

The Constellation of Alarion

and other stories

Ten insightful science fiction tales from one of British science fiction and fantasy's most intriguing authors.

Best known for his Cthulhu mythos and historical fantasy series, John Houlihan presents his first major sci-fi collection, including debut play, Bomber Command.

In Most Exalted, the vanquisher of an intergalactic tyrant now resides in a veterans' home, but when a series of suspicious deaths occur, will his dubious past catch finally up with him?

In Charioteer, countries settle disputes the old-fashioned way: trial by combat. On the eve of a great contest, champion Nique grows ever more arrogant and dissolute. Will his sister Soola step out from his shadow and embrace her destiny?

In The Constellation of Alarion, a fabulous treasure lies within a deadly labyrinth. Three interstellar rogues must face the maze's many lethal traps and their own bumbling inadequacies to claim it.

Explore these and many more tantalising glimpses into a beguiling future from one of fantastic fiction's most fascinating talents.
