

PanzerBlitz Situation #22

INSTALLATION DEFENSE: TARNET, NORWAY (22/10/44). When Finland dropped out of the war, the German 20th Mountain Army, operating on the Arctic coast, found it necessary to withdraw into Norway. Soviet forces did not enter Finland but did cross the narrow Russo-Norwegian frontier in pursuit. The Germans, pausing to evacuate civilians and material through the port of Kirkenes, nearly came to grief when the city's electric power supply was threatened.

Russian wins by: 1.) clearing the power plant (Bednost) of all German units, or 2.) cutting both power lines west of the plant (along the 2 roads leading from Bednost to the edge of board 2). This is accomplished by leaving a unit on the road – uninverted – for a full turn. When the wire is cut the unit is automatically eliminated. The process must be repeated on the other road.

GERMAN FORCES

Forward units of the 6th Mountain Division set up anywhere on board.

MEETING ENGAGEMENT: DERBERCEN, HUNGARY (12/10/44). Occasionally during the desperate weeks of autumn, 1944, German panzer units found themselves able and willing to strike back at the Russian onslaught. Armeegruppe Woehler, reinforced by fresh units from Budapest, pocketed Cavalry-Mechanized Group "Pliyev" near Debrecen. The 6th Guards Tank Army struck back resulting in one of the wildest melees of the war.
