QUANTUM SORCERY

ONE-SHEET SWORD & SORCERY RPG RULES

By Steve Attwood

Barbarians battling fantastic creatures for untold riches. Sorcerers wielding mighty magical spells with the power of their mind. Wily thieves stealthily stealing treasures from a dragon's horde. Dark dungeons concealing creatures of the night. Quantum Sorcery is a two-page set of role-playing game rules designed to for you to run quick adventure games in fantasy. All you need to play this game are this sheet, two or more six-sided dice, and writing instruments and supplies.

THE BASIC MECHANIC

Dice are marked as "D" – all are simple six-sided dice. Throw 2D – throw two six-sided dice and add the results together, add the skill DM (Die Modifier), and compare to difficulty. If the total equals or exceeds the difficulty number, you succeed. Otherwise, you fail. Skill notation: "throw Practical 6+" = throw two dice, add them together and add the Practical skill, and if the total equals and exceeds 6, you succeed. If you lack a skill, throw at DM-3 (i.e., subtract 3 from the throw).

Task Difficulties

Task Description	Difficulty
Easy	4+
Average	6+
Difficult	8+
Formidable	10+

There are six skills: Combat, Lore, Physical, Practical, Social, and Sorcery.

Combat skill is a measure of how good at fighting or wielding weaponry an individual is.

Lore indicates how learned (through book, writings) or aware of the world around you are.

Physical shows not just how strong an individual is, but also how dexterous they are.

Practical is a demonstration in the use of making things and problemsolving.

Social demonstrates how good you are interacting and influencing others.

Sorcery is a measure of an individual's skill in the use of magic.

Сомват

There is no initiative - everything happens simultaneously, and the results of combat actions (e.g., wounds) are applied after all combat actions are resolved.

In a combat round, you may move up to 10m and attack or move 20m without attacking.

Throw Combat 8+ to hit a target in melee or in ranged Effective range; Combat 10+ to hit beyond Effective range. Apply the target's Combat skill as a -DM to hit.

Upon a hit, throw the weapon's damage dice, subtract any armor value, and apply to the target's Endurance. If Endurance runs out, the target suffers a Minor Wound (DM-1 to all actions) and further damage applies to Lifeblood. If the target loses more than half of their Lifeblood, they suffer a Serious Wound and they are out of combat. If Lifeblood runs out, the target dies.

If only your Endurance is reduced, you recover immediately after combat. If you suffer a Minor Wound, you recover after one hour of rest or immediately upon suitable medical treatment. Severe Wounds requires 5D days of a healer's care to heal.

SORCERY!

Any character may attempt to cast a spell they know, but those without the Sorcery skill suffer a DM-3 on their success roll. Regular spells take 10 minutes to cast; to cast one in a combat round, a Focus is required beforehand.

To cast a spell, the character must roll 8+ modified by their Sorcery skill. If the sorcerer rolls a natural 2, it is potentially a mis-cast spell. The sorcerer must then make the same roll again to avoid a mishap. It the roll is failed a second time, roll on the mishap table for the effect.

Mishaps and Mutations
1D	Mishap
1	Cloudy mind: suffer DM-1 to all Lore rolls.
2	Become a creature of the night: DM-1 to all throws when in sunlight.
3	Body degenerates: reduce movement rate by 1m.
4	Debilitating vigor: permanently lose 1 point of Lifeblood. If you lose all Lifeblood, you die gruesomely.
5	Your skin thickens; gain DM+1 to your overall armor score.
6	Gain an additional arm or leg. An extra leg allows double move rate. An additional arm allows 3 weapons or 2-handed weapon and another without penalty. Can only happen once for a leg and once for an arm; reroll afterwards.

A Focus allows a sorcerer to prepare a spell ahead of time and cast it in one round. Each Focus is specific to a single spell, is disposable, and costs 15gp.

Spells 2D Spell 2 Kindle Flame: cause a flammable object to burst into flame, range 5m, size 1.5m, 2D damage/round for 1D rounds or until put out. 3 Protection from Chaos: creates a magic barrier protecting all within 3m radius of the sorcerer. Summoned monsters such as demons cannot enter this radius. Lasts for as long as sorcerer concentrates. Mind Probe: sorcerer can read thoughts of on target for 12 4 rounds, range 20m. 5 Resist Element: grants single creature 1 hour of immunity from a chosen naturally occurring element (cold, fire or electricity).
