IVILIZATION LIFEPATH

FEATURES

Features are things that affect what your character can do. Features can be either permanent or transient, and are either beneficial or malign.

F1	FEATS	All kinds of experiences and training can shape your character beyond what you learn by advancing in your class.	603
F11	Ancestry Feats	These feats are normally only available to a specific ancestry and is tagged with either the trait for that ancestry, the traits for multiple ancestries or with the 'Ancestry' trait itself.	604
F12	Background Feats	Background feats are uncommon, with access granted by a background, contact or event. They have both General and Ancestry traits.	606
F13	CLASS FEATS	This section lists uncommon feats that only members of the classes listed in the feat's traits can select if they meet the access requirements of the feat by having the indicated background.	621
F14	NARRATIVE FEATS	The pair of a story and goal feat reflects a narrative that shapes your life. Because narrative feats represent both your motivation and character development.	624
F2	FLAWES	A flaw is the opposite of a feat. Where feats are selected or granted, flaws are imposed upon you, either as a circumstance of your background or as the outcome of an event or encounter,	634
F21	BANES	This is the default type for a flaw. Banes usually occur as the result of a background or event.	635
F22	CURSES	These flaws are always magical, usually divine, and are imposed upon a victim by a deity or power.	639
F23	Malignancies	Malignant flaws are disadvantageous changes that you have usually had since birth and are usually permanent. Most malignant flaws are imposed by an ancestry, and occasionally by backgrounds or feats.	646
F3	FAVOURS	A favour is a transient feature. Where feats are selected, favours are granted to you, often as the outcome of an event or encounter.	2
F31	BOONS	A boon is a quantifiable, non-monetary way an NPC might help the PCs.	2
F32	BLESSINGS	These favours are always magical, usually divine, and are granted by a deity or power.	2
F33	Evolutions	Evolutions are favours granted permanently by an ancestry or feat, or transiently by the progression of a companion.	4

BANE level	This is the default type for a flaw. Banes usually occur as the result of a background or event. Banes do no progress.
BLESSING level	These favours and are always magical, usually divine, and are granted by a deity or power.
BOON level	This is the default type for a favour. Boons usually occur as the result interaction with a contact or event. An inert or supressed boon is lost completely and can never progress again.
CORRUPTION level	A corruption is a magical deficiency or degradation. A corruption progresses by 1 level each time you gain a level.
CURSE level	These flaws are always magical, usually divine, and are imposed upon a victim by a deity or power. An inert, repressed, or suppressed intersession progresses in level if you act in a way that is anathema to the deity or power that imposed the flaw
EVOLUTION level	These favours always have a biological trait and are usually granted by an ancestry. Evolutions are usually static and do not change in level.
FEAT level	A selectable option to expand upon a character.
MALIGNANCY level	These flaws always have a biological trait and are usually imposed by an ancestry. A repressed or suppressed malignancy progresses by 1 level each time you gain a level. An inert genetic flaw increases to level 1 if you gain a level and fail a flat check with a DC equal to the maximum level of the flaw.
ACQUIRED	A flaw with this trait is not permanent and has been acquired as the result of an event or encounter.
AFFLICTION	A disease or infection.
ANCESTRY	The feat is normally only available to a specific ancestry and is tagged with either the trait for that ancestry, the traits for multiple ancestries or with the 'Ancestry' trait itself.
CLASS	The feat is only available to a specific character class and is tagged with the trait for that class.
CONGNITIVE	The thinking process, the brain.
COMMUNICATIONS	The ability to communicate with others.
CONSUMPTION	The ability to consume food and drink.
ENVIRONMENTAL	A situation or circumstance around you rather than on you.
GENERAL	Abilities that require a degree of training but can be learned by anyone—not only members of certain ancestries or classes— are called general feats.
GOAL	Feats with the goal trait have a prerequisite story feat and access that requires completing a specific event. If both are met the prerequisite story feat immediately retrains into the goal feat. Once you meet the prerequisites of the achievement feat the gateway story feat automatically retrains into it.
HORMONAL	Allergies and reactions to stimuli.
LOCOMOTION	Movement and reaction, the legs.
MANIPULATION	Manipulation of the environment, the hands and arms.

SKILL	Feats that are a subtype of general feats, expanding on what you can accomplish via skills.

UNCOMMON	Most of the feats in this chapter have an Uncommon rarity and are unlocked with a background, contact or event that grants access.
VERSATILE	A subtype of ancestry feats and are only available to a character with a versatile heritage.

F1 FEATS

All kinds of experiences and training can shape your character beyond what you learn by advancing in your class.

Types of Feat

The feats in this chapter come in three types. A feat can have more than one type. A feat can only be selected by a class feature that grants feats of that type.

The feat Careful Combatant has the Ancestry and General traits. It can be selected as either an Ancestry feat, or a General feat. It cannot be selected as a Skill feat because it does not have the Skill trait.

ANCESTRY VERSATILE

The feat is normally only available to a specific ancestry and is tagged with either the trait for that ancestry, the traits for multiple ancestries or with the 'Ancestry' trait itself.

Versatile feats are a subtype of ancestry feats and are only available to a character with a versatile heritage.

CLASS

The feat is only available to a specific character class and is tagged with the trait for that class.

GENERAL SKILL

Abilities that require a degree of training but can be learned by anyone—not only members of certain ancestries or classes—are called general feats.

Skill feats are a subtype of general feats, expanding on what you can accomplish via skills.

Feat Sources

Many of the feats in this document are at least partly based upon background feats from other sources. An abbreviated of the source follows the backgrounds title. See the OGL statement for the meaning of these abbreviations.

When the abbreviation is followed by a * the feat has been renamed from its original source.

Lore

Lore is a category of skills. Each time a character receives skill training in Lore, the training applies to a specific type of lore. Training in a lore skill grants access a lore related story event, and occasionally to uncommon feats.

Community

Many lore skills are a subtype of a community. A community is a geopolitical collection of people, connected to each other due to their genetics, the place they live, their workplace, occupation or beliefs.

Settlement: A settlement is a geographic community that is usually residential, not mobile, and permanent.

Deity

Some lore skills are for a deity. As such gods and powers are campaign world specific, none are listed here. As an alternative select a B24 philosophy as the type of lore.

Other Feat Traits

In addition to the type, a feat may also be tagged with additional traits:

STORY

Feats with the story trait are uncommon. Access to the feat is granted by a background, or contact or an event, representing conditions most likely met during play or a background that fits the feat. You need to meet only one of these to gain access. You can have only one story feat at a time.

GOAL

Feats with the goal trait have a prerequisite story feat and access that requires completing a specific event. If both are met the prerequisite story feat immediately retrains into the goal feat. If the campaign is not likely to resolve the access event, the GM should consider selecting another event for you to achieve in its place. Establishing a meaningful story arc is more important than adhering to the letter of the feat. Once you meet the prerequisites of the achievement feat the gateway story feat automatically retrains into it.

Rarity and Access

Most of the feats in this chapter have an Uncommon rarity and are unlocked with a background, contact or event that grants access.

FEAT 1

F11 ANCESTRY FEATS

The feat is normally only available to a specific ancestry and is tagged with either the trait for that ancestry, the traits for multiple ancestries or with the 'Ancestry' trait itself.

F14 NARRATIVE FEATS

The pair of a story and goal feat reflects a narrative that shapes your life. Because narrative feats represent both your motivation and character development, the GM should try to incorporate elements related to the feat into the ongoing campaign. These can be direct elements, like the appearance of a villain or hated creature, or indirect elements, such as rumours of the fate of a lost relative or NPCs who are impressed by a PC's artistic endeavours. A good rule of thumb is to work in a reference to each PC's story feat once every three to five sessions.

F2 FLAWS

A flaw is the opposite of a feat. Where feats are selected or granted, flaws are imposed upon you, either as a circumstance of your background or as the outcome of an event or encounter.

Source

Many of the flaws in this document are at least partly based upon drawbacks, malignancies and intersessions from other sources, many from the 1st edition. An abbreviated of the source follows the backgrounds title. See the OGL statement for the meaning of these abbreviations. When the abbreviation is followed by a * the flaw has been renamed from its original source, either because the original name is not open content, the original name is duplicated or similar to another, or the new name better describes the updated details of the flaw.

Level

Every flaw has a minimum level, which scale in the same way as class levels, indicating the relative inconvenience the flaw causes. This level categorises it into broad power levels: Minor (level 1 to 5), Moderate (level 6 to 12) or Major (level 13 or higher).

If the level is followed by a + symbol this is the minimum level and the flaw can have a higher level and a greater inconvenience by adding the modifier from flaws heightened entry one or more times. The flaw cannot have a level higher than 20.

Progression and Regression

Some flaws can progress, increasing in level. Likewise, some flaws can be regressed, decreased in level. Keep a record of the flaws current level and the maximum level a flaw reaches.

A flaw that is below its maximum level is repressed, a flaw that is below its minimum level is suppressed, and a flaw that reaches level 0 becomes inert. Flaws that are suppressed or inert are usually inactive. A repressed flaw becomes inactive for 24 hours if you succeed a flat check during your daily preparation, using the current level of the flaw as the DC.

Туре

The Flaws in this chapter come in four types:

BANE

This is the default type for a flaw. Banes usually occur as the result of a background or event. Banes do no progress. An inert bane is lost completely and can never progress again.

MALIGNANCY

These flaws always have a biological trait and are usually imposed by an ancestry. A repressed or suppressed genetic flaw progresses by 1 level each time you gain a level. An inert genetic flaw increases to level 1 if you gain a level and fail a flat check with a DC equal to the maximum level of the flaw.

CORRUPTION

A corruption is a magical deficiency or degradation. A corruption progresses by 1 level each time you gain a level.

CURSE

Intersessions are always magical, usually divine, and are imposed upon a victim by a deity or power. An inert, repressed, or suppressed intersession progresses in level if you act in a way that is anathema to the deity or power that imposed the flaw.

Movement and reaction, the legs.

Breathing, the lungs and gills.

The bodies form and substance.

The sensory organs, the eyes, ears, etc.

Manipulation of the environment, the hands and

Biological Traits

Biological traits occur mainly on malignant flaws and describe the area of the body in which the flaw manifests.

ACQUIRED	A flaw with this trait is not permanent and has been acquired as the result of an event or encounter.
CONGNITIVE	The thinking process, the brain.
