

Nightstalker Utility Vehicle

Branson Hagerty (Blackjack's Shadowrun Page <http://shadowrun.html.com/users/blackjack/>) Posted November 03, 1997

Finally, a stylish way to move your stuff. The Nightstalker combines the feel of a sedan with the storage space needed by a runner on the go. In addition to the large rear storage area, the Stalker includes three 3 cubic feet compartments located under the hood, surrounding and insulated from the engine. Make the Nightstalker your on the run work-horse.

Handling: 4/8

Speed: 35/105

Body: 3

Armor: 3

Signature: 2

Autopilot: 2

Seating: Twin Bucket + Folding Bench

Access: Dual Canopy, Rear Hatch

Storage: 6 CF (engine compartment) + 20 CF (rear, reduced to 5 CF with bench deployed).

Economy: 50km per liter

Fuel: IC/30 liters

Cost: 60,000

Other Accessories: Optional Automatic Rear Bay Doors (+ 7,000)

>>>>>>[While this is great for every day use, I wouldn't take it on any runs where you know you'll get shot at. Not enough armor and not enough speed (this thing uses the same engine as the Americar.) I suggest taking the thing to a good mechanic and bulking it up; the chassis and overall design are excellent.]<<<<<

-Street Hawk (01:28:35/11-03-58)