Shadows over Vathak Setting

Early one chill morning, a fisherman discovered a collection of unusually large scales, dried fins, and flattened pieces of reed strung together with moldy netting washed up on the shore of Lake Pethegas. He believed it to be nothing but flotsam, but as he approached, he noticed faint markings of an unknown language scribbled upon its pieces. The words seemed to twist and writhe of their own accord, and the fisherman ran screaming from the lakeside. To this day, he grows pale at the sight of any large body of water.

The Drowning Ceremonies were created by Kreneka, a skum wizard living deep within the hidden caves under Lake Pethegas. For many years, Kreneka led a small group of fellow skum in the worship of the Great Old One Orthu'mech, the Sundered Storm. Through maddening visions, Orthu'mech imparted fell knowledge to the wizard. Soon after the last page of his grimoire was completed, a rival tribe of skum raided Kreneka's clan and slaughtered every last one of them. In the fray, The Drowning Ceremonies was swept away by an underwater current, and soon reached the surface world.

Player's Guide to the Colonies

Spells

ACCELERATE RECOVERY

School transmutation; Level cleric 4, sorcerer/wizard 4

Casting Time 1 standard action

Components V, S

Range touch

Target creature touched

Duration instantaneous

Saving Throw Fortitude negates (harmless); Spell Resistance yes (harmless)

You place your target out of sync from time momentarily, allowing it to quickly shake off certain effects.

Your target must be a creature that is suffering from a condition (confused, dazed, nauseated, paralyzed, etc.) with a duration that is measured in rounds. Upon casting this spell, the target moves through time, subtracting 1d4+1 rounds from the remaining duration of the condition, to a minimum of 0. If this causes the remaining duration to equal 0, the condition automatically ends.

If a condition has a duration that is measured in minutes or more, this spell has no effect. This spell doesn't affect poisons or diseases.

EROSION

School evocation [water]; Level druid 3, sorcerer/wizard 3

Casting Time 1 standard action

Components V, S

Range close (25 ft. + 5 ft./2 levels)

Effect 20-ft. line

Duration instantaneous

Saving Throw Fortitude halves (object); Spell Resistance yes (object)

A powerful cascade of water gushes from your hands, simulating the effects of hundreds of years of natural erosion. If cast upon a stone wall or other stone object, the deluge does 10 points of damage per caster level, ignoring the object's hardness.

If cast upon an earth elemental or a construct made of stone, the torrent does 1d8 points of damage per two caster levels (maximum 5d8), and makes a bull rush attempt against that creature. The CMB for this bull rush is equal to your caster level plus your Intelligence, Wisdom, or Charisma modifier, whichever is highest.

Erosion also extinguishes any normal fires in its area of effect. Magical fires are unaffected.

DROWNING GAZE

School evocation [water]; Level druid 7, sorcerer/wizard 7, witch 7

Casting Time 1 standard action

Components V, S, M (a small vial of water)

Range personal

Target you

Duration 1 round/level

Saving Throw Fortitude negates; Spell Resistance yes

Your eyes turn a deep, dark green, as you gain the power to fill your enemies' lungs with water with a simple look.

As a standard action for as long as this spell's effect persist, you may direct your drowning gaze against a single, breathing creature within 30 feet of your location. Targeted creatures must succeed at a Fortitude save or immediately begin drowning. On the first failed save, the targeted creature is rendered disabled (0 hp). On the following round on your turn, you can continue to look at this target (again, as a standard action), forcing it to succeed at another Fortitude save or drop to -1 hit points and begin dying. On the third round, you can again continue to look at this target (as a standard action), forcing it to succeed at another Fortitude save or die.

You may also choose at any point to direct your drowning gaze at another target. The first target remains in whatever condition (unconscious or dying) you last inflicted upon it. You may redirect your drowning gaze at that first target, picking up where you left off, unless that target received any kind of healing (magical or otherwise) in the interim to bring it to positive hit points, in which case you must start the three-round process from the beginning.

Note that this spell doesn't grant an actual gaze attack—foes and allies aren't in danger of drowning simply by meeting your gaze.

HYDROPHILIA

School enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]; Level druid 3, sorcerer/wizard 3, witch 3

Casting Time 1 standard action

Components V

Range close (25 ft. + 5 ft./2 levels)

Target one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

Duration 1 round/level

Saving Throw Will negates; Spell Resistance yes

This spell must be cast within range (and line of sight) of a body of water that is large and deep enough to require a Swim check from a small- or medium-sized creature (such as a lake or a river). Otherwise, the spell simply fails. Each round on each affected target's turn, it must use two move actions to advance in a straight line toward and enter the nearest body of water, incurring attacks of opportunity if passing through threatened areas. If two more bodies of water are equally distant from a target, you decide which the target approaches. Each target can take any other actions as it sees fit (swift or free actions) and can defend itself as normal. Once the target is deep enough to tread water, it is compelled to remain there for the duration of the spell, though it can move around and take other actions as it likes.

STINGING WATER

School evocation [water]; Level druid 2, sorcerer/wizard 2

Casting Time 1 standard action

Components V, S

Range close (25 ft. + 5 ft./2 levels)

Effect one or more rays

Duration instantaneous

Saving Throw Fortitude partial; Spell

Resistance yes

You conjure forth needle-thin jets of water to wound your foes. You may fire one ray, plus one additional ray for every four levels beyond 3rd (to a maximum of three rays at 11th level). Each ray requires a ranged touch attack to hit and deals 3d6 points of damage plus 1 point of Constitution damage. A successful Fortitude save negates the Constitution damage. The rays may be fired at the same or different targets, but all rays must be aimed at targets within 30 feet of each other and fired simultaneously.

SUMMON VOID PARASITES

Player's Guide to the Colonies

School conjuration (summoning); Level sorcerer/wizard 6

Casting Time 1 standard action

Components V, S

Range close (25 ft. + 5 ft./2 levels)

Effect one swarm of void parasites

Duration 1 round/level (D)

Saving Throw none; Spell Resistance no

You call forth a swarm of void parasites from the chaos that makes up the cosmic tapestry of space-time. It attacks all creatures within its area. You can move the swarm by spending a standard action (Will save or take Wis damage) to concentrate on the swarm, otherwise it moves toward the nearest living creature if there are no living creatures within its area.

The swarm of void parasites has the same statistics as a rot grub swarm (Pathfinder Roleplaying Game Bestiary 3), except that it has the outsider type.

TEMPORAL SURGE

School transmutation; Level magus 6, sorcerer/wizard 6

Casting Time 1 standard action

Components V, S, M (a tiny hourglass)

Range close (25 ft. + 5 ft./2 levels)

Target one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

Duration 1 round/level

Saving Throw Fortitude negates (harmless); Spell Resistance yes (harmless)

The transmuted creatures can slightly alter the flow of time at their whims, functioning much faster than normal, but at great strain. Each round for the duration of the spell, each of the affected targets can choose to take an extra standard, move, or swift action that round (their choice). An additional standard action cannot be used to cast a spell. An extra action can be made at any point during a target's turn, and can be made in addition to (but not in the middle of) a full-round action. Immediately after performing this extra action, the target suffers an amount of damage corresponding to the type of action taken (see below) multiplied by the number of extra actions it has taken during the duration of the spell. This damage bypasses all DR and cannot be reduced in any way.

Action	Damage Die
Standard	1d8
Move	1d6
Swift	1d4

For instance, if a target takes an extra move action on the first round of the spell, it suffers 1d6 points of damage. If it then takes an extra standard action on the second round of the spell, it suffers 2d8 points of damage. If it then chooses to take no extra actions on the third round of the spell, it suffers no damage. If it then takes an extra swift action on the fourth round of the spell, it suffers 3d4 points of damage.

The effects of time surge cannot be used cumulatively with similar effects, such as those provided by the spells blessing of fervor or haste or from a speed weapon.

Shadows over Vathak Setting

School transmutation; Level alchemist 2, magus 2, sorcerer/wizard 2, summoner 2

Casting Time 1 standard action

Components V, S, M (dried chuck of sea anemone)

Range personal

Target you

Duration 1 min./level (D)

You grow a mass of squirming tentacles all over your body. You have a measure of control of the movement of these tentacles, but they constantly writhe and undulate. The tentacles cannot wield weapons or equip a shield, but they can hold up to two other objects (or one object that would require two hands to hold), leaving your normal hands free. It is a free action to transfer objects between your hands and the tentacles.

In addition, when someone makes a successful attack against you with a melee weapon, and you are holding nothing in your tentacles, you may spend an attack of opportunity to attempt to disarm that opponent. This disarm attempt doesn't provoke an attack of opportunity, and your CMB for this maneuver is equal to your caster level + your relevant ability score modifier (Int for wizards, Cha for sorcerers, etc.). If this disarm attempt is successful, you may either choose to have the weapon in your hands (if they are free) or drop the weapon to the ground in your square.

Duration 1 hour/level or until discharged

You invite countless horrors from behind the veil of space-time to temporarily fuse with your body, ready to burst free. The first time that you are reduced to 0 hit points or fewer during the duration of this spell, your corporeal form transforms into a swarm of cosmic terrors, which has the same statistics as a tick swarm (Pathfinder Roleplaying Game Bestiary 2), except that it has the outsider type and it loses the disease special ability. The swarm bears a tiny portion of your consciousness that allows you to perceive what it does and control its actions. While in this form, you cannot use any of your own abilities or take any actions other than controlling the swarm.

When the swarm of cosmic terrors uses its blood drain special attack to do a total amount of Constitution damage equal to your Constitution, your body reforms on your next turn in the space that the swarm previously occupied. You have a number of hit points equal to your current HD, and you don't lose any currently prepared spells. Any ability-score damage you took previously still remains, but any normal poisons or diseases are purged from your body. You are not prone. If the swarm of cosmic terrors is destroyed before this happens, you die permanently, and can only be restored to life by limited wish, miracle, or wish.

If you are killed by a death effect that doesn't first reduce you to 0 hit points, this spell doesn't take effect.

THROES OF TERROR

School transmutation; Level sorcerer/wizard 8

Casting Time 10 minutes

Components V, S, M (bloodstone worth at least 1,000gp)

Range personal

Target you

Player's Guide to the Colonies

TOXIC BREATH

School necromancy [poison]; Level sorcerer/wizard 4

Casting Time 1 standard action

Components V, S, M (clump of moss)

Range 30 ft.

Area cone-shaped burst

Duration instantaneous

Saving Throw Fortitude negates; Spell Resistance yes

You breath forth a cloud of poisonous gas. All creatures in the 30-ft. cone are subjected to a dose of insanity mist (Pathfinder Role-playing Game Core Rulebook), after which the cloud immediately dissipates. Creatures that hold their breath or do not need to breath gain a +4 bonus on the Fortitude save.

Benefit: The nonvariable numeric effects (bonuses, penalties, and the like) of any spell with a timed duration are increased by 50% for the first half (rounded down) of the timed duration. The nonvariable effects are then reduced to their normal level for one half (rounded down) of the remaining duration. After that, the nonvariable effects are decreased by 50% until the spell ends. Saving throws and opposed rolls are not affected. A molting spell uses up a spell slot one level higher than the spell's actual level.

For example, a molting bull's strength cast by a 7th-level wizard would grant a +6 enhancement bonus to Strength to its target for the first 3 minutes of the spell. This bonus would decrease to +4 for the next 2 minutes, and then to +2 for the remaining 2 minutes.

New Feats

FLUX SPELL (METAMAGIC)

Your spell fluctuates throughout all possible alternate realities.

Benefit: When you cast a spell with a variable numerical effect, you may roll the dice twice and take the better of the two rolls. Saving throws and opposed rolls are not affected, nor are spells without random variables. A flux spell uses up a spell slot two levels higher than the spell's actual level.

MOLTING SPELL (METAMAGIC)

Your spells start stronger, but this power sloughs off over time, like a snake shedding its skin.

THE DROWNING CEREMONIES

(Level 15 Universalist)

The odor of dead fish wafts strongly from this assemblage of water-logged detritus tied together with netting. A viscous oil almost obscures the writing, shimmering in the light and casting odd reflects on nearby surfaces to make them appear as if underwater.

Value 6,610 gp (8,610 gp with the preparation ritual)

Spells (Spells marked with an * are detailed in this product.)

PREPARATION RITUAL

Unsettling Insight (Su) You can penetrate a target's magical defenses, but at the cost of your very mind. Spend this boon effect as a free action when you attempt a caster level check to overcome a creature's spell resistance. For every 1 point of Wisdom drain you elect to take, you gain a +2 bonus to this caster level check.
