Craft check or not. The DM uses the chart listed with the Craft skill to determine the DC if necessary.
- The item remains for the duration of the adventure and then goes away. It is not a permanent item.
- The item may not be sold to increase the amount of gp earned in the adventure.

Gate

Due to the powerful nature of this spell and its many variables, the follow rules apply.

- The gate created may be used for planar travel or calling creatures. The caster must pick one or the other when casting this spell.
- When used for planar travel the DM adjudicates whether the destination is valid based on the adventure being played.
- If used to call a creature, only a single creature is called. You must choose an immediate task for it as it will not perform contractual service unless you have campaign documentation allowing you to do so.
- In the case of scrolls or other magic devices that allow the casting of this spell, the caster level for purposes of controlling the summoned creature is the caster level of the PC.
- A known unique creature may only be called if it meets one of the following qualifications: a PC currently at the table is on another plane, a NPC or creature listed in the adventure is currently on another plane, the player has special campaign documentation allowing a specific being to be called.
- If a type of creature is desired, the PC may summon a creature with the type outsider from the Monster Manual v.3.5. It has standard HD for its type.
- For purposes of control, the caster may summon a creature type with standard HD up to the caster level safely. For each HD the creature has above the caster's level, there is a 10% cumulative chance the summoned type is too strong to control. This represents the wide range in HD for stronger outsiders. If the creature is not controlled, it is under the control of the DM and will act appropriately. Note: A PC caster is responsible for the actions of the creature summoned. When summoning something that destroys a village, the character pays the price.

Greater Planar Ally

This spell requires negotiation between the summoned creature and the PC. The following rules will apply when using this spell.

- When priests cast this spell, their deity sends a single elemental or outsider of no greater than 18 HD or up to three identical creatures whose total HD do not exceed 18 to answer the call. These creatures must have the same alignment as the character's god (elementals are automatically the same alignment) and be listed in Monster Manual v.3.5 (no appendixes or templates).
- You may not call a named creature without campaign documentation.
- The bargaining process with the creature takes 1d8 rounds minus the Intelligence bonus of the caster (minimum 1 round).
- The caster must choose the task that needs performed during the bargaining and determine how long the task should take. DMs is free to increase or decrease this time at their discretion.
- The DM determines if the task is non-hazardous (50% normal cost), normal, hazardous (150% normal cost) or suicidal (will not accept).
- If the DM believes the task is strongly aligned with that of the caster's god, the DM can reduce the final cost, as calculated above, by an additional 50%. (Minimum of 25% normal cost).
- At this point the caster must either accept the agreement and pay the agreed sum or refuse and end the spell. The caster must pay the 500 XP regardless of the outcome of the spell.
- The players at the table may all chip in to cover the cost of this spell.
- Writers' Note: Creatures summoned prior to a fight using this spell must be included when calculating the EL of a combat.

Leomund's Secret Chest

As this spell has a duration that is longer than a standard LIVING GREYHAWK event, the following rules apply.

- The foci for this spell are a large chest and a smaller replica that cost 5,050 gp. This cost must be paid when the spell is first cast. Record these items on your MIL as they may be reused.
- The chest is the standard chest size from the Players Handbook v.3.5. The player must keep a separate, legible list of what is stored in the chest and provide it to the DM on request.
- Players must inform DMs they have an active Leomund's secret chest at the beginning of a session.

• The chest lasts for 8 TUs before expiring. The adventure record that it is first recorded on does not count as one of those TUs.

Limited Wish

- Any spell duplicated must come from a core source or the character must have access to it in some fashion.
- Characters must pay at least 300 XP when casting this spell (see the spell description for more details).

Lesser Planar Ally

This spell requires negotiation between the summoned creature and the PC. The following rules apply when using this spell.

- When priests cast this spell, their deity sends a single elemental or outsider of no greater than 6 HD to answer the call. This creature must have the same alignment as the character's god (elementals are automatically the same alignment) and be listed in Monster Manual v.3.5 (no appendixes or templates).
- You may not call a named creature without campaign documentation.
- The bargaining process with the creature takes 1d8 rounds minus the Intelligence bonus of the caster (minimum 1 round).
- The caster must choose the task that needs performed during the bargaining and determine how long the task should take. DMs are free to increase or decrease this time at their discretion.
- The DM determines if the task is non-hazardous (50% normal cost), normal, hazardous (150% normal cost) or suicidal (will not accept).
- If the DM believes the task is strongly aligned with that of the caster's god, the DM can reduce the final cost, as calculated above, by an additional 50%. (Minimum of 25% normal cost)
- At this point the caster must either accept the agreement and pay the agreed sum or refuse and end the spell. The caster must pay the 100 XP regardless of the outcome of the spell.
- The players at the table may all chip in to cover the cost of this spell.
- Writers' Note: Creatures summoned prior to a fight using this spell must be included when calculating the EL of a combat.

Miracle

Miracle is one of the most powerful spells and also one of the easiest to abuse in the campaign. The following list contains the rules for using the miracle spell in the LIVING GREYHAWK Campaign.

The miracle spell may do any of the following:

- Duplicate any cleric spell of 8th level or lower, including spells to which you have access because of your domain.
- Duplicate any other spell of 7th level or lower.
- Any spell duplicated must come from a core source or the character must have access to it in some fashion.

- Undo the harmful effects of many other spells, such as feeblemind, geas/quest, bestow curse, or insanity.
- Remove injuries and afflictions. A single miracle can aid one creature per caster level and all subjects must be cured of the same type of affliction. For example, the character could heal all the damage the character's party has suffered or remove all the poison effects from the party but not do both with the same miracle. A miracle can never restore the experience point loss from casting a spell or the level or Constitution loss from being raised from the dead.
- Transport travelers. A miracle can lift one creature per caster level from anywhere on any plane and place these creatures anywhere else on any plane regardless of local conditions. An unwilling target gets a Will save to negate and SR.
- ¹ Undo misfortune. A miracle can undo a single recent event. The miracle forces a reroll of any roll made within the last round (including the character's last turn). Reality reshapes itself to accommodate the new result. For example, the miracle could undo an opponent's successful save, a foe's successful critical hit (either the attack roll or the critical roll), a friend's failed save and so on. The reroll, however, may be as bad as or worse than the original roll. An unwilling target gets a Will save to negate and SR.

In any event, a request that is out of line with the caster's deity's nature is refused.

Caster may not use the option to pick something beyond the list above. They must choose something from that list when the spell is cast. They may not use a miracle spell to cast a spell that is restricted in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign.

Duplicated spells allow saves and SR as normal (but save DCs are for 9th-level spells). When miracle duplicates a spell that has an XP cost, the character must pay that cost. When miracle duplicates a spell with a material component that costs more than 100 gp, the character must provide that component.

Mirror Image

This spell creates illusionary duplicates of the caster. All of these duplicates occupy the same square (or squares) as the caster. Once an attacker has determined which is the real caster amongst the images, that opponent, and only that opponent, may continue to attack the caster without a chance of hitting an image instead. Casters may move within the images as a free action on their turn to once again confuse the attacker as to which is the real caster.

Planar Ally

This spell requires negotiation between the summoned creature and the PC. The following rules apply when using this spell.

• When priests cast this spell, their deity sends a single elemental or outsider of no greater than 12 HD or two identical creatures who total HD does not exceed 12 to answer the call. These creatures must have the same alignment as the character's god (elementals are automatically the same alignment) and be listed in Monster Manual v.3.5 (no appendixes or templates).

- You may not call a named creature without campaign documentation.
- The bargaining process with the creature takes 1d8 rounds minus the Intelligence bonus of the caster (minimum 1 round).
- The caster must choose the needed task during the bargaining and determine how long how long the task should take. DMs are free to increase or decrease this time at their discretion.
- The DM determines if the task is non-hazardous (50% normal cost), normal, hazardous (150% normal cost) or suicidal (will not accept).
- If the DM believes the task is strongly aligned with that of the caster's god, the DM can reduce the final cost, as calculated above, by an additional 50%. (Minimum of 25% normal cost)
- At this point the caster must either accept the agreement and pay the agreed sum or refuse and end the spell. The caster must pay the 250 XP regardless of the outcome of the spell.
- The players at the table may all chip in to cover the cost of this spell.
- Writers' Note: Creatures summoned prior to a fight using this spell must be included when calculating the EL of a combat.

Plane Shift

The focus for this spell is a small, forked metal rod. These rods are not readily available and must be found during play. The caster starts with the rod for the Material Plane (Oerth) only and gains access to others via campaign documentation.

When plane shift is cast on an unwilling character that lacks the means to return, it requires time units and gold for them to get back home. The character must spend 6 time units and 1,000 gp. This represents the time spent traveling as well as bribes, food, and other costs associated with getting home. Until the time units and gold are spent the character is removed from play.

Players may also request a special mission for this character's return hom. If the mission isn't granted, then the only option available is the one listed above.

Polymorph

Due to its complex nature, this spell needs some further clarification to operate with minimal problems in the campaign.

• You can only become a creature one class size larger than your normal form. You may take a form no smaller than Fine sized. If a spell increases your size and another spell tries to increase your size again it fails (the rest of the spell works it just does not change your size). This size restriction does not apply to wild shape which has its own size restrictions size, however, the use of wild shape is subject to size-stacking rule mentioned above.

- Equipment does not resize. If you change size, only items in the following slots continue to function normally: cloak, amulet/brooch and weapons. All other items either fall off or are absorbed into your new form (and cease to function).
- Only base creatures from the MM are allowed. Creatures with templates, advanced versions of base creatures and creatures not in the MM are not allowed without campaign documentation. For lycanthropes, you cannot change into their hybrid form.
- Unless specifically listed as exceptional, all breath weapons are supernatural abilities and are not granted through use of the polymorph spell.

Raise Dead

This spell brings one dead person back to life per the rules in the Players Handbook v.3.5. The body must be intact and the character returns with I hp per level. Mark 5,000 gp off the character sheets of anyone who pays for the spell component.

If the spell is cast immediately after the character's death, the PC may continue playing the adventure normally and receive a full share of XP and gp. Mark on the adventure record that the character was raised and set the starting experience total to the halfway point of next lowest level. The character then adds the XP earned in the adventure to that new starting total.

If the spell is cast at the end of the adventure, the PC receives XP and gp up to the point of the character's death. Mark on the adventure record that the character was raised and set the starting experience total to the halfway point of the next lowest level. The character then adds the XP earned in the adventure to that new starting total.

Reincarnate

The LIVING GREYHAWK campaign requires the following rules when this spell is cast.

- Reincarnate may only be cast during an adventure by either another character, or an NPC druid with that spell prepared who appears in the adventure text.
- Before the roll is made, the character's player must authorize the casting of the spell.
- A single roll is made to determine the type of creature the character is reincarnated as. The player must abide by the result of the roll.
- No modifiers to the rolls are allowed. No rerolls are allowed.
- The DM and at least one other player must witness the roll.
- If the roll is a 100, the character retains its current race.
- If the result of the reincarnation is a creature other than a dwarf, human, halfling, gnome, half-elf, half-orc, or elf, the character is immediately and permanently removed from the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign.

- If the result of the roll is dwarf, roll again on the chart below to determine subrace: 01-70: Hill dwarf
 - 71-100: Mountain dwarf
- If the result of the roll is elf, roll again on the chart below to determine subrace: 01-70: High elf
 - 71-90: Wood elf
 - 91-100: Gray elf
- If the result of the roll is halfling, roll again on the chart below to determine subrace:
 - 01-60: Lightfoot halfling
 - 61-85: Stout halfling
 - 86-100: Tallfellow halfling
- If the result of the roll is human, roll again on the chart below to determine heritage:
 - 01-55: Mixed heritage (roll twice on this chart to determine; if this result is rolled again, discard it)

56-65: Flan 66-75: Oeridian 76-85: Baklunish 86-95: Suel 96-97: Rhennee

- 98-99: Olman
- 100: Touv
- Reincarnate may only be cast on characters or cohorts.

Resurrection

This spell brings one dead person back to life per the rules in the Players Handbook v.3.5. The caster must have a part of the body from after the person died, and the character returns with full hp's. Mark 10,000 gp off the character sheets of anyone who pay for the spell component.

If the spell is cast immediately after the character's death, the PC may continue with the adventure normally and receive full XP and gp at the end. Mark on the adventure record that the character was raised and set the starting experience total to the halfway point of the next lowest level. Characters add XP earned in the adventure to that new starting total.

If the spell is cast at the end of the adventure, the PC receives XP and gp up to the point it died. Mark on the adventure record that the character was raised and set the starting experience total to the halfway point of the next lowest level. Characters add the XP earned in the adventure to that new starting total.

SPELLS THAT CAUSE A CHANGE IN FORM

Examples include polymorph, polymorph any object, shapechange.

• The caster may only change into creatures listed in the Monster Manual v.3.5 unless providing campaign documentation allowing otherwise. Creatures with templates, and advanced versions are not allowed.

- If an attribute of a monster is only listed in the general or combat description of a creature and is not specifically given an ability descriptor that you can normally assume within the parameters of the spell cast (such as exceptional for polymorph or exceptional and supernatural for shapechange), you do not gain that attribute when assuming that creature's form.
- An example of this is the hydra; many of the body and head attributes are listed in the combat description of the monster without an ability descriptor, and thus these attributes would not be gained when using a spell to turn into a hydra (but abilities such as fast healing and many others in the statistics block would be gained).

True Resurrection

This spell is very hard to find from an NPC in LIVING GREYHAWK. It is only available in an adventure if the adventure contains a NPC who can cast it and the adventure specifically states that the NPC will cast it for PCs. Otherwise this spell is only available from a NPC if the player has campaign documentation allowing it to be cast. This documentation only comes in higher level events as a reward to notable and worthy heroes. This spell may be cast by PC casters as normal once they reach high enough levels.

If the spell is cast immediately after the characters death, the PC may continue with the adventure normally and receive full XP and gp at the end.

If the spell is cast at the end of the adventure, the PC receives XP and gp up to the point of death.

Wish

Wish is one of the most powerful spells and also one of the easiest to abuse in the campaign. The following list contains the rules for using the wish spell in the LIVING GREYHAWK Campaign. The wish spell may do any of the following:

- Duplicate any wizard or sorcerer spell of 8th level or lower, provided the spell is not from a school prohibited to the character.
- Duplicate any other spell of 6th level or lower, provided the spell is not from a school prohibited to the character.
- Duplicate any wizard or sorcerer spell of 7th level or lower even if it's from a prohibited school.
- Duplicate any other spell of 5th level or lower even if it's from a prohibited school.
- Any spell duplicated must come from a core source or the character must have access to it in some fashion.
- Undo the harmful effects of many other spells such as geas/quest or insanity.
- Remove injuries and afflictions. A single wish can aid one creature per caster level, and all subjects must be cured of the same type of affliction. For example, the character could heal all the damage the character's party has suffered or remove all the poison effects from the party but not both with the same wish. A wish can never restore the experience point loss from casting a spell or the level or Constitution loss from being raised from the dead.

- Revive the dead. A wish can bring a dead creature back to life by duplicating a resurrection spell. A wish can revive a dead creature whose body has been destroyed, but the feat takes two wishes: one to recreate the body and another to infuse the body with life again. A wish cannot prevent a character that was brought back to life from losing an experience level.
- Transport travelers. A wish can lift one creature per caster level from anywhere on any plane and place these creatures anywhere else on any plane regardless of local conditions. An unwilling target gets a Will save to negate and SR.
- Undo misfortune. A wish can undo a single recent event. The wish forces a reroll of any roll made within the last round (including the character's last turn). Reality reshapes itself to accommodate the new result. For example, the wish could undo an opponent's successful save, a foe's successful critical hit (either the attack roll or the critical roll), a friend's failed save and so on. The reroll, however, may be as bad as or worse than the original roll. An unwilling target gets a Will save to negate and SR.

The caster may not wish for something beyond the list above. Players may not use a wish spell to cast a spell that is restricted in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign.

Duplicated spells allow saves and SR as normal (but save DCs are for 9th-level spells). When a wish duplicates a spell that has an XP cost in excess of 5,000, the caster must pay that cost instead. When a wish duplicates a spell with a material component that costs more than 10,000 gp, the character must provide that component.

COMPLETE BOOK SPELLS

Beget Bogun

This spell creates a small animate creature that accompanies a druid on his adventures. It is similar to a wizard's familiar with a few twists. The druid may only have one bogun at any one time. When created, the caster must pay all applicable costs (25 XP and 1 TU). The stats for the bogun can be found in the Complete Divine.

Remember even though an inanimate object, the bogun is still a creature of nature and should be treated with respect by its druidic creator. If mistreated it will vanish and the druid may suffer penalties next time he calls upon his god for a favor (DM's discretion).

Weapon of the Deity

A full list of gods and their associated spell abilities can be found on the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign website at www.wizards.com/lg.

ITEM CLARIFICATION

Do to the shared nature of LIVING games, some items need some changes to work properly within the framework of the campaign. There are also some basic ground rules that we will go over below before getting into specifics.

- No item may generate an effect that extends beyond the end of the play session unless campaign documentation exists to allow it.
- In multi-round adventures, an item's effect may extend into the next rounds if appropriate (DM's call).
- It is the players' responsibility to have this document available for the DM when using any of the items contained below.

Caster's Shield

Few additional rules and clarifications on this item.

- This item, when purchased, does not contain a scroll already scribed upon it.
- Scribing a spell onto the back of the shield is done through Magic Item Creation (see Chapter 7).
- On your master item logsheet, note the resulting scroll as attached to the caster's shield and cross it off when used.

Spell Storing Items

Several magic items allow you to store a spell for later use. Some examples are ring of counterspells, ring of spell storing and the spell storing weapons special ability. In LIVING GREYHAWK, these items always start empty at the start of a new adventure. A charged spell storing device may carry over to the next round in a multi-round event.

BENEFITS FROM NONADVENTURING ACTIVITY

Heroes are skilled people. Some have the ability to expand their personal wealth without adventuring. The creation of magical and mundane items needed or desired by the commoners and nobility of the Flanaess is not as potentially lucrative as adventuring but is definitely safer. While your character is primarily an adventurer in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign, it does have the opportunity to make some extra coin every now and then using Professional and Craft skills.

Due to the shared nature of the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign, the following rules override most of the rules presented in the Player's Handbook v.3.5 regarding the creation of items or generation of gold pieces for work while using the following skills: Craft, Perform, Sleight of Hand, Profession.

Fundamentally, each of these skills gives you the opportunity to increase your character's wealth by virtue of skill, knowledge or craft after the play of a regional adventure set in your current home region. Just how this is done is dependent on the individual skill. Immediately after each regional adventure, a character may attempt to create extra gold via one of the appropriate skills.

Using these skills during an adventure is allowed but does not increase the maximum gold earned cap for the APL played.

You do not have to pay lifestyle costs for TU's spent on using a skill to make additional gold.

Skills

Craft: You can practice your trade and make a decent living. You earn your skill check result in gold pieces when you spend I TU immediately after playing a regional adventure set in your current home region. You may only spend I TU per adventure this way. You must own a set of artisan's tools in order to practice your trade. Masterwork artisan tools grant a +2 circumstance bonus on these checks. You may neither take 10 nor take 20 on this check.

Perform: You find the best place to practice your art for both coin and admiration (usually the most prosperous or cultured settlement in your region). Spend I TU immediately after playing in a regional adventure set in your current home region. You gain the following results based on the DC you succeed:

DC Performance

- <10 You're panned. You earn nothing.
- 10 Routine performances. You earn 1d4+1 gp.
- 15 Enjoyable performances. You earn 1d8+1 gp.
- 20 Great performances. You earn 3d6+3 gp.
- 25 Memorable performance. You earn 1d6 pp. Your fans ask you to stay. You may spend another TU and gain another perform check with a +2 circumstance bonus. That check is your last until you play another regional adventure in your home region despite the results of that check.
- 30 Extraordinary performance. Your earn 3d6+3 pp. You may spend another TU and gain another perform check with a +4 circumstance bonus. That check is your last until you play another regional adventure in your home region despite the results of that check.

You may neither take 10 nor take 20 on this check.

Unless you succeed at your check at DC 25 or DC 30, you may only spend 1 TU to gain coin in this way. If you succeed at your check with those two higher DCs you many spend and additional TU (2 TUs total) to gain coin by way of your performances.

Profession: You can practice your trade and make a decent living earning your skill check result in gold pieces when you spend I TU immediately after playing in a regional adventure set in your home region. You may only spend I TU per adventure in this way. You may neither take 10 nor take 20 on this check.

Sleight of Hand: Taking wealth from those you meet: that's how you make your money. Every good pickpocket knows that the best scores come consistently to those who watch, wait and then strike when the time is right. After you play in a regional adventure set in your home region you may immediately spend I TU to scope out and strike on scores.

OUT-OF-GAME BENEFIT RULES

The following rules govern the use of in-game benefits derived from out-of-game sources, primarily: Bonus Buttons distributed at the Gen Con Game Fair 2002 and the Campaign Cards from D&D[®] Rewards.

- I. Each player may use one of the benefits listed below for every four levels (or fraction thereof) that their character possesses (cohorts, companions, familiars, etc. have no bearing on this calculation). For example, the player of a 3rd-level character may use only one of the benefits; the player of a 9th-level character may use three.
- 2. No individual benefit may be used more than once in any given event regardless of the number of sessions played.

To use the same type of benefit twice, the player must possess two copies of the benefit.

- 3. Benefits must be presented to the DM at the beginning of the session. The benefits used must be selected before the session begins.
- 4. Benefits can be loaned to other players at the session, but no individual benefit may be used more than once. For example, James loans a button to Ashley. Ashley may use the button once during that event, but James cannot use the same benefit unless he possesses another copy for his own use.
- 5. Benefits are not destroyed when used and can be used again in future sessions.
- 6. No more than one benefit can be used to affect a single roll.

Currently Sanctioned Benefits

The following benefits are approved for use in LIVING GREYHAWK play. This list includes specific campaign modifications applicable to their use. This list is updated frequently as future benefits become available.

- Ember Button, Krusk Button, Lidda Button, and Tordek Button: These buttons were distributed at the Gen Con Game Fair 2002. The bonuses that are conveyed from these buttons must be declared before the roll that they affect is made. They can be used to affect an ally's roll.
- D&D Rewards Campaign Cards: These cards are part of an expanding system of rewards for the play of RPGA events including LIVING GREYHAWK events. The following cards are currently allowed with the following campaign modifications. All card effects must be used before the roll is made unless otherwise stated. Cards not listed are not permitted for use in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign at this time. Cards listed are from the following series: LEGACY OF THE GREEN REGENT[™] (LGR), MARK OF HEROES[™] (MOH).
- Wink and a Smile: LGR set 1, card 8 of 10; no variant rules.
- I Have That!: LGR set 1, card 9 of 10; any item gained through the use of the card must be paid for at the end of the event. In addition, this card cannot be used to gain a vial of alchemical sleep gas, a vial of disappearing ink, or a scent breakerbag.

- Hero's Strike: LGR set 1, card 10 of 10 and LGR set 4, card 3 of 10; no variant rules.
- Arcane Influx: LGR set 2, card 5 of 10 and LGR set 4, card 4 of 10; no variant rules.
- Holy Flood: LGR set 2, card 6 of 10; no variant rules.
- Twist the Blade: LGR set 2, card 7 of 10 and MoH set 1, card 6 of 10; any action point option is invalid.
- Let's Try That Again: LGR set 2, card 8 of 10 and LGR set 4, card 2 of 10; no variant rules.
- Kaapow!: LGR set 3, card 2 of 10; no variant rules
- Call of the Wild: LGR set 3, 3 of 10; no variant rules
- Force of Personality: LGR set 3, 4 of 10; no variant rules
- Not Done Yet: LGR set 3, 5 of 10; no variant rules
- Feign Surprise: LGR set 3, 6 of 10; no variant rules
- Desperate Maneuver: LGR set 3, 7 of 10; no variant rules
- Not this Time!: LGR set 4, card 5 of 10 and LGR set 5, card 4 of 10; no variant rules
- Blessed Relief: LGR set 4, card 6 of 10, LGR set 5, card 3 of 10, and MoH set 1, card 5 of 10; no variant rules
- Power of the Hero: LGR set 4, card 7 of 10; no variant rules
- I've Got Just the Potion . . . ; LGR set 4, card 8 of 10; Play this card with I Have That! once an adventure round instead of gaining the benefit of the I Have That! card, you immediately gain a single potion worth no more than 50 gp. The potion must be one listed on Table 7-17 of the Dungeon Master's Guide. The potion gained is in a handy place, and you must spend a move action to retrieve it. If you don't use the potion before the adventure ends, it disappears.
- Careful Retreat: LGR set 5, card 5 of 10; no variant rules.
- Divine Salvation: LGR set 5, card 7 of 10; no variant rules.
- Arcane Transmogrification: LGR set 5, card 8 of 10; no variant rules.
- Extra Deflection: MoH set 1, card 8 of 10; any action point option is invalid.
- Missed Me!: MoH set 1, card 9 of 10; any action point option is invalid.

Chapter 7: Magic Item Creation

In the old days of the campaign using a feat to create a magic item was a long involved process. Now magic items are created at sessions you play in. Fill out the paperwork for what you want to create between sessions and have the judge of your next game sign off on it – simple and easy. So read on about the wonderful items your character can create.

BASIC RULES

Characters with Item Creation feats may elect to spend additional time units to create magic items. Characters can created magic items at any core adventure or after a regional or metaregional adventure set in the characters home region or metaregion. Creation rules and approved magic items are described below.

The following rules apply to all Magic Item Creation.

- You cannot create any item that bestows a negative level upon its bearer if they are good.
- Charged items are always created with a full charge.
- Campaign documentation may provide an item creator with the opportunity to create items from other sources.

Brew Potion: Characters with this feat can brew potions from Table 7-17 in the Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5, adventure records or from special campaign documentation once they satisfy the prerequisites. You can use a scrolled spell to satisfy the spell requirements, but you must use one scroll for every day of the creation process.

Craft Magic Arms and Armor: A character with this feat can create items from the DMG, Tables 7-2 thru 7-16, using the following rules:

- Any weapon, ammunition (in lots of 50) or shield/armor up to a +1 enchantment bonus once the character satisfies the prerequisites.
- Casters with access to purchase items or item enhancements from the DMG, Tables 7-5, 7-6, 7-14, and 7-15 may create those items or enhancements once the character satisfies the prerequisites For example, caster able to purchase a +2 flaming longsword may craft a +2 flaming falchion.
- Casters with campaign documentation allowing the creation of an item may create that item upon meeting the prerequisites. Campaign documentation is needed to gain access to create specific magic weapons and armor (such as a flametongue sword or rhino hide).
- You can use a scrolled spell to satisfy the spell requirements, but you must use one scroll for every day of the creation process.

Craft Rod, Craft Staff, Craft Wondrous Item, Forge Ring: Characters with these feats can create items from the DMG Tables 7-18, 7-19, 7-25, 7-26, 7-27, 7-28, and 7-29 using the following rules.

- Any item that has a market price of 2,500 gp or less can be created once the prerequisites are satisfied.
- Casters able to purchase items valued over 2,500 gp from approved sources may create those items once the prerequisites are satisfied.
- Items over 2,500 gp that the caster cannot purchase may be crafted if the casters level exceeds the minimum item creation level by 2 and all other prerequisites are satisfied.
- Casters with campaign documentation allowing the creation of an item may create that item once the prerequisites are satisfied.
- You can use a scrolled spell to satisfy the spell requirements, but you must use one scroll for every day of the creation process.

Scribe Scroll: Casters can scribe scrolls for any spell they currently know. For wizards this list includes any spell in their spellbook. For sorcerers and bards this list includes any spell they know. For all divine casters this list includes the spells they have access to. Scrolls may incorporate the creator's metamagic feats.

Craft Wands: Casters may create wands for any spell they currently know up to 4th level. For wizards this list includes any spell in their spellbook. For sorcerers and bards this list includes any spell they know. For all divine casters the list includes the spells they have access to cast based on their divine casting class. Wands may incorporate the creator's metamagic feats. Remember, metamagic feats cannot push the spell level over 4th—that is the maximum for wands per the feat.

SOME NUTS AND BOLTS

Now you know what you can create. Let's get into the nittygritty of actually calculating the cost.

When creating an item you spend three things.

- Gold pieces. Generally you spend half an item's market price during its creation. There are exceptions to this general rule – some items cost more. Casters must provide or purchase material components for creating some items at full price.
- 2. Experience points. Creating an item of power takes a bit from you. You must spend XP to represent this drain. Remember, you cannot spend so much XP that you to lose a level.
- 3. Time. It takes time to create items. You must spend time units. The more expensive and powerful the item, the more TU's you must spend to craft it.

Each TU spent grants your character up to five days to create magic items. You may create, at most, one magic item with a market value worth no more than 1,000 gp per day. For more expensive items you can spend multiple days crafting a single item. You may even spend more than one TU crafting an item if, and only if, you are creating a single, powerful item and the market value of the item necessitates spending extra TU's. (For example, an item with a market value greater than 5,000 gp). Any unused days that remain after crafting a single item requiring multiple TUs are forfeit. For an item with a market value of 8,000 gp, you must allocate 2 TUs (ten days). Eight days are spent crafting the item; the remaining two days are lost.

For every 2 gp worth of items you wish to create, you must spend 1 gp from your character's coin value. For every 25 gp of items created you must spend 1 XP. If the item has a material component then you must either supply it or spend full gold value for it. Crafting a + 1 suit of full plate requires a masterwork set of full plate as a component. You may not spend more gold than you currently possess nor spend so much XP that you lose a character level. In the case of scrolls and wands, the character determines the

Is the caster level of an item a prerequisite for creating it?

Yes. You must have a caster level equal or higher then the one listed to create a magic item.

Can I make an item off somebody else's Adventure Record?

No. It is what you have encountered in your adventures not somebody else. character determines the caster level but must satisfy the minimum level requirement for the spell.

Let's consider Mialee, a 5th-level wizard with the Scribe Scroll, Brew Potion, and Craft Wondrous Item feats, to illustrate these rules.

Between adventures, Mialee decides to spend 1 time unit crafting a few magic items. She decides to create a scroll of web (cast at 3rd level) and two potions of fly. The scroll costs 150 gp and the potions cost 750 gp each. Mialee's total cost is 1650 gp. Since this amount is well under 5,000 gp, item creation only costs her 1 time unit. All together she must also spend 825 gp ($1650\div2=825$) and $66 \text{ XP} (1650\div2=66)$. During her next adventure, Mialee may use these items like any other, or she could sell them all back for 825 gp. Note that if Mialee sold the items, she earns back all of the gold that she spent but not the TU or the XP.

After the next adventure Mialee decides to spend more time crafting items. After careful consideration she decides to create a pair of gloves of swimming and climbing. She meets the minimum requirements (she is 5th level, has access to the item and knows the spells cat's grace and bull's strength). The item's market value is 6,250 gp, so it costs her 2 TUs. She is only able to create this one item for during this adventure. She must spend 3,125 gp (6,250÷2=3,125) and 250 XP (6250÷25=250).

- No more than five items with a total market value less than 5,000 gp (1,000 gp per day) may be created per adventure played. Only one item may be created per adventure if that item's market value is over 5,000 gp. Multi-round adventures count as one adventure.
- To calculate the TU requirement for items costing more than 5,000 gp, divide the total cost by 5,000 and round the resulting number up. An item valued at 5,001 gp requires 2 TUs.
- · Characters may not use loaned money for magic item

- creation, and may not create items for another character.An item with a frequency of any, adventure, regional,
- metaregional or core is a valid purchase source for magic item creation. This rule applies only to creation not purchasing items.
- Item creation occurs before the adventure starts. You must have a magic item creation logsheet filled out and ready for your DM when you sit down at the table.
 Completing the MIC logsheet is discussed late in this chapter.
- The DM notes the gp and XP spent and verifies these costs on your AR at the end of the adventure.
- Players are responsible for correctly calculating and reporting magic item creation figures. Errors must be corrected immediately and may result in a 20% gp fine. GMs record corrections and fines on the AR where the errors where discovered.
- Charged items are created with the maximum number of charges allowed
- The ability to create items not listed in the Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5 does not grant the ability to purchase the item. For example, Mialee can create a wand of flare but does not have the ability to purchase the item without campaign documentation.
- Cohorts cannot create magic items.
- The entry "DM's choice" on the magic item tables in the DMG does not grant PCs the ability to create items not listed on the table. The custom items rules in the DMG may not be used to craft items

UPGRADING EXISTING MAGIC ITEMS

Some items have natural power progressions. Using the right feats and satisfying the prerequisites it is possible to upgrade these items. To upgrade an item, use the following rules.

- Upgrades works like normal magic item creation. Items may be upgraded at any core adventure or a regional or metaregional adventure set in the characters home region or metaregion.
- To upgrade an item you must satisfy the prerequisites for creating the item from scratch (described above).
- The upgrade cost is the difference between the old item and the new item. You pay half that cost in gp and 1 XP for each 25 gp as described in Some Nuts and Bolts above.
- For each 5,000 gp or fractions thereof, you must spend 1 TU. You may only upgrade a single item and any leftover days form the TUs spent are lost.
- In the case of armor, shields, and weapons you may not swap powers or special abilities for others when upgrading unless they are on table 8-1 below. For example: A +1 frost longsword may be upgraded to a +2 Icy burst longsword or a +1 keen frost longsword but may not be upgraded into a +1 keen flaming longsword.
- Campaign documentation may provide options beyond these rules. See the paperwork for details.

The following table lists items that are upgradeable and their progression. An item that is not on this chart may not be upgraded nor have powers swapped unless the caster has campaign documentation allowing it. If you have any questions concerning upgrades contact your local triad for clarification.

- Nonstandard items cannot be upgraded (by you, an NPC or a favor in a mod). A nonstandard item is a magic item that has an ability not normally present in the DMG description of the item and/or additional rules to it. An item made of special material is a standard item. So for example, a cloak of resistance +2 that also gives a +10 to Hide is a nonstandard item while a +1 mithral chain shirt is a standard item. We have included a chart below that lists some of the common standard and nonstandard items. If you have a question on what category an item falls in please contact your local triad.
- · Campaign documentation may provide options beyond these rules. See the paperwork for details.

USING THE MAGIC ITEM CREATION LOGSHEET

Before creating magic items, you must printout and complete a MIC logsheet prior to play. A sample sheet is included at the end of this section. A blank logsheet is available from in the LIVING GREYHAWK website at www. wizards.com/lg. Filling in the logsheet is easy.

Item Name: Describes what you are creating. For example: ring of protection +1.

DMG Market Value: Is the market value from the DMG or adventure record for the item you are creating.

GP, XP and TU Spent: The amount spent on this item. If you create four items the TU spent for each one would be 1/4.

Adventure Name: The name of the adventure where vou created these items. Remember, items are created before play starts.

Access: Where you gained access to make this item. It could be default for basic items everybody knows or an AR number for an adventure where you gained access to the item. If you gained access from a metagroup, write META.

Special Notes: Notes on metamagic feats used or increased caster level of the item.

Calculate the totals at the bottom of the form and you are ready to go. Staple this logsheet to your adventure record once signed by the DM and add the items to your master item logsheet. In the found and acquired fields on your master item logsheet, record the AR number this sheet is stapled to.

Notes to the Dungeon Master

The player is required to have MIC Logsheets filled out and ready before play. If it is not completed or in order you may deny this character from creating any items before the current adventure.

When a player hands you a MIC Logsheet, quickly verify that the totals are correct and the item prerequisites are fulfilled. The player must provide the necessary rules sources for the item. Limit your review to four or five minutes.

Creating magic items before an adventure should not detract from the adventure or the other players at the session. If the game slot is already running late, you may verify totals at the end of the adventure if you choose. If all the documentation is in order, try your best to accommodate players but do not waste game time when someone is unprepared.

Chapter 8: Running a Living Greyhawk Event

So you want to GM a LIVING GREYHAWK event? This is your section. We cover everything you need to know including what you can and cannot do, handling the paperwork and where to turn if you need a ruling or have a problem.

BEFORE YOU BEGIN

GMing a LIVING GREYHAWK event requires a familiarity with the basics of the D&D core rules v.3.5 and the LIVING GREYHAWK variant rules contained in this document. Without a working knowledge of the basic rules (movement, actions, skills, combat, attacks of opportunity, etc.) you should not consider GMing. If you are familiar with the rules, however, you should definitely volunteer your time and energy as a DM. Running a successful game, either at a convention or for a group of friends at home, is very rewarding.

Once you decide to GM, you need a copy of an RPGAsanctioned LIVING GREYHAWK adventure. If you are GMing at a game day or convention, the Senior GM will send you the adventure. If you are running a home game, you can order the adventure from the RPGA website at www.wizards.com/rpga.

As a GM or event organizer you need a familiarity with the RPGA General Rules and its companion document the RPGA Penalty Guidelines. These documents cover the overarching organizational rules. The following information is a LIVING GREYHAWK addendum to the RPGA rules.

You may play the adventure before you run them. For a convention, this play is called a slot zero (since it takes place before slot I of the convention). Playing the adventure before running it allows you to experience the adventure from a player's point of view, and see how another DM handles the encounters.

Whether or not you play the adventure, it is imperative that you thoroughly and carefully read it before running it. Failure to read and study the adventure before the game usually ensures you will have problems. When you receive the adventure follow these steps:

- 1. Read the adventure through from front to back.
- 2. Read the adventure again. Make notes about potential problem areas such as unfamiliar rules, tricky roleplaying encounters, unclear portions of the adventure, etc. Review any new material in the adventure and review any unfamiliar rules, spells, monsters or items.
- 3. Run mock battles for each encounter at each APL (average party level). This test drive ensures you understand the monsters, NPCs, spells and items during actual play.
- 4. Make a chart showing how the PCs get from one encounter to another during the game. Some adventures, particularly investigative ones, may have weak links between encounters; you need to know how the PCs can navigate the adventure challenges.

- 5. Make maps for tactical areas especially areas battles sites. Maps are often provided with adventures but sometimes they are not.
- 6. Rehearse playing important NPCs especially if personality traits are not given.
- 7. In some cases you may know the sessions APL ahead of time. Focus your preparation specifically to one APL tier rather than all of them when this occurs.
- 8. Make cheat sheets or crib notes. Having all the monsters or NPCs on one sheet of paper saves you from flipping between pages during the game.

AT THE SESSION, BEFORE THE GAME

When game time arrives set yourself up in the play area where all players can see and hear you. Arrange your books, dice, maps, etc. so that everything is within easy reach. You should have the following items:

- The adventure including handouts, maps, appendices and your notes.
- The adventure records for the adventure.
- A tactical map and miniature or tokens to represent NPCs and monsters.
- The RPGA scoring pack.

The first few pages of RPGA-sanctioned LIVING GREYHAWK adventure cover calculating APL for the game and handling animals owned by characters along with other rules. Follow these procedures according to the adventure. The following is a list of questions you want to ask your players before the adventure starts:

- What levels are the characters?
- Do any characters plan to bring a cohort?
- Are characters bringing animals not gained as a class feature?
- Do characters have special certs, curses, spells, restrictions or other situations to declare before starting the adventure? (Anything special requires campaign documentation).
- What lifestyle is each character buying during the adventure? Is anyone attempting to live off the land?
- Do characters have any ongoing conditions from a previous adventure such as unhealed damage or ability point loss?
- Which spells have spellcasters prepared?

DURING THE GAME

51

Once the game starts, your role as LIVING GREYHAWK DM begins in earnest. You now have a huge responsibility. You are the actor playing all the NPC roles. You are the judge ruling on PC actions. You are the eyes and the ears of the characters describing everything they sense. It is important to follow the parameters set by the adventure to the best of your ability. Instances arise when you need to invent details that are not covered in the adventure; however, you must attempt to keep within the spirit and the letter of the adventure. Here are some other tips and guidelines:

- Ask the players to use a table tent displaying character information, the player's name and RPGA number. This information assists the DM and other players in communicating with each other.
- Do not make extraneous or out-of-game comments about the adventure. Resist the urge to complain about the adventure or tell stories about what happened when you played. Make the game as fun for the players as you can.
- Quickly get a feel for the players and the characters. Try to tailor the adventure to your player's style. Be aware of younger players. Identify players who try to dominate a table.
- Remember, the PCs are the heroes (or anti-heroes) of the story. Allow them to act. Give them leeway choose their actions in the game. This flexibility does not mean you let them do anything they want; it simply means that they are playing the game to have fun so let them have fun.
- Do not go out of your way to punish or kill characters. Character death and other unpleasant situations occur without any special effort on the part of a DM. Be fair.
- Do not go out of your way to make it easy on the players. Part of the fun and challenge of the game is to overcome obstacles. If the players feel that there is no risk, they may enjoy the game less.
- You have the right to apply circumstance modifiers to situations not covered in the rules. While these circumstance modifiers should generally range between +2 to -2 on die rolls and difficulty classes, DMs have the right to apply more drastic penalties and bonuses based on the situation.
- DMs are expected to follow both the letter and the spirit of the rules. DMs are not automatons or computers; the circle expects LIVING GREYHAWK DMs to use commonsense when making rulings during a session.
 While it might look like most of the rules in the core books are clear, most assume that the DM will apply some changes to them to reflect situations that come up in play that don't directly model to the basic ones in the books.
 Yes, DMs have different play styles and interpret the gray areas of the rules differently. No, DMs should not be making arbitrary changes to the rules because they don't like them. Changes and tweaks should occur because the situation in a given session is not well modeled by the rules in the core books.
- DMs who find problems with player behavior, character documentation or other issues are within their rights to refuse to let a player stay at the session. Make sure to point these situations out to the region's triad. Each triad has a policy for dealing with such incidents. See the RPGA General Rules concerning what GMs can and cannot do, and for remedies and responsibilities for various situations. The final section of this chapter has further details.

In rare cases a third-party mediator is necessary to settle disputes. At a home game the DM has the final say. If problems arise at a convention or game day, either the Senior GM or an individual named by the senior GM, and appeals GM, is in charge of making decisions. The goal is to resolve problems at the session to keep conflicts from carrying over beyond the convention or game day.

AT THE SESSION AFTER THE GAME

When the game ends, players complete the RPGA table tracking form while the DM calculates experience points and gold piece rewards from the charts at the end of the adventure. On each adventure record fill in the experience point and gold piece rewards the PCs earned. Cross out anything on the AR that the PCs did not earn. After completing this step, hand the adventure records to the players. Detailed adventure record instructions are included in Chapter 4.

The players may review and fill in the adventure record. The paperwork must be completed at the session. While players complete their ARs, collect the RPGA table tracking form and return it to the senior GM or their appropriate designee. Players must finish their ARs, tally resources consumed, pay upkeep, resolve special issues from past certs, calculate new XP and gp totals, and decide if they are going to purchase any items from the AR. Do not sign the ARs until you have checked everything especially the calculations and resources spent.

If you have time, review players' complete paperwork (past ARs, MILs, etc.) after a game. This helps catch potential problems, provide important instruction about proper record keeping, prevent rampant cheating and helps the entire campaign run smoothly.

RPGA PAPERWORK

Detailed instructions regarding RPGA paperwork are included on each scoring packs. Here is a summary of important points:

- Complete the top of the RPGA network table tracking form.
- Make sure each player is listed on the form and their RPGA numbers are included and legible.
- Make sure your own name is on the form and your RPGA number is included.

Once completed, give this form to the event coordinator.

WHAT YOU CAN AND CANNOT DO AS A DM

A LIVING GREYHAWK DM's principle job is running the game, making it fair and fun, and completing the accompanying paperwork. Remember, you are also an administrator in a huge LIVING campaign. The RPGA General Rules describe your role as a RPGA GM. The following section details more about your additional powers, rights and responsibilities in LIVING GREYHAWK. Many points are covered in the RPGA General Rules but we want to highlight some and provide more detail for others.

- If a player's documentation or character is incorrect or invalid, sit down with the player and audit the character. Key elements to check are magic items on the MIL, gold piece and experience point totals, and the acquisition of non-core items, feats, spells, etc.
- If you find a problem, help the player correct it.
- If a player's magic item log is too full or incomprehensible, make the player rewrite the MIL.
- If you find items on the MIL lacking correct documentation, remove those items from the MIL.
- If you suspect cheating, contact the Senior GM for the event or a triad member.
- If several discrepancies are discovered, then request the character, adventure records and MIL from the player. Turn these over to the Senior GM or a triad immediately. This character is out of play until the matter is resolved. If the player refuses to turn his paperwork over then make a note of this and forward it to your local triad.
- Remove players that cheat from the game per the RPGA General Rules. The player receives an AR with the experience and treasure earned up until that point. You may deny the character experience points or treasure if those points and treasure were gained through cheating.You may request the Senior GM to remove a troublesome

- player from the game per the RPGA General Rules.
- A character that purposefully attacks other PCs is immediately removed from play. See the FAQ in Chapter 9 for more details.
- If a PC performs an evil act, warn the player that you consider it evil at your first opportunity. If character acts regardless of the warning make a note on the AR. Also send this information to the local triad. Triads compile these reports to determine if the player needs to be removed from play. See Chapter 9.
- The DM is the final authority. Players can appeal a DM's rulings to the Senior GM or designated Appeals GM if they are unhappy with a ruling. Lacking a Senior or Appeals GM, the table DM's decision is final. Think hard when making decisions. They could have far reaching effects on players and the campaign.
- While DMs have these rights, remember you are there to make sure everyone is having fun. Let players play their characters as they see fit and be the heroes. Work with them toward a fun and memorable game.

Chapter 9: Living GREYHAWK FAQ, Errata & Rules Variants

The following rulebooks and editions are the official sources for the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign.

The current printing of the following books and their published errata are considered core for the campaign:

- Players Handbook v.3.5*
- Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5*
- Monster Manual v.3.5*
- Living Greyhawk Journal Campaign News (found in Dungeon Magazine)
- LIVING GREYHAWK web articles found on the RPGA website
 - * Errata exists for this book. Consult the D&D website at www.wizards.com/dnd for details.

The following sources and their published errata are used in the campaign but require campaign documentation for use by players. The book or article must be brought to the session by the person using it.

- Complete Warrior
- Complete Divine*
- Complete Arcane
- Complete Adventurer
- Races of Stone
- Races of Destiny
- Races of the Wild
- Frostburn
- Miniatures Handbook*
- Arms & Equipment Guide
- Living Greyhawk Journal articles
- Dragon Magazine #315 and #319 GREYHAWK feat articles (either D315 or D319)
 - * Errata exists for this book. Consult the D&D website at www.wizards.com/dnd for details.

Only authors and triads may use the following books. Material from these sources may have limited availability to players with campaign documentation. Contact your local triad for information on using them in adventures.

- Monster Manual II
- Monster Manual III
- Fiend Folio
- Manual of the Planes
- Savage Species
- Draconomicon
- Book of Vile DarknessBook of Exalted Deeds
- Libris Mortis*
- Planar Handbook*
 - * Errata exists for this book. Consult the D&D website at www.wizards.com/dnd for details.

The following FAQs are official sources for the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign. They are located on the D&D website at www.wizards.com/dnd. Rule variants in this document take priority over the FAQs listed below for the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign.

- Main v.3.5 D&D FAQ
- Monsters FAQ
- Book of Vile Darkness FAQ
- Manual of the Planes FAQ

DMs may use "Sage Advice" to help clarify rules, but rulings are not official for the campaign until published in one of the FAQ's listed above.

The LIVING GREYHAWK FAQ as listed in this document is official for the campaign. Rule variants in this document take priority over the FAQs listed above for the LIVING GREYHAWK.

CAMPAIGN ERRATA

Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5:

- Prestige Classes (page 176): Prestige classes do not count towards the multiclass XP penalty as described on page 60 of the Players Handbook v.3.5.
- The correct cost for a strand of prayer beads is 45,800 gp and not 25,800. If you have paid the incorrect price then you must correct this by paying the additional 20,000 gp or selling it back for full on your next AR.

Adventure Boiler Plate:

• Under LIVING GREYHAWK Levels of Play:

Replace, "APL also affects the amount of experience you may gain at the end of the adventure. If your character is three character levels or more either higher or lower than the APL this adventure is being played at, that character will receive only half of the experience points awarded for the adventure.";

With, "APL also affects the amount of experience and gold you may gain at the end of the adventure. If your character is three character levels or more either higher or lower than the APL this adventure is being played at, that character will receive only half of the experience points for the adventure. If your character is three character levels or more lower than the APL this adventure is being played at, that character will receive half gold for the adventure as well."

• Under the LIVING GREYHAWK Levels of Play:

Add the following: "If a character has the Mounted Combat feat he may bring a single standard PHB mount, with them in this adventure and it will not count towards the APL calculation."

CAMPAIGN RULES

- Q: When am I allowed to spend time units from the upcoming year?
- A: You may not spend TUs from next year unless one of three things happens.
 - 1. An adventure specifically forces you to spend a certain amount of time units above and beyond the normal cost for the adventure. You MUST still have enough time units left to pay the TU cost for the event when it starts.

- 2. You have campaign documentation allowing you to spend TUs from the coming year.
- 3. You are paying for a raise dead or resurrection spell using the alternate rules from Chapter 6.

Obviously if you spend TUs from coming year your TU total does not reset to 52 on the first of a new year.

Q: Where are the conversion rules for removal of the builder book items? What's going to happen with conversion?

A: They are in a separate document. Conversion for builder book removal mostly affects characters that relied heavily upon rules items that are removed from the campaign effective March 1, 2005. Characters that did not use the optional old builder book material don't need changes.

Q: How many evil acts before my character is taken away?

A: Varies. There is no set number to how many evil acts it takes to change your character's alignment. It is up to the DM. These acts are noted in the play notes section of your adventure record. Once enough accumulate your character becomes evil and is removed from the campaign (see below for how this happens). If you do something bad enough the DM can deem you evil on the spot and you are done playing in that adventure. The DM marks this infraction on your sheet and inform the local triad at the first opportunity. You can appeal this decision to your local triad but do not expect to win this argument often. If you're worried about losing your character this way, do not commit evil acts.

Only a triad or circle member can remove a character from play in the campaign. The DM's job is threefold concerning this issue: warn players when their action is considered evil, note evil acts on player's adventure records, report evil acts to the local triad. Triads handle it from there.

Q: When I lose a level how do I determine what class I lose a level in?

A: When you lose a level you lose the last class gained. You also lose all benefits gained with that level (base attack bonus, saving throws, skill points, spells learned, feats, etc.)

Q: My paladin's mount was killed. How long do I wait before I call a new one; and if I have TUs left at the end of the year, can these count towards that number?

A: You must wait 4 TUs or until you gain a new level in the paladin class. Having leftover TUs does not count as spending them.

Q: If I live near the border of another region can I rent a hotel room over the border and run sanctioned events for my friends and myself?

A: No. Regional (or metaregional) adventures must be run by a DM from that region (or metaregion). It is acceptable to find a GM over the border to run these adventures for you. The only exceptions to this ruling are conventions that may use GMs from other regions in their judge pool.

Q: What are the big three shows and why can't they run regionals?

A: The big three shows are WINTER FANTASY, Origins, and Gen Con (all 3 of them). They are international showcases for the campaign and thus do not count as regional show. They are given special events that only run at select shows or are altered before being released to the rest of the campaign. It would not be fair to give the shows special events and let them have regional events as well.

Q: Do I have to have a specific spell component listed on my sheet to use a spell?

A: No. As long as the component is readily available (does not require campaign documentation, is from the PHB and is not a planar fork) then you merely need to cross the cost in gold off your AR at the end of the event.

Q: Can two spells that increase size increase your size two steps?

A: No. Two spells that increase size do not stack. See the special considerations for enlarge person in Chapter 6 for more details.

Q: Can I use Racial Substitution Levels as presented in Races of Stone and Races of Destiny? What about Variant Versions of the core classes like paladin and ranger as presented in Complete Warrior?

A: No. The LIVING GREYHAWK campaign does not use those rules options.

Q: Can I use the rules for Weaponlike Spells as presented in Complete Arcane?

A: Yes. Your character may select the feats listed and apply them to spells as listed in Chapter 3 of that book.

Q: Can I use the new skill rules for various skills (and also take ranks in the new subskills) as presented in the core supplements (the Complete and Races series of books)?

- A: Yes, although you must provide the book to show the DM the rule. The allowance of an alternate skill use is subject to DM approval.
- Q: Can my character use the Mastering Spellbooks rule from Complete Arcane to use a foreign spellbook like his or her own?

A: Yes. As presented in Chapter 5 of that book, you may make a Spellcraft check (DC 25 + the highest-level spell in the spellbook) during an adventure to forever after use the acquired spellbook as though it was your own. The DM should witness the skill check and note the result in the play notes section of the adventure record for that adventure. Only one skill check of this kind may be attempted per adventure played.

Q: If I have a cleric domain from a core supplement such as Complete Divine, do I have to wait until 3rd level to cast a 1st-level spell not found in the Player's Handbook?

A: No. As an exception to the core access rule, you may access the domain's granted power (or powers) and cast a 1st-level spell from the domain's list provided the spell is allowed in the campaign.

Q: I want to take a warhorse for an animal companion for my druid or ranger. Can I do this?

A: Not unless you have campaign documentation allowing access to that specific animal. As noted on page 35 of the Player's Handbook v.3.5, a druid may select horse (light or heavy) for a starting animal companion, and the warhorse is not listed in the sidebar on page 36, Alternate Animal Companions.

Q: Is it possible to purchase an item at a price that would then allow it to be sold for half and a profit made?

A: No. No item may be sold for more than it was purchased at any time. Sometimes errors have crept into adventure records allowing the possibility of this happening. If your character has done this then it needs to reverse the profit made immediately. This is your warning to correct that error.

Q: Does the campaign use the Death from Massive damage rule, and how does the harm spell work with this?

A: Yes, the campaign does use the rules (PHB page 145). The Sage gives two possible answers to the harm question in the D&D FAQ. The LIVING GREYHAWK campaign uses the No Instant Death from Harm Spells option.

Q: I made a mistake on my last adventure record. How do I go about fixing it?

A: No matter how careful we are mistakes still creep into our lives from time to time. Honest mistakes happen and fixing them as soon as you find them is the way to go. Inform your next DM of the mistake, what is needed to fix it and have the DM signoff on it. If it is something serious that you are worried might cause further problems, contact your local triad and they will be happy to help you out.

Q: What happens if I lose my adventure records or they are stolen?

A: If it is a small number of adventure records (for example, from your last convention or game day), try to have them replaced as soon as possible (contact your the convention organizer for replacements). Have your DMs sign off on them or bring the matter to the triad's attention.

For a larger loss (or loss of all records), report your loss to your triad immediately. Your triad will assign your character a total gp value that can be used to reequip the character with items that character currently has access.

Q: Are photocopies of my adventure records OK?

- A: Yes. You are encouraged to keep photocopies (or scanned copies) of all your adventure records. These photocopies serve as legitimate representations of your adventure records in the event of their loss. If you have the originals, however, they must be used.
- Q: I am confused on time units and lifestyle. When I spend TUs on various play options, which ones require me to pay lifestyle and which ones do not?
- A: You must pay lifestyle on any TUs spend on the following: adventuring, meta-orgs (unless the organization states otherwise), magic item creation, time spent on spellcasting or NPC spellcasting, or time spent in jail or out of play. You do not have to pay lifestyle on TUs spent on nonadventuring activity as described in Chapter 6.

CHARACTER CREATION

Q: The FAQ just came out and clarified one of my feats. Can I get rid of it and pick another one?

A: No. You may not change feats, skills points, spells known or anything else when rules change or new cool item or rule comes out. Choose carefully when selecting these character options; you cannot go back and change them unless specifically stated in official campaign documentation.

Q: When I earn enough XP to gain a new level can I delay taking that level until a later date?

A: No. If the XP total in the final total XP box on your adventure record is enough to gain a new level, you must take that level before playing that character again.

Q: When gaining a level can I leave a feat slot empty or not spend skill points until later?

- A: No. When you gain a level you must follow the chart under Level Advancement on pages 58-59 in the Player's Handbook v.3.5 in the exact order it shows before you next play that character.
- Q: Can my wizard copy a non-core spell out of another PC's spellbook and have it noted in the play notes section on my adventure record?

A: No. You must have campaign or regional documentation to have a spell appearing on the limited list. A note in the play notes section of your adventure record does not qualify.

Q: Does my character have to carry all his possessions with him at all times?

A: You can leave things at home when you adventure. If you do so, items must be clearly labeled on your master item logsheet and/or character sheet. It is also common courtesy to inform your DM that you are leaving equipment at home. If you leave items at home, you cannot use the Charity of Friends Clause if you die, because you have not lost everything you own.

Q: I worship a deity with the War domain. If my deity's favored weapon is exotic, do I gain that exotic weapon proficiency?

- A: No. If you are not proficient with the weapon, you must spend a feat to avoid taking a penalty while using it. If a deity's favored weapon has both a martial and exotic version you do gain the martial version. An example would be the bastard sword or the dwarven waraxe
- Q: Does Weapon Focus in longbow also apply to composite longbows?
- A: Yes.

ITEM PURCHASE

- Q: Does, "DM's choice," that shows up on several tables in the DMG give me access to items not on the list?
- A: No. When something gives you access to items on a table in the PHB, DMG, or other source, it only gives you access to what is on that table nothing else.
- Q: Can I purchase scrolls and potions from the DMG at a higher caster level than the minimum?
- A: All scrolls in the DMG are listed at minimum caster level and are bought as such. Potions can be bought at higher caster levels if they are listed on the chart.
- Q: Can I make my mithral chain mail masterwork and do the bonuses from being masterwork stack with the benefits for it being mithral?
- A: No and No. Mithral and adamantine items are already considered masterwork and thus cannot gain additional bonuses by being made masterwork again.

Q: Does the monk's belt from the Dungeon Master's Guide v.3.5 allow me to add my wisdom score to my armor class?

A: No. The belt grants +1 AC bonus from the monk chart in the Player's Handbook v.3.5. It does not grant the Wisdom bonus to armor class.

Q: Do I have to have a master item logsheet?

A: Yes. If your character owns anything not in the PHB then it must be recorded on a MIL and signed off by a DM.

- Q: We did not finish an encounter or the bad guys used/destroyed an item found on the adventure record. Do we still get it?
- A: Nope. You must find and/or recover an item in order to get the access described on the AR. If you sunder the bad guy's +3 longsword, then access to it is crossed off the AR. If the evil wizard teleports away, then you do not gain access to anything he had on him.

ADVENTURE RECORD AND MASTER ITEM LOGSHEET

- Q: If I attempt to live off the wild and fail my Survival check can I pay normal adventurer's lifestyle?
- A: No. If you fail your check, you do not gain any of the benefits of living off the wild. You are dirty and disheveled and are considered to have picked none as your lifestyle cost for this event.

Q: If I convert a year one certificate over to the new MIL does it lose any special abilities it had?

A: No. It works exactly as it did before.

Q: I have an item that grows in power as it is used. How do I determine its value?

A: This one has two answers. If the item grows in power and stays at that higher power regardless of owner then its value is equal to its current enchantment. If the item reverts to its initial stage if the owner changes, such as with the sword of the rogue then its value is always the original value of the item.

Q: After the adventure is over we managed to obtain gold that is over and beyond what the adventure records states as the maximum reward. What can we do with this extra gold?

A: This gold can be used for several things during the adventure. It can be used to pay for services such as a room in the inn, NPC spellcasting, or bribing a local guard. What it cannot be used for is anything that happens after the adventure is over (unless it is paying for NPC spellcasting) or anything that will add an item to a character.

Q: How do I determine what spells are available to copy into my wizard's spellbook during an adventure?

A: If an NPC doesn't have a spellbook listed in inventory, spells cannot be copied

BEYOND THE CORE RULES Q: My character gained access to an item after my

Q: My character gained access to an item after my cohort's creation. Can my cohort now purchase that item when he next plays?

A: Yes. Cohort and character use the same list.

Q: Can I have an NPC cast spells that are not on Table 6-3: Spell Costs?

A: No. Unless specifically documented in an adventure, you cannot have NPCs cast spells not listed on Table 6-3: Spell Costs.

Q: What happens if my character dies and gets reincarnated as a new race but has racial feats, a racial prestige class or receives spells that come from a racial deity?

A: In the case of feats, if you no longer qualify for a racial feat because of a change in race; pick another feat you qualify for from the feats your character has access. Have the DM note the selection on the play notes section of the AR in where you were reincarnated or had the racial change.

For prestige classes (including those tied to the worship of a deity you no longer qualify to venerate), you cannot advance any further in the racial prestige class, but you retain levels you already gained. You may request a special mission from your triad to swap out all racial prestige class levels for levels in any of the core classes from the PHB.

If you are a cleric or favored soul, in this specific instance only, you may continue to worship your deity and receive divine spells and other abilities associated with the worship of that deity.

Q: What happens when my familiar, animal companion or paladin's mount dies?

A: It is the circle's ruling that paladin's mounts and animal companions would not want to be raised from the dead and are therefore cannot be raised. When they die their soul departs to the relevant plane. This also applies if the PC wants to employ a resurrection or true resurrection spell. Reincarnation only works on PCs or their cohorts, if applicable.

The death of familiars is described in the Player's Handbook. Note that when a familiar dies, the player must immediately determine whether or not he has lost XP as a result of the familiar's death. This XP loss does not take place at the end of the adventure or after the player has decided he will not raise his familiar but immediately on the death of the familiar (if the Save is failed).

MAGIC ITEM CREATION

- Q: Is the caster level of an item a prerequisite for making it?
- A: Yes. You must have a caster level equal to or higher than the one listed to create a magic item.
- Q: What about the pearls of power? 17th level to make any of them seems a bit steep.

A: Pearls of power are the exception to this rule. The casterlevel requirement to make a pearl of power is the spell level of the pearl times 2 plus 3 (minimum 5th). A 3rd-level pearl of power has a 9th-level caster requirement, and a 7th-level pearl of power has a 17th-level requirement. The two spell pearl has a requirement of 17th level.

Q: Can I make an item off somebody else's adventure record?

A: No. It is what you have encountered in your adventures not somebody else.

Q: I have gained access to an item or weapon upgrade via an adventure record. Can I use this upgrade on a nonstandard item?

A: No. Only standard items (as defined in Chapter 7: Magic Item Creation) can be upgraded in any fashion. If you find an upgrade to add flaming to a weapon, you cannot add it to the sword of the rogue for example. This is retroactive to all items. If you have an item that this rule applies to, contact your triad immediately.

Q: When I use Scribe Scroll, can I put more than one spell on a scroll and get more than five spells onto scrolls for my 1 time unit?

A: No. For purposed of MIC, one day equals one scroll equals one spell.

Q: Can I use an item or affect to temporarily increase my caster level during magic item creation?

A: No. Unless the item or effect is a constant 24-hour long effect you cannot use it during magic item creation. For example, a bead of karma cannot be used to raise your caster level by +4 and grant you access to items you would normally be unable to create.

Q: I have a favor or influence point that grants me access to an item or an upgrade to an item. Does this count as access for purposed of MIC?

A: No. Somebody else being willing to craft, upgrade or sell you an item does not count as having access to that item. The item must appear in the items round during the adventure box of an AR to qualify for MIC.

Q: I have gained access to a bane (undead) weapon. Can I now create bane weapons of any type?

A: No. You can only create bane weapons of creature types that you have access to.

COMBAT

- Q: Can I attack another character to inflict permanent harm or death if the PC is being controlled by the DM?
- A: Only if it is unavoidable. If the character is under the DM's control then you may defend yourself as needed, but you still may not kill the character unless you cannot avoid it (DM's discretion here). The character is being manipulated and is still a fellow party member and killing it is an evil act.

On the other hand, as soon as you freely attack another character to cause serious physical harm while not defending yourself, your character is removed from the campaign. Obviously there are times in which you may inadvertently hurt another character through your actions. The intent behind the actions is what is important here and can only be judged on a case-bycase basis by the DM at the table.

- Q: When I use the Leap Attack feat from Complete Adventurer combined with Power Attack how much damage do I deal?
- A: You deal either 2 points of damage per point of Power Attack with a one-handed weapon or 3 points of damage per point of Power Attack with a two-handed weapon.

Chapter 10: Contacts, Websites, & Message Boards

So you made it this far: good. This document and the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign can seem pretty intimidating to a new player. Fortunately, there are plenty of people out there who are more than happy to help you get started. There are discussion lists for each region as well as the campaign itself. From a group dedicated to nothing but discussing rules to a group for people with curses, there is something for everybody. Each region also has a website stocked full of information on play opportunities, metacampaign groups and upcoming adventure schedules.

As you know, the campaign is broken up into regions. Each region corresponds to an area in the real world. GREYHAWK regions sharing a common plot interest are also grouped into five metaregions. The websites, discussion groups and point of contact for all the campaign regions are listed below and sorted by metaregion. Find you local list and stop in to say hi. There are probably games running right now closer than you think, and new friends who share your interests waiting to meet you.

Adventure awaits you in every corner of the Flanaess! From skullduggery in the streets of GREYHAWK City, to perilous searches in the depths of Hepmonaland, to trekking across the desolation of the Bright Desert, there is always danger for those who seek to do good or earn coin. Core adventures take you to places untouched by the lands of civilization, regions of mystery or nations of great peril. Core adventures also include special events, many of which take place in classic GREYHAWK settings, such as the Temple of Elemental Evil, the Lands of Black Ice or the Ghost Tower of Inverness.

Metaregion One: The Sheldomar Valley

Circle Representative: Steven Conforti (scon40@aol.com) Metaregion Representative: Michael Moore (duke rael@earthlink.net)

The Sheldomar Valley has a long and troubled history. Once dominated by the terrible lich Vecna, it is a fertile but wartorn place. It is a land where many of the Suel and Oeridians took refuge after the Twin Cataclysms, amongst the native Flan of the region, to form the mighty kingdom of Keoland. The Valley has seen hard times lately: invasions by giants on its western borders, interference by the Scarlet Brotherhood in the south, invasion by evil humanoids of the Pomarj in the east, and the conquering of its northern most reaches by the nation of Ket. The giants have been driven out of Sterich, and Ket has vacated Bissel; but, Geoff and the Principality of Ulek still remain under siege. If not for the assistance of Gran March and the Yeomanry these last years, who knows how long the Sheldomar Valley would remain under the control of the forces of good?

Before you, adventure beckons. Disembarking from the lake of unknown depths you're drawn into the bustling mercantile city of Dyvers. Traveling through the Gnarly Forest into the heart of Old Ferrond the halls of the Viscount of Verbobonc await. All is not well here as they are the uneasy keeper of the ruin known as the Temple of Elemental Evil. Though destroyed many years ago, its legacy lingers no matter how hard the souls of good men try to forget. To the west lies the Archclericy of Veluna with its people living in harmony as Rao watches over and protect them all. Beyond the Bramblewood Forest lies Ket, the crossroads between the east and west with its strong military and deft merchants. Across the Yatil mountains lies Tusmit, home of some of the finest weapons and armor in the Baklunish lands. Settled upon the shores of the Dramidj Ocean is possibly the oldest of the Baklunish states, the Caliphate of Ekbir. Adventure, wealth and danger abound. Are you up to the task of finding it and living to tell the tale?

There are many in the Flanaess who believe that Iuz is a spent force. There is much recent evidence that suggests that Old Wicked has been content to merely tease the fringes of his border states as an annoyance rather than as a true threat. But it takes time to hatch new plots and spawn unmentionable offspring; and, time to delve deeper into the darkest places and create armies that will not be vulnerable again. Now the border states of Iuz, who have been rebuilding and reorganizing since the Flight Of Fiends, are about to discover what new nightmare Iuz The Old is ready to unleash upon the lands of the Flanaess! Are you prepared to fight?

Crisis wracks the fertile lands that once made up the western part of the Great Kingdom–now home to Nyrond, the County and Duchy of Urnst, and the Theocracy of the Pale. In Nyrond, former Prince Sewarndt seized the throne and declared himself Emperor with King Lynwerd and Queen Xenia nowhere to be found. With the tragic sacrifice and loss of the Countess Belissica, the County turned to new leadership in Contessa Elone Hofre Gellor. The noble houses of the Duchy of Urnst, mired in their own games of intrigue, feud with each other to further their own ends. Under Theocrat Theoman Baslett, the armies of the Pale annexed half of the ruined Duchy of Tenh, but chaos and deception threaten the faithful. Enemies are poised to exploit any sign of weakness. These nations need heroes to sustain hope!

Once, the Golden Sun of Aerdy was the light of the Flanaess—a shining bastion of civilization and culture. Now that sun is splintered into a handful of successor states struggling amongst themselves to reclaim some small fragment of their glorious birthright. In the heartlands of Aerdy, two Overkings vie for a debased throne, a tarnished crown and a lost city. In the south, the states of the once proud Iron League fight desperately to resist the insidious tendrils of the Scarlet Brotherhood and their nested conspiracies to restore another lost empire – the ancient Suel Imperium.

Glossary

adventure record (AR): After each LIVING GREYHAWK adventure, you receive a full page certificate. This certificate is an adventure record and details what you gained or lost during the course of the adventure. Together with your previous ARs, they form the recorded history of your character from creation until the present. Without these documents you have no record of what your character has seen, accomplished or found. Keep track of your ARs, and do not lose them.

average party level (APL): In order for the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign to accommodate the different combinations of player levels sitting down at a session, we use a system of tiering known as the APL system. It calculates the average party level and then runs the event at an appropriate level to challenge that group. Though described in detail at the beginning of each adventure, here is a brief description.

To determine the APL of the party, first determine the effective level of each character at the session. Generally, a character's class level is used for the APL calculation. Characters accompanied by animals that are not gained as class abilities (druid animal companions and paladin's mount are gained as class abilities) use the chart in Chapter 6 to determine how many levels to add to the character. Once this calculation is complete, add up the levels for everybody at the table and divide that sum by the number of characters. Use standard rounding rules to round to a whole number (fractions of .5 or more round up). Add one to this number if there are 6 members in the party. Since APLs in an adventure are only even numbers, you may pick which APL to play at if calculations results in an odd number. With an APL 7 group, the DM could choose to run either APL 6 or 8. If calculations results in an even number, the adventure must play at that APL.

base class: Also known as a standard class, this is any 20-level character class. Examples include the fighter from the Player's Handbook and the favored soul from Complete Divine.

campaign documentation: An official certificate issued by the global campaign staff. In most cases this is an official adventure record from an RPGA-sanctioned, LIVING GREYHAWK event. The cracked shield devices of the region denote these certificates. The shield device on those shields sports the coat-of-arms for the region that issued the certificate (or the City of Greyhawk shield device as a default), and has no overlay text across the shield. A DM's signature must appear on this documentation to be valid.

campaign year: A campaign year in LIVING GREYHAWK runs from January 1 to December 31. Each campaign year has a GREYHAWK year assigned to it as well. For example, the real year 2003 corresponds to 593 CY in the game. When one year passes in the real world, one year passes in the game as well.

circle, the: Each metaregion in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign is overseen by a circle member. These officials are collective known as the circle. The circle represents the top of the hierarchy in the campaign, and all triad members report to one of the five members. The circle is responsible for setting all the rules in the campaign, creating all campaign official documents (such as the one you are reading right now), core plotlines, triad recruitment and management, approval and sanctioning of all LIVING GREYHAWK adventures, conflict and appeal resolution, and many other tasks that keep us very busy. The circle represents the campaign on a global scale, and when it comes to LIVING GREYHAWK and rules, should be accorded all due respect. The circle reports to RPGA Content Developer Stephen Radney-MacFarland at Wizards of the Coast.

class guidebook: One of five DUNGEON & DRAGONS accessories series published by Wizards of the Coast, also known as builder books. They are titled: Sword and Fist: A Guidebook to Fighters and Monks, Defenders of the Faith: A Guidebook to Clerics and Paladins, Tome and Blood: A Guidebook to Wizards and Sorcerers, Song and Silence: A Guidebook to Bards and Rogues, and Masters of the Wild: A Guidebook to Barbarians, Druids and Rangers. These supplements are phased out of the campaign.

Complete book: One of four DUNGEON & DRAGONS accessories series published by Wizards of the Coast. They are titled: Complete Adventurer, Complete Arcane, Complete Divine, and Complete Warrior. These books are fully v.3.5 compliant and have replaced the older class guidebooks.

core adventures usually take place in the non-regional areas of the game world: the City of GREYHAWK, the Nyr Dyv, Duchy of Tenh, or the Underdark. Core adventures can be played by any character, anywhere in the world. Core adventures advance campaign-wide plots, and usually cost your character 2 TUS. On average there are twenty rounds of core adventures each year plus several more special adventures that run at certain shows or venues.

core class: One of the eleven 20-level character classes appearing in the Player's Handbook. The eleven core classes are: barbarian, bard, cleric, druid, fighter, monk, paladin, ranger, rogue, sorcerer and wizard.

core supplement: A collective name for the Complete and Races series of books. These books form the majority of player option material for the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign.

during play: Any point after the character starts play in its first adventure. From that point on, the character is considered in play when it is being played at an RPGA-sanctioned LIVING GREYHAWK event. If the character dies permanently or gains 230,000 experience points, it is considered out of play. Be aware that a character may be in play but not immediately controlled by its player. Imprisonment, some spell effects and other factors may take the control of a character out the player's hands and put control into the hands of either the DM or the campaign staff.

home region: Unlike other LIVING campaigns, LIVING GREYHAWK has assigned real world locations to a corresponding GREYHAWK location. So for example if you live in Ohio, your default home region is the Archclericy of Veluna. Your home region represents where that character calls home and effects what options the character has access to. It also effects how many time units are spent on different activities. You may choose a region other than your default home region but, for most players, choosing the default is the best option.

master item logsheet (MIL): A single page document that contains every item that your character owns and that is not found in the Player's Handbook v.3.5. It shows where you found them, when you purchased it and when you sold it. It keeps track of charges left in wands or how many +2 arrows you have left in your quiver.

metaregional representative: Each metaregion in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign is overseen not only by a circle member but also by a metaregional representative. The metaregional representative helps direct the metaregional adventure plotline and reviews submitted metaregional adventures. This individual also assists the circle member with other duties, as the circle member sees fit, and is the acting circle member in an emergency. Except in cases where the metaregional representative is an acting circle member, they have the same authority in the campaign as other triad members and should be accorded the same respect.

metaregional adventures: All of the regions are grouped into one of five metaregions, which unite regions that share a similar theme. For example, the Bandit Kingdoms, Perrenland, Highfolk, Furyondy, and the Shield Lands all border the realm of the evil Iuz, and are therefore connected as the Iuz's Border States metaregion. Like regional adventures, metaregional adventures can only be played in the real-world regions that make up the metaregion. Metaregional adventures advance larger plots and introduce non-player characters important to the entire metaregion. Metaregional adventures usually cost your character I TU if it contains you home region, or 2 TUs if it does not. Each metaregion is allowed eight rounds of adventures each year.

A metaregional adventure can only be ordered and run by a DM from that metaregion. The only exception to this rule is for shows that qualify for convention status based on the RPGA's current rules. Those shows may use out-of-region GMs to run their events. Under no circumstances can a metaregional adventure be run out of region without campaign approval.

Races book: One of three DUNGEON & DRAGONS accessories series published by Wizards of the Coast. They are titled: Races of Stone, Races of Destiny, and Races of the Wild. Along with the Complete series of books, these books are where the majority of player option material is used for the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign.

regional documentation: Usually a regional certificate, but includes any other form of region-sanctioned documentation that outlines regional requirements for metagame groups or other official regional details. It should clearly state the official region on whatever form of documentation a particular region is official, and a list of regional documentation should appear on the region's website. It must contain the heraldry of the region it is from with the words, "Regional Certificate," over the top of the shield device. A triad member's or DM's signature must appear on this documentation for it to be valid.

regional adventures: Adventures that can only be played in their real-world region. Each region has several adventures published each year, and these regional adventures can only be played in the corresponding real-world region. Regional adventures for Highfolk, for example, can only be played in the state of Wisconsin and nowhere else. If you visit Wisconsin from somewhere else, your character can play these Highfolk regional adventures but cannot play its own home region adventures while visiting. Regional adventures advance plots and introduce non-player characters important within that region. Regional adventures usually cost your character I TU if it is the PC's home region or 2 TUs if it is not the home region. Each region is allowed eight rounds of regional adventures each year.

A regional adventure can only be ordered and run by a DM from that region. The only exception to this rule is for shows that qualify for convention status based on the RPGA's current rules. Those shows may use out-of-region GMs to run their events. Under no circumstances can a regional adventure be run out of region without campaign approval.

slot zero: A game run before a convention or game day for GMs. This allows them to play the adventure before running it and thus avoid eating (not being able to play the event). It also helps them prepare better as they get to see the adventure from both a player's and GM's point of view.

time units (TUS): In a normal year of the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign, your character only has so much time to do things. This is represented by time units. Each character you have has 52 TUs to use in a year. Various activities, such as adventuring, creating magic items or becoming a squire to a knight, all use up time units. Once a character run out of time unites, you cannot play that PC again until TUs reset again on January 1 of the next year. While a time unit is approximately the same as one week of real time it is not the same thing. They are an abstract amount of time and can vary.

triad: Each region in the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign is overseen by three individuals collectively known as the triad. These hard-working volunteers are the ones in charge of adventure production, meta-orgs, interactives, special missions and many of the exciting developments that occur in your region. They are the campaigns representation at the local level and, when it comes to LIVING GREYHAWK and rules, should be accorded all due respect. Your triad reports to the circle member for their metaregion.(See Chapter 9 for more details on what metaregion you are in.)

Year One certificate: August 11, 2000 to December 31, 2001 was considered Year One of the LIVING GREYHAWK campaign. At this time magical items and non-standard items were represented in the campaign by individual certificates. These were usually 1/3 of a page sized sheets of paper, printed in color and signed by the DM that gave them out. They have since been removed by the campaign staff and are now recorded on the master item logsheet instead. A few of these are still floating about representing influence points and other oddities; for the most part, they were removed from the campaign.
