HOW TO ASSEMBLE COMPUTER:

The INDIANA JONES™* Adventure computer is easy to assemble.

Tools Needed

- Sharp, small scissors
- White glue or paste
- Tape

Cutting Apart

1. Cut apart the two computer slides.
2. Cut apart the two score cards on the facing page.
3. "Score" — Using a ruler and a pen draw along the dotted line on the slides.
4. Now, being careful, cut a slot from the right side of the slide along the base of the gray spaces and cut out the windows.

Assembling

Once all of the gray windows have been cut out fold the ends of the slides back. (For more support you can use transparent tape on the back of the slide to tape the slots.)

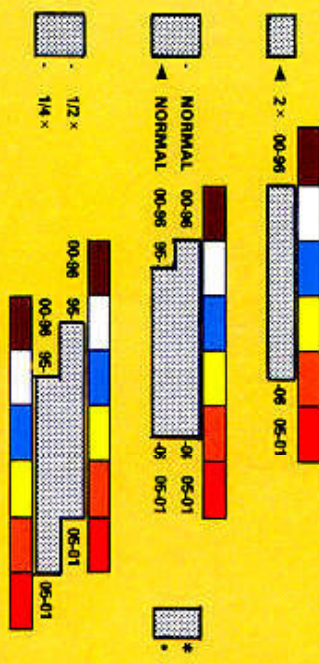

Apply glue to the area indicated and glue a front panel to a back panel by gluing each end of the slide making a tube. (See diagram).

How To Use

To use the Adventure computer, insert one card into each slide, matching the side of the card to the appropriate side of the slide.

GENERATING CHARACTERS FOR ADVENTURES

There are times when the characters provided in the game are simply not suitable for the adventure you have planned. In these cases you can create your own characters using the rules below.

Step #1. Determine Ratings.

Roll percentile dice for each Attribute Rating and write the result in pencil next to the Attribute name.

Step #2. Modify the Ratings.

You have 30 points you can divide between the Attribute Ratings to improve them. The only restriction is that no Attribute can be raised higher than 70. Scores that are above 70 are kept, they just cannot be increased. Write the modified Attribute Rating in the space, erasing the previous number.

Step #3. Determine the Modified Columns.

Write the  $\times 2$ ,  $\frac{1}{2}$ , and  $\frac{1}{4}$  Modified Ratings in the proper spaces. Round all fractions to the nearest even number.

Step #4. Determine Background.

To find out what skills your character has, you must choose what his background was before he got caught up in wild adventures. You can choose one of the following categories:

Education
Soldiering
Real World

Education: Your character was enrolled in college. Roll one die and add 1 for every 10 points of Instinct your character has. If the modified roll is 10 or greater, your character completed his undergraduate studies. If the roll is less, your character dropped out. If your character wants to continue into graduate school, repeat the process but only add 1 point for every 20 points of Instinct greater than 70. Your character now has a doctorate, but no tenure. The number of skills he can take are listed below.

Undergraduate — Choose one Education skill dropout
Undergraduate — Choose two Education skills degree
Doctorate — Choose three Education skills

Real World: Your character has had a variety of jobs. You can select 2 skills from the Real World list.

Soldiering: Your character joined the army, navy or airforce. The military being what it is, you have no choice about the skills you gain. You automatically receive a bonus of 10 on your Prowess Attribute and make one percentile die roll on the Soldiering Knowledge list.

In addition to these, there is a 10% chance that your character has an additional knowledge. Any Knowledge but Education can be selected.

Step #5: Choose knowledges.

According to your character's background, select or roll the Knowledge on the table below.

Education	Real World
Archaeology	Driving
Medical	Entertainment
Photography	First aid
Surveying	Hotwiring
+ 10 Appeal	Lockpicking
+ 10 Instinct	Mechanical
Any language	Picking pockets
	Sailing

Soldiering

1-10	Driving
11-20	Explosives
21-30	First Aid
31-40	Heavy weapons
41-50	Karate
51-60	Mechanical
61-70	Parachuting
71-80	Piloting
81-90	Sailing
91-00	Choose 1 and roll again

Your referee can create additional knowledge areas if he desires.

Step #6. Select Your Languages

Your character can speak the native tongue of his country, so first you should decide what nationality your character is. To learn additional languages, you must make Instinct Checks. For each successful check, you can add another language to your character's list. When you fail a Check you can add no more languages. The first Check is at the Normal Rating, the second at  $\frac{1}{2}$ , and all remaining at  $\frac{1}{4}$ .

You may choose any language, living or dead, of the known world for your character.

Step #7. Get Your Equipment

To get your character started, you need some money to purchase your equipment. Roll one die and add the number of skills and 1 for every 10 points of Appeal above 70 that your character has. Multiply the result by 100. This is how many dollars your character has to buy equipment and put into savings. You can purchase equipment for your character from the lists given in the rules. In addition, your referee may allow you to buy other items not on the list.

In addition to any equipment you buy, your character also has a reasonable wardrobe of clothing and a place to live. These things are free when you start.

Step #8. Final Details

With this information, you are ready to adventure. Of course, you could do a few other things — give your character a name, decide whether it's male or female, decide what he looks like, and how old he is. Then, you're ready to go out and take on the world!

RANDOM RUINS

The heart of an INDIANA JONES™ adventure is the exploration of an ancient ruin. This section is designed to help the judge to quickly create interesting ruins without a lot of work by using a series of random tables.

It is easy to follow the step by step procedure to create your own ruins. It requires the two dice from the game and making choices. The steps to follow to create a ruin are numbered and detailed on this page. The tables to be used are numbered the same as the step with which they are used. If there are several tables for use with a step, they will be numbered first with the number of the step, then separated by a period there will be a second number (eg. 1.2, 6.3, etc.).

If there are several tables, the second die may be used to indicate which table to use. This will be noted at the top of the tables.

At times you may prefer to choose a certain result, rather than roll dice. In this case, the tables may be used as a handy reference. If your ruin doesn't make sense, don't be afraid to make changes. This is only a beginning and you may want to expand on the current tables or create your own.

Creating a Random Ruin

1) Define the Find. When player characters are exploring a ruin, they are usually looking for a special archaeological "Find" that is unique and will identify who built the ruin or whose tomb it is. A "Find" is the goal of the adventure, and once a character has found it, he has succeeded.

"Finds" come in many forms and you should use the Find Tables to determine what the item looks like. Finds may be merely special proof that the ruin was found or it may be a fake created by natives or from another era than that of the ruin. Fakes turned over to museums will hurt a character's reputation.

To determine what a Find is roll two dice one for what Type and the other to determine its Nature. Once you know its Type, you may choose what it is specifically. If a Find is Special, roll two dice and determine what it can do.

In this game, a Find may possess miraculous powers. You should be careful when a Find has special powers. The player characters should not be allowed to keep such an item, for it would make them super men. Special Finds should be fought over by villains and are used to make an adventure interesting, giving a character a special power in an emergency. But once they have lived up the story they should be lost or taken away. For further information, read the section on Dealing with the Unknown.

1.0 FINDS

1.1 TYPE OF FIND

To locate a Find in a ruin, the judge may roll room contents randomly until a Find is indicated or may select a specific place in the ruin for the Find. The characters should have to overcome/pass at least five Noteworthy items before locating a Find.

If you want to make it harder, pick a number from 1 to 5; this represents the number of rooms where the Find might be. Every time a Find is indicated, check the chance that the Find is there; eventually it will be located. To determine if the Find is really in a room, determine how many rooms it may still be in, including this one (see the chart below). Roll one die and if the number is less than or equal to the chance on the chart below, the Find is here in this room. If the room does not contain a Find, it has Treasure instead.

Number of Rooms Remaining	Chance It Is Here
4	3
1	THIS IS IT!

2) Determine the Type of Ruin. Roll one die or pick what type the ruin is. The Type will give a short explanation of what it is, what it looks like, some examples and the number of entrances it may have.

3) Define the Entrances. The judge should choose how many entrances there are into the ruin from the range given with the Ruin Type.

Next, roll one die and add the Type number for each entrance and consult the Entrance Tables. This will define the way the entrance is reached. Roll the second die, or pick one of the Entry Halls to start the ruin. If all the routes deadend, add Secret Ways to continue the ruin to the Find.

RANDOM RUIN SYNOPSIS

- 1) DEFINE THE FIND.
- 2) DETERMINE RUIN TYPE.
- 3) DEFINE THE ENTRANCES.
- 4) DETERMINE NEXT AREA — HALL OR ROOM.
- 5) DETERMINE GENERAL DESCRIPTION.
- 6) DETERMINE NOTEWORTHY ITEM TYPE.
- 7) DEFINE THE NOTEWORTHY ITEMS.

4) Determine if Hall or Room is Next. Pick the path you want and then roll two dice to determine if the next area is a hall or room. One die will indicate the area is a hall or room. An odd number is a hall, an even number is a room. The second will give a pair of diagrams from which to choose shapes.

The first die will also indicate if the area is empty or contains something Noteworthy.

First Die Roll	Meaning
Odd (1,3,5,7,9)	Hall
Even (2,4,6,8,0)	Room
1,2,3,4	Nothing
5,6,7,8,9,0	Something Noteworthy

5) Determine General Description. Roll two dice. The first die will note what is being described: odd — a Feature; even — Contents. The second die will indicate a specific entry. If Contents are indicated there are separate tables for Halls and Rooms.

Roll the two dice again for Description. The first indicates which Table to use; the second indicates a specific Description.

6) Determine Noteworthy Type. If the area has something Noteworthy, roll two dice and consult the Hall or Room Noteworthy table to determine the Type.

7) Define the Noteworthy Item. Once the Type of Noteworthy item is determined, first determine where it is located in area, then roll two dice and consult the appropriate tables.

Noteworthy Types include:

Treasure
Traps
Secret Ways
Creatures
Obstacles
Predecessors
Spectacles
Incredibles
and Dilemmas.

Vanished Race would include Mayans, Vikings, and Atlanteans.

Evolved Race might be men with wings or with great mental abilities.

- 4-9) Common
- 0) A Fake**

* Special — Check on the following Special Power Table. The judge should determine just how it works.

** Fake — An archaeologist may discover a fake by making an Instinct Check.

1.3 SPECIAL POWERS.

ODD (1,3,5,7,9)	EVEN (2,4,6,8,0)
1) Control Others	Control a Natural Force

5) See Future	See Past
6) Good Luck	Victory
7) Immortality	Youth

Every special power should have a weakness, a way to get around it. For example, Invulnerability should have an Achilles Heel. Each entry only hints at a category, you should narrow the definition to one specific item — such as Special Movement might be Flight, Swimming, Walking through Walls, etc. Use your imagination.

2.0 TYPES OF RUIN

1) NEOLITHIC — Natural stone caves carved by the forces of nature. Cool, unworked stone bearing the crude signature of primitive man. (Caves, Caverns, Faults, Overhangs, Pits.) Entrances: (1-2).

2) MEGOLITHIC — Crudely shaped stone, stacked or buried by man. Immense stone structures isolated on plains and lone hills, that could only have been erected by giants, bearing runes and ancient sigils, monitoring the movement of the heavens and guarding the revered dead. (Dolmens, Cairns, Stonehenge — Tribal, Aborigine, Nordic, Celtic, Malaysian, Amerindian, African and Amazonian.) Entrances: (1-2).

3) ADOBE — Primitive buildings made of baked clay and straw. Earthen walls and floors, rotting beams support the ceiling; often stacked one floor upon another, linked by ladders and ramps. (Sumerian, Babylonian, Cliff Dwellers, Hopi.) Entrances (2-4).

4) GARGANTUAN — Colossal structures of large unmortared stone. Huge blocks of well cut stone, carefully fitted without mortar; gargantuan pillars and statues decorate their threshold and support the vault of the ceiling. (Pyramids, Egyptian, Mayan, Aztec, Incan, Atlantean.) Entrances: (2-5).

5) CATACOMBED — A maze of underground passageways, canals & sewers. A dank, dark series of chambers and tunnels honeycombed beneath the earth; often bearing the remains of ancestors. (Catacombs, cellars, sewers, mines.) Entrances: (2-12).

DEALING WITH THE UNKNOWN

Dealing with the Unknown is fairly common in THE ADVENTURES OF INDIANA JONES™ game. The Unknown is the weird, the unexpected, displays of unearthly, legendary power resulting in something either seemingly impossible or scientifically advanced. The Unknown is encountered fairly frequently by Indiana Jones as he searches for the Lost Ark or encounters the legendary Sankara Stones and the power of Mola Ram. The Unknown should have a place in your adventures too, for it adds a touch of the bizarre, adding excitement, giving a challenge that seems worth facing if only to tell of the encounter.

You can add the mystery of dealing with the Unknown if you take care. Here are some suggestions for how to add it to your adventure and a couple lists of the Unknown to give you ideas. When dealing with the Unknown in an adventure it can be used in the following manner.

- As the goal for the heroes and villains;
- As an unexpected, uncontrollable display of mysterious effect;
- As the method to activate a legendary power;
- As inspiration to a character in his moment of dire need;
- and As a villain's evil power.

There are three major types of the Unknown: an item of legendary might, a mysterious power possessed by another character, and a power that is not possessed by a character, but seems to have a will of its own, like a haunted house.

First, determine the type of the Unknown in your adventure; one type is more than enough, you don't want it to be commonplace because then it won't be mysterious. You can use the power of the one Unknown several times.

Note, it is possible that the apparent mysterious power is a hoax, with another character using gimmicks to make it appear he has some strange power. The uncertainty of whether the power is real or not will add even more mystery.

Second, determine how and when the Unknown will manifest in your adventure. It should not be too early or else it will lose impact, though you may hint at it through tales told by other characters, legends remembered and premonitions. It is best to leave the final unveiling of the Unknown to the climax of the adventure.

Finally, at the end of an adventure, don't leave the power in the hands of the player characters. That could lead to super human characters that wouldn't be any fun to play. Instead, arrange to take the power away, destroy it or negate its ability at the end.

Below are three tables: one on Types, one on Manifestations and the last a list of possible encounter types for a ruin.

SPICING UP CHASES

Along with the new ADVENTURE FOLD-UP™ vehicles, we have included a set of new rules and material to help spice up your chases. First, there are five new flow charts to add variety to your play. The flow charts were designed for Country-side, City Streets, and Building and Rooftop chases, but they can be used for much more. Following is a quick recap of how to use the charts.

- 1) The BOXES represent Intersections and Hazards and are counted as one space. The PATHS have numbers indicating how many spaces are between each box.
- 2) To START a chase on a flow chart, roll one die to determine which box to start in (only some boxes are numbered) or choose where you start. Roll or choose again to determine where the END space is.
- If the leader reaches the END space before being caught, he has gotten away.
- 3) Determine how much head start the Leader has and begin the chase. When the Leader loses the Chaser or reaches the End, or the Chaser catches the Leader, the chase is over.
- 4) If a Hazard box is entered, the one entering must roll on a Hazard table for effect.
- 5) If the Chaser falls more than 1 intersection behind he loses sight of the Leader and must make an Instinct check at  $\times \frac{1}{2}$  to pick the right route.
- 6) If the leader is an NPC the judge may choose which way to turn at intersections.
- 7) Knowing the area. If a character is trying to make a choice on which is the best route to take use this rule
  - If he is very familiar with the area, the judge should tell him which is the best route;
  - If he is vaguely familiar with the area he must make a successful Instinct check for the judge to tell the best route;
  - If he is unfamiliar, the player must choose.

Two new Hazard tables have been provided on page 10 to add more variety. Also included are some new Shortcut tables. When a character wishes to try to close the distances by taking a shortcut he makes a Movement check. If the check fails, he must then roll on the Shortcut table for the result. If he succeeds, he gains spaces — 2 for a blue result, 4 for a yellow, 6 for a red or Lucky Break.

NEW VEHICLE RULES

To add further excitement here are some new rules and options.

VEHICLE DAMAGE LOCATIONS

01-30	Body
31-35	Right of Front Tire
36-45	Right or Front Fender
46-55	Front
56-65	Windows
66-75	Rear
76-85	Left or Rear Fender
86-90	Left or Rear Tire
91 00	Engine

When a vehicle is attacked it is usually from one direction and you should select the result that makes the most sense. As damage is inflicted to a vehicle it is recorded against one area and has similar effects to the Vehicle Rating as wounds do to a character's abilities. Damage adds in the same way it does to a character.

Light Damage: Light damage to anywhere does not affect the rating, but destroys lights and grillwork and puts dents in the body. Light damage to a tire reduces braking by 10 mph.

Medium Damage: Medium damage to a Fender, Rear or Body has no effect; but to Engine, and Front  $\frac{1}{2}$  rating. It destroys windows and passengers may take damage. Tires must make a rating check or blow out and then you must check on the accident results.

Heavy Damage: Heavy damage to a Fender, Rear or Body  $\frac{1}{2}$  the rating; to the Front  $\frac{1}{4}$  the rating; to the Engine or tires must immediately check on the accident results.

STUNTING

If you thrill to wild car chases, here is how to handle some basic stunting actions.

Barriers: Each barrier is given a rating of 5, 10, 15, 20 or unbreakable. When a barrier is crashed, the driver must make a Vehicle Rating check at  $\times 2$ . If he fails he must check for an accident. No matter what happens, the rating of the barrier is then subtracted from the Vehicle Rating.

Ramming and Sideswiping: To avoid an accident when bumping another car, the driver must make a Vehicle Rating check at  $\times 2$ . No matter what happens he must then subtract the acceleration rate of the car he bashed from his Vehicle Rating.

Fancy Turns: To make skid turns and bootleg 180 degree turns, the driver must make a successful Movement check or have an accident.

Driving on Sidewalks or down a Fine Line: This requires a Movement check at  $\times \frac{1}{2}$  to succeed without an accident.

Jumping: To jump an obstacle, there must be a ramp in front of the obstacle, the driver must be going Redline speed and he must make a Movement check at  $\times \frac{1}{2}$ .

Two Wheeling: Finally to two wheel a car or truck you must have a ramp, be driving faster than Turn Speed and make a Movement check at  $\times \frac{1}{2}$  or check for an accident at  $+ 20$ .

FOOT CHASES:

Just to be fair here are quick rules for overcoming obstacles in a foot race.

Leaps and Climbing require a normal Movement Check.

Sliding, Swinging, Vaulting and Tackling require a Movement check at  $\times \frac{1}{2}$  to maintain control and not get hurt.

Trapeze style swings and catches require a Movement check at  $\times \frac{1}{4}$  to succeed and not fall.

Walking a ledge, Jumping High, and Controlling a fall may require a normal Movement check or one at  $\times \frac{1}{2}$  or  $\times \frac{1}{4}$  depending on how difficult the situation is.

HAZARD TABLES

A Hazard Table for car chases in a city already exists. Here are some new tables for car and foot chases.

RUNES AND SECRET WRITINGS

Many classic adventures begin with the hero finding an obscure clue written in an ancient language. Others begin with the hero finding a cryptic warning or coded map. How can you add secret writing to your adventure?

Using the alphabets here, it's quite easy. First, you must of course have an opportunity to have a secret message in your game and a reason for it. Second, you must write the message down. At this point you might want to translate your English into simple sounds — "cable" becomes "kabel" for instance. Third, find the symbol or substitute for each letter or letter pair (such as TH) and rewrite the message with the new alphabet. In some cases, the alphabet does not have an equivalent letter, so alternate letter symbols have been proposed or you may leave a space for the missing letter. This will help to further confuse the message for the translator.

You now have some secret writing. As is, a simple decoding will reveal the meaning of what you have written. If you wish to make it harder to decipher the message, you can write the message backwards, word for word. To be even more devious, try altering the location of verbs within sentences or leave out part of the message as if it have been damaged.

To be fair, any player with a character who can read ancient languages, should be able to use this alphabet page.

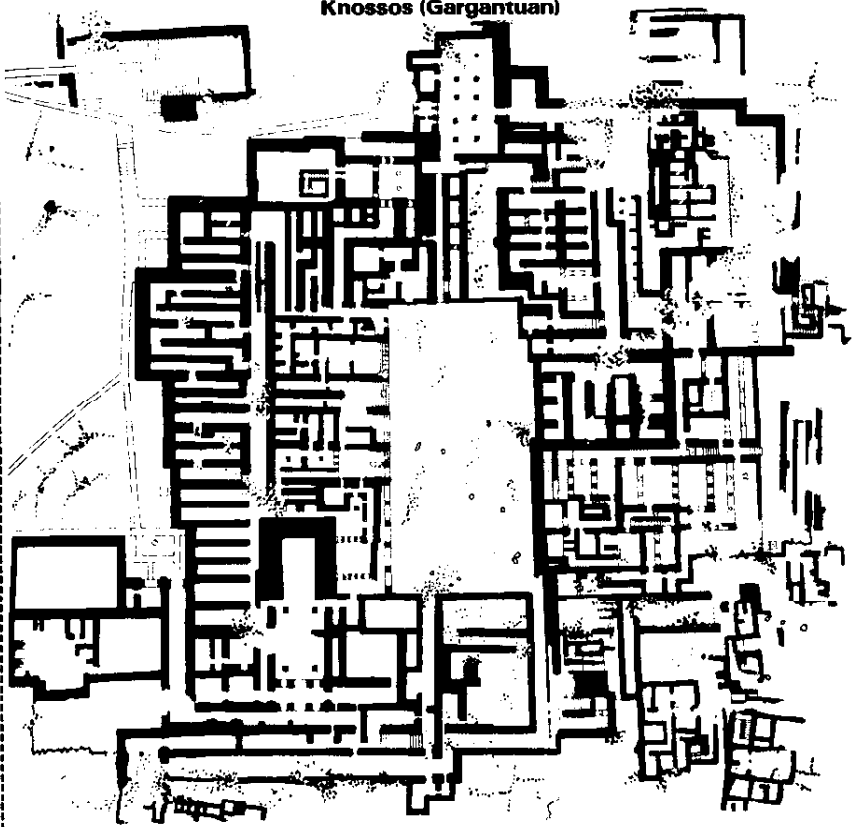

This is only a start. You can use other ancient alphabets or invent your own "ancient language" and leave clues to the translation.

SAMPLE RUIN MAPS

Several maps of actual ruins are presented here for use when a map is needed swiftly during play. In your campaign, they can be lost Indian temples, or the palaces of princes long hidden from the eyes of humanity.

These maps are only tools and may be used again and again in a variety of ways. For example, you could use only a portion of a map, or change the scale of size, describing the ruin as mammoth. Switching the compass direction of the map and where a character enters from will make a ruin seem different. Add dead ends or doorways where they don't exist or collapse a section into ruin. These are only to help you design your adventures swiftly without spending a lot of time creating maps.

You can find maps of other ruins in reference books at your local library. Look for books on architecture, archaeology and art history. These will expand your options with only a small effort on your part.

How To Assemble ADVENTURE FOLD-UP™ Figures

TSR's ADVENTURE FOLD-UP™ figures are easy to assemble, because they all use the same basic shapes. Once you, know how to assemble these shapes, you can put together most fold-up figures. All you have to do is cut them apart, fold on the dotted lines and glue them together.

TOOLS NEEDED

old ball point pen	ruler
white glue	scissors
transparent tape	paper clips

SCORING FOR FOLDING

To make it easier to make straight folds along the dotted lines you should use the following method.

Before cutting the figures apart you should "score" all the dotted lines. Scoring, is creating a crease in the paper. You will need an old ball point pen that no longer writes or uses black ink, and a ruler.

To score, use a ruler to help you draw a straight line, and using the old pen, draw along the folding line, pressing down to leave a crease in the paper. Scoring before cutting the figures apart is just easier.

CUTTING APART

Use a pair of sharp small scissors for cutting. Only cut apart the pieces of one figure at a time, such as the motorcycle—so as not to lose any pieces.

Most pieces are labelled with a number and a letter. The number indicates the order to which to assemble the piece. The letters indicates which figure the piece belongs to.

A = Jeep	C = Motorcycle
J = Jeep	S = Staff Car
T = Truck

Cut only on the solid black outlines. The dotted lines are for folding.

FOLDING

The figures fold one of two ways, backwards or forwards. Backwards folds are noted by a dashed line. Forward folds are noted by a dash and dotted line. Study the figures carefully before folding, some pieces fold both ways.

ASSEMBLING

Each figure should be assembled in the order of the numbered pieces as noted in the diagrams below. Assemble piece #1 first and then piece #2 and so forth.

GLUING

Most places that are to be glued are noted with the symbol for "glue here." There are two exceptions and these are noted with the figures following.

To glue apply the paste thinly and evenly all the way to the edges of the space to prevent loose corners. Paperclips are useful for holding a figure together until the paste dries. If corners do become unglued, a bit of transparent tape can be used to hold them down.

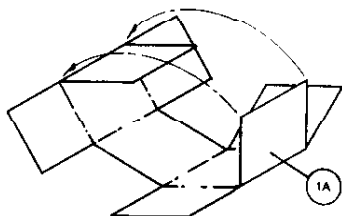

When gluing, it is best to glue one side at a time and let it dry before gluing the other sides, for a more even shape.

SYMBOLS

Cuts ———— Fold Up ————
Glue Here  Fold Down ————

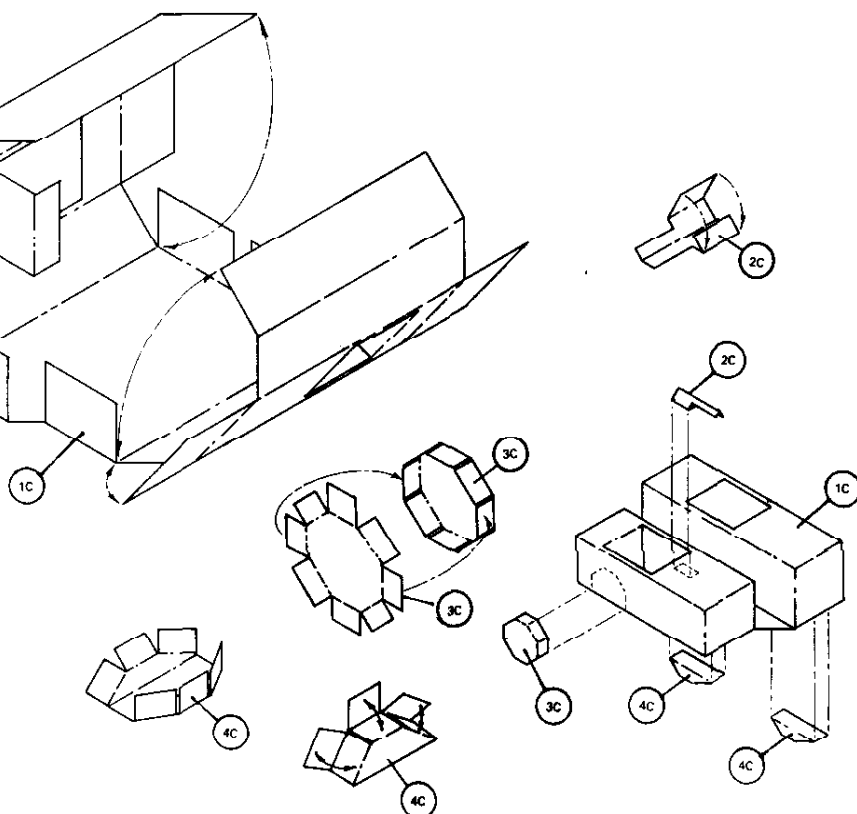

These are the symbols which are used on the full color fold-ups.

A. ARK BOX

C. MOTORCYCLE AND SIDE CAR (6 pieces)

1. Body and seats
(To create the seats, before folding, cut along the slots in the top of the figure, starting at a corner of the slot. After gluing all other sides, glue the thin seat tab to the inside bottom. You can put character figures from the game in the seats.)
2. Machine Gun
3. Sidecar wheel
4. Motorcycle wheels

T. TRUCK (29 pieces)

1. Chassis
2. Engine Hood
3. Cab
(Before gluing, cut out 14T, the steering wheel, and glue to the dashboard with a spot of glue.)

4. Flatbed Wall
5. Fenders
(Once assembled these glue to the underside and side of the chassis.)
6. Front Bumper
7. Headlights
8. Seat
(Glues to the floor of the cab.)

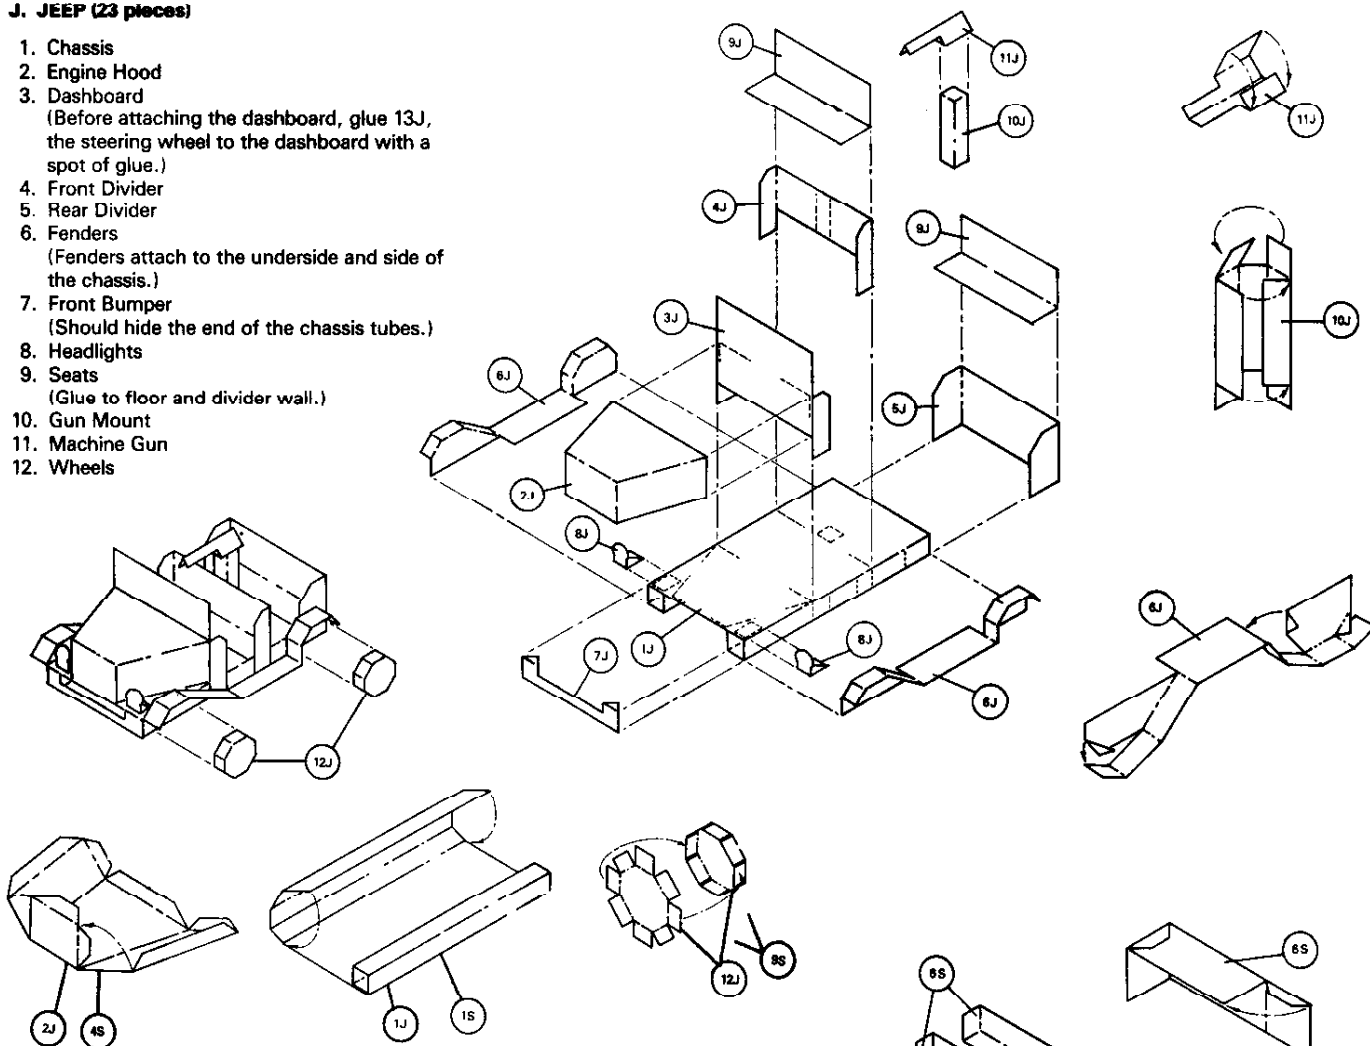

9. Cab Roof
(Do not glue to cab; use as box top, then characters may be placed in cab.)
10. Luggage Rack
11. Rear Canopy
(Do not glue to truck; just slide into place, then may use as flatbed when desired.)

12/13. Truck Wheels — Front & Rear
B1/B2. Machine Gun and Tripod

J. JEEP (23 pieces)

1. Chassis
2. Engine Hood
3. Dashboard
(Before attaching the dashboard, glue 13J, the steering wheel to the dashboard with a spot of glue.)
4. Front Divider
5. Rear Divider
6. Fenders
(Fenders attach to the underside and side of the chassis.)
7. Front Bumper
(Should hide the end of the chassis tubes.)
8. Headlights
9. Seats
(Glue to floor and divider wall.)
10. Gun Mount
11. Machine Gun
12. Wheels

S. STAFF CAR (20 pieces)

1. Chassis
2. Dashboard
(Before attaching the dashboard, glue 10S, the steering wheel to the dashboard with a spot of glue.)
3. Rear Trunk
4. Engine Hood
5. Fenders
(These attach to the underside and side of the chassis.)
6. Seats
(These glue to the floor and sidewalls.)
7. Front Bumper
8. Headlights
9. Wheels

HOW TO USE

These four vehicles can be used to liven up your chases when used with the character figures in the game. The characters can ride in the vehicles. These figures are used to show the distance and position of those involved in the chase.

Used with the generic figures the vehicles may be used to perform stunts or be loaded with cargo.

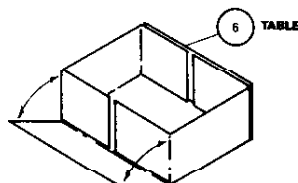

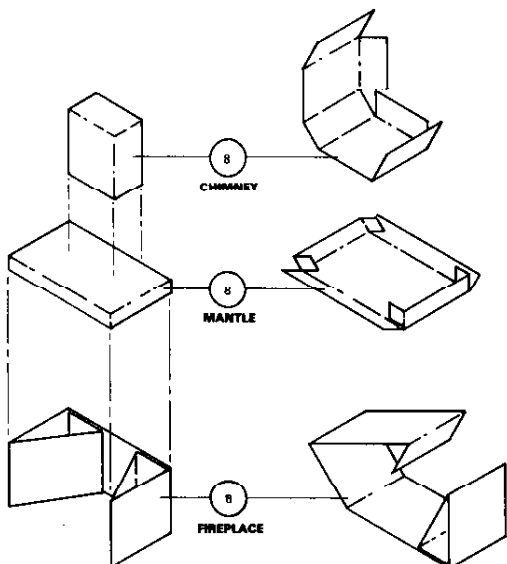

(These four use a star shape. Glue is spread on the entire back of the figures.)

ALTAR/CHIMNEY

(These three pieces may be used together to form a fireplace or may be used separately as a nook, trapdoor and altar.)

GENERIC FIGURES

An extra sheet of generic figures has been included for use as props for creating a barroom and ruin. They also may be used with the vehicles. There are barriers to crash through, a ramp for jumps and for two wheeling, and cargo to be carried.

These shapes are simple to assemble, except for the pit. Study the diagram for the pit carefully before assembling.

PIT

(First fold up the inside tabs and fasten much like a table. Then fold down the outside flaps and glue together.)

SHELVES, Tall and Short

(To add more support, you may want to use transparent tape to fasten the sides to the back. These may be also used as tables.)

CHASES

CHASE TRACK: This will help you keep track of the distance between opponents during a chase. To use the track, assemble the small figure of the lead car/person. During a chase, place the leader figure next to the chase track and use the following two rules to determine how many spaces separate the leader from the chaser. Always count spaces from the tail of the lead piece.

- From a Stop:
Add Leader's headstart + Leader's move - Chaser's move.
- Each Turn Moving:
Leader's move - Chaser's move

Closing the Gap: This can only be done by
 - taking risks, such as turning a corner too fast;
 - taking a "shortcut"; roll a Movement check and if successful, gain a bonus of 1-5 spaces, if fail, check result on Shortcut hazard chart.
