INTRODUCTION

Career Book 3 is the third and final book in Spica Publishing's highly successful Career Book series. Career Book 3 brings Referees and players 14 completely new career options for Traveller character generation.

CHARACTERS AND CAREERS

Characters are central to any role-playing game; they are the alter-egos of the players in the game universe. Within each game universe, there are many thousands of ways a character can live, work or otherwise occupy their time. This book presents players and Referees with new character generation options that allow players greater choice in the characters they choose to play, and Referees a wider range of sources for generating non-player characters.

Within a science fiction RPG setting, the number and types of careers available to characters (both human and alien) can be massive, and each race or species has its own unique take and influence on careers, often offering skills or benefits not available to other races in similar or identical careers.

All of these careers are suitable for human player or non-player characters; some are more suitable than others for various alien species. Players should discuss their idea of how an alien character should be generated with the Referee responsible for the current game.

ABOUT THIS BOOK

This book is divided into five distinct sections:

Alternative Benefits Tables: The first section provides alternative mustering out benefit tables for all of the careers in the Traveller Core Rulebook, and the new careers available in Career Book 1, Career Book 2 and this book, Career Book 3.

Physical Features & Family: The second and third sections provide rules for generating a character's physical appearance and family background, including family related events.

New Careers: The fourth section provides 14 new careers. Each career includes a brief description of the career and assignments, character generation tables, ranks (where applicable), and mustering out benefits and mishap and events tables.

Pre-Generated Characters: The fifth section of this book provides 54 pre-generated non-player characters for use in games or campaigns.

REQUIRED MATERIALS

To get the most from this book you will need at least the Traveller Main Rulebook by Mongoose Publishing, at least two six-sided dice and some pens/pencils and paper or a computer. Referees and players will also find Career Book 1 and Career Book 2 from Spica Publishing useful.

References to Other Books: In this book, references to specific pages in other Traveller books and products are shown as the page number followed by a code for the relevant book, both in italics, thus: 28 TMB or (28 TMB).

- Traveller Main Book: TMB.
- Traveller Book 6 Scoundrel: SDL.
- Traveller Supplement 4: Central Supply Catalogue: CSC.
- Career Book 1: CB1.
- Career Book 2: CB2.
- Career Book 3: CB3.
- Nemesis Class Pursuit Ship: NEM.
- Allies, Contacts, Enemies & Rivals: ACER.

Die Throw & Notation Conventions The die throw and notation conventions used in this book are the same as those described on 3 TMB.

Tasks and Skills: The rules for tasks (and the use of skills in tasks) in this book are the same as those in the Tasks and Skills chapter on 48 TMB.

Injury Table: Wherever this book refers to the use of an Injury table, you can use the Injury table on 37 TMB or the alternative Injury table (5 CB2).

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

JOHN GRIFFITHS started playing Traveller in 1980 whilst at upper school. After working as a postman, he eventually trained as a mental health nurse, having been told the job involved indoor work with no heavy lifting. This turned out to be untrue. He currently works as a manager for a specialist mental health team. John lives with his wife, two young sons and two dogs in the south east of the United Kingdom. He started Spica Publishing in 2006.

RICHARD HAZLEWOOD has been playing Traveller since 1977. He served eight years in the US Navy, operating nuclear reactors on submarines. He enjoyed that so much he got out of the Navy and into aviation. Richard has a Master's Degree in Aerospace Engineering and works for a major US airline. He has two grown sons and lives with his wife and two dogs in the mid-western United States.

ALTERNATIVE BENEFITS TABLES

The following alternative benefit tables are provided for the careers in the TMB, CB1, CB2 and CB3. These alternative tables are provided for Referees that do not feel that a character should have the same chance to gain a starship as a mustering out benefit as they do a blade. These tables should not be mixed with benefits generated using the standard table format, since the characters created using these tables will be at a disadvantage for high credit benefits.

Using These Tables

These tables are used in exactly the same way as normal mustering out benefit tables (34 TMB), except that throws are made using 2d6, not 1d6. All normal DMs for Rank, Gambler skill, and from Mishaps and Events apply, as do any benefit rolls gained or lost from Mishaps and Events.

Cash: The normal limit of three rolls on the Cash table is slightly modified. If a player rolls 13+ (Roll Twice) on one of the cash rolls, then the three roll limit can be exceeded until the player ceases to roll 13+. Rolls resulting in 13+ do not count towards the number of times a player can roll for cash; only rolls that result in the character receiving cash count.

Example: Fred's Agent character has six mustering out benefit rolls and a total DM of +3. He decides to roll three times on the Cash column first. His first roll (no DMs) gets his character Cr 4,000. The second roll (no DMs) results in Cr 10,000. Fred applies all of his character's available DMs to the last cash roll and rolls a total of 14, so Fred gets to roll twice more.

Fred's first extra roll gets his character Cr 30,000; the second extra roll nets the character Cr 7,500. Fred has now made a total of four rolls on the cash table, and his character has a total of Cr 41,500. As Fred did not roll 13+ (Roll Twice) on his last cash roll, he cannot make any further rolls on the cash table.

PHYSICAL FEATURES

Every naturally born human is unique; even identical twins have very slight, albeit virtually unnoticeable, differences. Genetic engineering, cloning, stem cell therapy, augments and implants can change or improve human physiology and responses but ultimately a human is just that: a human.

Being able to describe a character's physical appearance greatly contributes to the realism and flavour of roleplaying and can provide hooks and ideas for encounters and adventures.

The man with one violet eye holds the key to the mystery...

These rules have been written to allow players and Referees to create realistic physical features for human characters, using the medical evidence as it stands at the time of publication of this book.

BASIC ASSUMPTIONS

These rules have been written using some basic assumptions:

Appearance at Age 18: These rules are intended to generate physical features for characters at 18 years of age. Rules and guidance for aging are provided for when characters progress through careers.

Humanity Evolves Slowly: Humanity has taken millions of years to reach its current physical configuration. There is no reason to suppose that Humanity's overall physical makeup will change significantly through evolution over the next 10, 20 or 30,000 years. However, it is possible to find unusual combinations of physical features, such as black hair with blue eyes, in the modern human population of Earth.

No External Influences: These rules do not cover genetic engineering, cloning, augments, implants, or any other changes or enhancements. The rules are designed to produce physical features for humans born naturally from human parents who were also born naturally.

No Physical Measurements: These rules do not allow for the generation of physical measurements for the various parts of the human anatomy. These are left to the imagination of the Referee or player creating the character, although the height and mass features should be a guide to the overall shape of a character.

Roll, Choose or Ignore: These rules use random dice throws to generate the various human physical features. However, Referees and players should not feel bound to using dice rolls to generate physical features for characters, so if choosing a character's physical features works best for you, go ahead and do so.

Equally, Referees and players should simply ignore any of these rules if they so choose or if using them would slow down character generation or the current game.

Before proceeding any further with the character generation process, determine your character's height and mass at age 18.

HEIGHT & MASS

Knowing your character's height and mass can help with visualising and describing your character to others. In game terms, these aspects are useful to know and help with tasks such as entering a starship hulk through a hull breach, crawling through air ducts, hiding or ducking behind objects, or dragging an injured comrade out of danger on the battlefield.

Height

Look up your character's Strength characteristic score in the Value column of the Height & Mass table and read across to the Base Height (cm) column. This is your character's base height in centimetres.

Next, if the character's homeworld size (170 TMB) is known, look up the world size in the Value column of the Height & Mass table, then read across to the World Size column. Apply the number shown in centimetres to the character's base height before rolling on the \pm cm column of the Height & Mass table. If the character's homeworld size is not known, skip this step.

Finally, throw 3d6-3 on the \pm cm column of the Height & Mass table and apply the number shown in centimetres to your character's base height. The result is your character's final height in centimetres at age 18.

Mass

Look up your character's Endurance characteristic score in the Value column of the Height & Mass table and read across to the Base Mass (kg) column. This is your character's base mass in kilograms.

Next, look up your character's Dexterity characteristic score in the Value column of the Height & Mass table and read across to the Dex column. Apply the number shown in kilograms to your character's base mass.

Finally, throw 3d6-3 on the \pm kg column of the Height & Mass table and apply the number shown in kilograms to your character's base mass. The result is your character's final mass in kilograms at age 18.

Height & Mass

Value	Base Height (cm)	World Size	+/- cm	Base Mass (kg)	Dex	+/- kg
0	-	+0*	-10	-	-	-12
1	140	+0*	-8	36	+12	-10
2	145	+10	-6	42	+10	-8
3	150	+10	-4	48	+8	-6
4	155	+10	-2	54	+6	-4
5	160	+5	-1	60	+4	-2
6	165	+5	+0	66	+2	-1
7	170	+0	+0	72	+0	+0
8	175	+0	+0	78	+0	+0
9	180	-5	+0	84	+0	+1
10 (A)	185	-10	+1	90	-2	+2
11	190	-	+2	96	-4	+4
12	195	-	+4	102	-6	+6
13	200	-	+6	108	-8	+8
14	205	-	+8	114	-10	+10
15	210	-	+10	120	-12	+12

+0*: It is assumed that the character grew up in an environment that has artificial gravity and that height has not been affected.

Gender Differences

These rules are designed to produce realistic height and mass results for humans. However, it is perfectly possible that in, the future, the differences in height and mass between male and female humans will disappear or will be so small between the genders as to be insignificant. As a result, no distinction is made between male and female character heights and masses in these rules.

If Referees or players wish to make such a physical distinction between male and female characters, simply follow the rules above but deduct 4 kg from the final mass and 10 cm from the final height for female characters. Use the rules as they are for generating male characters.

SKIN TONE

Skin tone originates from the genes of the character's parents. Skin, eye and hair colour are genetically linked, with certain combinations being very common in the contemporary human species, whilst others very rare.

Throw 1d6 on the Skin Tone table to determine the character's skin tone description.

Skin Tone

1d6	Skin Tone	Example Genetic Origin
1	Pale white	Northern Europe
2	White	Mid-Europe
3	Tanned	Southern Europe, Asia
4	Olive	Mediterranean, Middle East, Asia
5	Brown	Pacific, South America, Africa
6	Dark Brown	Africa

HAIR & EYE COLOUR

A character's gender does not play a significant role in determining a person's hair and eye colour, as hair and eye colour combinations are equally divided between human males and females. However there is a clear genetic link between hair and eye colour evident in Humanity.

In the contemporary human population of Earth, brown eyes and dark brown or black hair are most common, followed by light brown or blonde hair with blue eyes. Other eye colours are possible, but all are naturally associated with certain types of hair colours.

It is possible for humans to naturally have one of the more exotic eye colours, but these are rare. These rules allow for the pairing of hair and eye colours that are not commonly found in the present day, but may be much more frequent in the populations of the future.

Of course, implants and genetic modifications can allow a character to have any hair or eye colour the player or Referee chooses.

Determine Hair Colour

Throw 4d6 on the Hair Colour column of the Hair & Eye Colour table and note the character's hair colour.

Blonde*: The colour 'blonde' includes red, ginger and strawberry shades. The player or Referee should choose the actual shade of the character's hair.

Hair & Eye Colour

4d6	Hair Colour	Eye Colour
		4-10	11-14	15-18	19-21	22-24
4-10	Black	Brown	Blue	Green	Hazel	Grey*
11-17	Brown	Brown	Green	Blue	Hazel	Grey*
18-24	Blonde*	Blue	Green	Hazel	Brown	Grey*

Determine Eye Colour

Throw 4d6 on the Eye Colour row of the Hair & Eye Colour table that corresponds with the character's previously rolled hair colour.

Grey*: Throw 3d6. If the result is between 3 and 17, the character has grey eyes. If the result is 18, the character has a unique eye colour or colours. Throw 3d6 on the Unique Eye Colour table, below.

Unique Eye Colour

3d6	Unique Eye Colour	Associated Hair Colour
3-15	Heterochromia	Any
16, 17	Red	Any or White (Albinism)
18	Violet	White only (Albinism)

Heterochromia

Heterochromia is a condition where a person's eyes are two different colours. Simply roll 3d6 once for each eye on the row corresponding to the character's hair colour. A result of Grey* is automatically Grey; do not roll 3d6 again for any further unique eye colours.

Red

Red eye colour is most common with Albinism, a condition in which the person's skin, eyes and hair have no pigment. Hair colour is white and the person's skin is very pale and subject to burning at low levels of Ultra Violet radiation. However, it is also possible for humans to have red eyes, normal skin and hair colours but not suffer from Albinism. Referees and players should feel free to choose whether or not the character is an Albino, or whether the character simply has red eyes for another reason.

Violet

Violet eyes are very uncommon in the contemporary human population and only occur in severe cases of Albinism. Referees and players should feel free to choose whether or not the character is an Albino, or whether the character simply has violet eyes for another reason.

Eye Colour Intensity

The intensity of eye colour between individuals varies as much as hair colour does. Once the character's eye colour is known, the Referee or player should choose the intensity of the character's eye colour, i.e. 'deep blue', 'pale grey', 'jade green', etc.

THE PHYSICAL EFFECTS OF AGING

All characters age and whilst these rules describe the effects of aging on characteristics, they do not describe the effects on appearance that are associated with aging.

The simple rules below are provided so that Referees and players can more accurately represent the effects of aging in characters.

Aging & Height

As humans age they tend to shrink so that, from the age of 40, 5 cm of height is lost every 8 years. To replicate this, simply reduce your character's height by 5 cm at the end of terms 6, 8 and 10 (if your character survives that long!). The Height, Mass & Aging table is a guide to when height should be reduced due to aging.

Aging & Mass

Humans tend to put on mass as they get older, unless they maintain an active lifestyle. Mass can increase until the mid-50s, then reduce again as aging continues.

To replicate this for your character, add 4 kg of mass for each complete term served onto your character's mass up to and including term 8, then deduct 4 kg for each complete term served from your character's mass, starting in term 10. There is no mass loss or gain at the end of term 9. The Height, Mass & Aging table is a guide to when mass should change due to aging.

Height, Mass & Aging

End of Term	Age	Height Loss (cm)	Mass Change (kg)
1	22	-0	+4
2	26	-0	+4
3	30	-0	+4
4	34	-0	+4
5	38	-0	+4
6	42	-5	+4
7	46	-0	+4
8	50	-5	+4
9	54	-0	+0
10	58	-5	-4
11	62	-0	-4
12	66	-5	-4
13	70	-0	-4
14	74	-5	-4

Skin

Skin naturally loses its elasticity over time and prolonged exposure to high levels of ultra violet radiation accelerates skin aging. Anagathics can slow down or reverse this effect. Cosmetic surgery and, at higher Tech Levels, skin replacement therapy or synthetic skin can provide a less wrinkled or smooth skin appearance. Skin tone does not tend to fade due to aging, although surface anomalies such as 'liver spots' (which are actually the result of exposure to UV radiation) appear from age 40 onwards.

Vision

The amount of light received by the eyes of a 20 year-old is 16 times more than the light received by the eyes of an 80 year-old and characters may require glasses, implants or other medical or technological intervention (depending on the available Tech Level) to maintain good eyesight. Referees and players may choose to ignore the effects of aging on vision, or adopt the view that the aging rules already take into account vision deterioration due to age.

Alternatively, implement a -1 DM for every 10 years from age 60 onwards (-2 at 70, -3 at 80, etc.), in addition to any aging affects arising from the aging table. The DM should be applied when characters attempt tasks that involve vision or hand-to-eye coordination, such as firing a weapon, throwing a knife or object, forging documents, looking for animal tracks, moving in dimly lit or dark environments, and so on. Apply the DM only if the character's vision is not being assisted or improved in some manner (i.e. by glasses or by medical or technological intervention).

Eye Colour Intensity

It is perfectly possible for a person to have the same intense blue eyes at 70 as at 18, but equally eye colour can fade over time. This process is very gradual and is affected by multiple factors, such as the amount, intensity and composition of light that the eyes are exposed to over time.

There are no hard and fast rules about eye colour and aging. Referees and players should decide for themselves if a character's eye colour changes due to aging.

Aging & High Tech Level Living

If you wish to replicate the effects of higher Tech Level (TL 12+) living for your character, reduce your character's height by 5 cm only when they experience aging effects, as shown in the aging table. Do not otherwise apply height loss for characters that are living in high technology environments (TL 12+).

Anagathics: Anagathics will prolong a character's youthful appearance and health but are expensive and possibly illegal. Using anagathics will prevent your character from experiencing any aging effects under these rules at all, including mass loss or gain, height loss and hair and eye colour changes.

Stopping Anagathics: Characters that use anagathics, and then stop taking them, will experience the full effects of aging within a number of months equal to the character's Endurance characteristic.

It is not possible to avoid or reduce the effects of aging after a character stops using anagathics; only returning to anagathics use will stop any aging effects. The character will not revert to a youthful appearance and state of health, though: their appearance and health will be 'stuck' at the point when the character recommences anagathics use.

CAREERS & FITNESS

Characters that pursue physically active careers can counteract aging mass gain by staying fit whilst in a career. Indeed, for most of the military and law enforcement careers, staying physically fit and healthy is a requirement of the job.

The following careers allow characters to ignore the 4 kg per term mass gain until the end of term 5. At that point the character will start to gain mass at 4 kg per complete term served, then cease gaining mass at the end of 9, then lose mass from term 10 onwards. Characters in the following careers may use the physical skills rules, below.

Physically Active Careers

Agent
Army
Citizen (Colonist, Worker)
Drifter
Entertainer (Performer)
Marines
Navy
Nobility (Diplomat)
Rogue
Scholar (Field Researcher)
Scout (Exploration)

Career Book 1

Adventurer
Bounty Hunter
Colonist
Space Patrol
Worker (Labourer)

Career Book 2

Athlete

Career Book 3

Field Researcher
Inheritor
Wastelander

Changing Careers: Changing from a physically active career to a more sedentary one (say, from being a Marine to being a Scholar) restarts aging mass gain at the end of the first term in the new career, and changing from a sedentary career to an active one will stop age-related mass gain at the end of the first term in the new career.

Physical Skills

Characters can mitigate the effects of aging on their mass if they have gained physical skills that they use on a regular basis.

A reduction of 1 kg per skill of level 1 or higher may be applied to mass gain, starting from the term after the skill was first acquired at level 1. A character may apply all the relevant skills they have as mass loss on this basis.

Level 0 skills cannot be used in this manner and only 1 kg of mass may be lost per skill, regardless of the level of the skill being applied.

In term 9 you may still apply all relevant skills a character has as mass loss, even though the character will be losing mass, or even if the character has retired from pursuing a career or is adventuring.

Physical Skills List

Animals (Farming, Riding, Training)
Athletics (Any)
Life Sciences (Biology, Cybernetics, Genetics)
Medic
Melee (Any)
Seafarer (Ocean Ships, Personal, Sail, Submarine)
Steward
Survival

A NOTE ON PHYSICAL FEATURES

It is important for Referees and players to remember that choosing physical features is just as valid a method for fleshing out a character as using random dice rolls.

If the current game or campaign requires characters to be tall, blue, humanoids with broad, flat noses, large pale yellow eyes, pointed ears and tails, then that is how the characters should be described and these rules can be ignored.

Equally, if characters need to be 'standard' humans, then these rules will allow Referees and players to create such characters.

There is nothing in these rules that precludes the use of imagination by the person creating a character and, indeed, Referees and players are actively encouraged to do so.

If your game needs a man with one violet eye, then that is how he should appear, regardless of these rules.

FAMILY BACKGROUND

SOCIAL STANDING

Social Standing is a direct measure of a character's status in their home society, an indication of the sort of company they are comfortable in and level of society from which a character and their family comes.

Social Standing 0 indicates the character is from the lowest levels of society; a low Social Standing score generally means a poor or low-status family. Middle values represent an average status, while higher scores have specific meanings and titles.

In societies without noble titles, high levels of Social Standing may indicate membership of a powerful political or mercantile family, or celebrity status.

Note that a character that has Social Standing 10 in their home society may not be well respected by a tribe of reptilian pygmies on a world 8,000 parsecs from the character's home system: their values may well be different enough to make the character's Social Standing meaningless.

Social Standing

Soc	Description or Title
0	Fugitive wanted for exceptionally repugnant crimes; no contact with civilisation
1	Exile, outcast
2	Very poor
3	Very low status; deprived background
4	Unskilled labourer; poor
5	Working or lower class; semi-skilled
6	Skilled worker
7	Middle class
8	Upper edge of middle class
9	Educated or highly respected professional or executive; a distant relative of a noble family
10	Untitled or close member of a noble family
11	Knight, Knightess, Dame
12	Baron, Baroness, Baronet
13	Marquis, Marquesa, Marchioness
14	Count, Countess
15	Duke, Duchess

Cost of Living

Characters must spend a minimum number of credits each month to maintain their standard of living as determined by their Social Standing score (87 TMB). Most characters will spend more than the minimum figure if the credits are available.

The minimum amount covers the character's basic expenses such as food, essential clothing, and adequate shelter each month. Characters will temporarily lose 1 point of Social Standing in each month that they cannot financially maintain their Social Standing. This effect is on-going: after two months of not maintaining Social Standing, the character will have lost two points of Social Standing; after three months three points of Social Standing are lost, and so on.

If a character is able to maintain their normal Social Standing the next month their Social Standing score is returned to its normal value, regardless of how low their Social Standing score had dropped.

THE CHARACTER'S FAMILY

Whilst constructing your character's family tree can be fun and will add detail and flavour to the character's background, it can also be time-consuming. To enable a character's family background and structure to be created reasonably quickly, these rules only go as far back as the character's grandparents.

It is assumed that the character's parents and grandparents had or have normal human lifespans that were not extended by external measures such as drugs, surgery, augmentation, hibernation sleep and so on.

Of course, Referees and players can always come back to the character's family tree later on and add more detail, including career histories, events and mishaps for relatives further back in time, if they wish.

Creating a Character's Family Background

To create your character's family background, follow the steps below in order.

1. Determine the character's current family structure, i.e. the structure of their family at age 18;
2. Determine the number of living grandparents the character has, if any;
3. Determine the number of children in the character's current family structure and the character's position within the family children, if any;
4. Generate members of the character's extended family, if any;
5. Determine the number and type of family events that have occurred during the first 18 years of the character's life;
6. Apply the effects of the family events to the character's current family structure. Note any skills, allies, contacts, enemies or rivals gained and any changes to characteristics.

1 FAMILY STRUCTURE

To determine your character's immediate family structure, throw 2d6 and look up the result on the Family Structure table.

Family Structure

2d6	Family Structure
2–	Plural Relationship
3	Polyandrous Relationship
4, 5	Polygamous Relationship
6–8	Traditional Relationship
9	Serial Relationships
10	Non-Parental Family
11	Same-Gender Relationship
12+	Orphan

Plural Relationship: The character's family has 1d6+2 parents composed of roughly equal male ('fathers') and female ('mothers') members. All mothers and fathers are in a relationship with each other but not all may act as parents to all children.

Polyandrous Relationship: The character's mother is in a relationship with 1d3+1 fathers. Not all of the males may act as father to the children in the family.

Polygamus Relationship: The character's father is in a relationship with 1d3+1 mothers. Not all of the females may act as mother to any children in the family.

Traditional Relationship: The character's father and mother are in a relationship with each other, regardless of whether they are married to each other or not. Children in the family are from the parents or are adopted into the family. Throw 2d6+19 to determine how many years the character's parents have been together.

Serial Relationships: The character's mother or father has had or has a series of partners, one after the other, across a period of time. To determine which parent has had serial relationships, throw 1d6 on the Serial Relationships table.

Serial Relationships
1d6	Parent
1-3	Mother
4-6	Father

The character may have had several step-mothers or step-fathers during their life. To determine how many serial relationships the parent has had roll 1d6+1. The player or Referee should determine how long each relationship lasted and whether or not the parent is currently in a relationship.

Non-Parental Family: The character was brought up by members of their extended family, such as their grandparents, their aunt and uncle or other distant relatives. They may have grown up with other children from within other branches of their extended family who were also being looked after by the extended family.

Same-Gender Relationship: The character's parents are both of the same gender. The character may have been brought up with other children in the family who they consider to be brothers and sisters.

Orphan: The character fended for themselves without any family members to look to for support, somehow finding their own food, shelter and clothing. The character's literacy may be poor or they may illiterate. Alternatively the character was fostered in a series of homes during their life.

2 GRANDPARENTS

These rules assume that the character's oldest living family member will be a grandparent, although it is perfectly possible for a great grandparent to be the oldest person in a family.

To determine how many of the character's grandparents are alive, throw 1d6 on the Grandparents table, once for each parent in the character's family structure and note the results.

Multiple Grandparents: It is possible for a character to have more than two sets of grandparents, particularly if the character comes from a plural, polyandrous, polygamous or serial relationship family structure.

Grandparents

1d6	Grandparents
1	Both grandparents are dead
2	Grandmother is alive
3	Both grandparents are alive
4	Both grandparents are alive
5	Grandfather is alive
6	Both grandparents are dead

3 SIBLINGS

Throw 1d6 on the Number of Siblings column of the Siblings table to determine the total number of children in the family, including the character.

Next, throw 1d6 on the Age Position row for the result of the first throw to determine the character's age position within the number of children in the family. Obviously, the first age position will be the oldest child. If your character is in the first age position, then all other siblings must be younger than 18 years old. There is no need to make this second throw if the character is an only child.

Siblings

1d6	Number of Siblings	Age Position (1d6)
		1	2	3	4	5	6
1	None (single child)	-	-	-	-	-	-
2	Two	1 st	1 st	1 st	2 nd	2 nd	2 nd
3	Three	1 st	1 st	2 nd	2 nd	3 rd	3 rd
4	Four	1 st	2 nd	2 nd	3 rd	3 rd	4 th
5	Five	1 st	2 nd	3 rd	4 th	3 rd	2 nd
6	Six	1 st	2 nd	3 rd	4 th	5 th	6 th

4 EXTENDED FAMILY MEMBERS

It is possible for a character to have a huge extended family, or none at all.

Aunts & Uncles: If the Referee or player wishes, throw 2d6 to determine the total number of aunts and uncles in the character's family, and distribute these between the character's parents. These aunts and uncles may or may not be related by genetic lines to the character.

Cousins: Throw 1d6 for each aunt or uncle to determine how many children each has and designate them as cousins.

Nephews & Nieces: Characters may have nephews and nieces from sisters or brothers, if the character has or had any. Throw 1d6 for each living or dead sibling to determine how many children there are and designate them as nephews or nieces.

Orphan Characters

It is possible for a character who is an orphan to have relatives and siblings about whom they have no knowledge. The Hidden Twin (61) family event provides the perfect basis for this.

5 FAMILY EVENTS

Once you have established the character's family structure, you should determine what events, if any, have occurred in the character's life before reaching age 18. Throw 1d6 for the number of events in the character's life up to the age of 18, and then make that number of d66 rolls on the Family Events table. Remember to make a note of the details of all family events rolled.

Notes on Family Events

Some family events will conflict with or replicate what is already known about the character's family. Where this occurs, Referees and players can re-roll or choose a different event instead.

Skills gained from family events are not in addition to the number of background skills allowed (6 TMB, 4, 5 CB2). If the number of skills rolled on the Family Event table exceeds the maximum background skills allowed, the player should decide which skills to eliminate to get the skill total down to the character's maximum.

Parental Deaths (11, 26, 35, 46, 63, 65): These events indicate that one or both parents are dead by the time the character is 18 years old. Ignore and re-roll these events if the character's parents are already known to be dead.

Sibling Deaths (12, 64): If the character is an only child, it can be assumed that the sibling was born, only to die within hours or days of birth. It is also possible that the sibling was hidden from the character by the family for some reason, and the character only learns of their sibling's existence at the time of the sibling's death.

Hidden Twin (61): For this event, it is irrelevant how many children in the family are alive or how many have died: a hidden twin will appear, and will probably be unknown to the character and any other children in the family.

Wicked Step-Parent (63): Where a character has no parent alive, it can be assumed that one parent remarried after the death of their original spouse, and then that parent died, leaving just the step-parent to look after the character.

FAMILY EVENTS

d66	Family Event
11	Forever Alone. The character is the only survivor of a tragedy that wiped out their entire community or planet.
12	Sibling Death. The character's sister died or was killed.
13	Destitution. The character's family has fallen destitute. Gain one of Streetwise 0 or Survival 0 and reduce Social Standing by -3.
14	Vanished. A family member disappeared 2d6 years ago before the character's eighteenth birthday and the character must find them.
15	Family Secret. The character's family harbours a great secret.
16	Family Treasure. The character's family are the custodians of a treasure of immense financial, commercial, political, religious or military value.
21	Amnesia. The character has no memory of their life before the age of 18. The character is unsure if their current family is really their own, or are some form of elaborate deception.
22	Feud & Romance. The character's family is in a long-standing feud with religious, trade, political or military rivals. The character has fallen in love with a son or daughter of the rival family/organisation and they must keep their love secret. Gain an Ally and a Rival.
23	Feud. The character's family is in a long-standing feud with religious, trade, political or military rivals that has recently turned to bloodshed. Gain an Enemy.
24	Foundling. The character was abandoned by their birth parents and brought up by adoptive guardians.
25	Gender Change. The character was once a member of the opposite sex but changed to their current gender through surgery.
26	Parental Death. The character's mother died or was killed.
31	Inheritance Denied. The character has been cheated out of a huge legacy left by a parent or relative. Gain an Enemy.
32	Inheritance Due. The character will inherit a legacy of 1d6 * Cr 100,000 in 4d6 years from a parent or relative.
33	Dynasty. The character is born into a powerful family or dynasty. If the character has Social Standing 11+, gain +1 Social Standing. If the character has Social Standing 9- it is automatically increased to 10.
34	Runaway. The character ran away to space. Gain one of Vacc Suit 0, Zero-G 0 or Pilot 0.
35	Orphaned. The character lost both parents through illness, an accident or some other tragedy.
36	Ostracism. The character has been ostracised from their family. Gain an Enemy.
41	Pioneers. The character's family moved to a new planet as settlers, refugees or pioneers.
42	Political Family. One parent is a high-ranking political official. If the character has Social Standing 11+, gain +1 Social Standing. If the character has Social Standing 9- it is automatically increased to 10.
43	Cloistered. The character was brought up by a religious organisation. Gain Social Science 0.
44	Barracked. The character was brought up by a military organisation. Gain Melee 0 or Gun Combat 0.
45	Fostered. The character was brought up by distant relatives.
46	Parental Death. The character's father died or was killed.
51	Religious Family. One parent is a high-ranking religious official. If the character has Social Standing 11+, gain +1 Social Standing. If the character has Social Standing 9- it is automatically increased to 10.
52	Sect or Cult. The character discovered that their family is part of a secret sect or cult and disagrees with their views. The character is trying to escape their family and those who hunt the character. Gain 1d3 Enemies.
53	Slavery. The character spent their childhood and young adulthood as a slave before escaping or being freed. Gain one of Steward 0, Athletics 0 or Melee 0.
54	Identity Change. The character has adopted a new identity for reasons known only to them. Gain Stealth 0.
55	Free Trader. The character was brought up in space by a Free Trader. Gain one of Vacc Suit 0, Zero-G 0 or Mechanic 0.
56	Squire. The character was indentured as a squire to a famous Noble. Gain a Noble Contact.
61	Hidden Twin. The character has an unknown, previously hidden, twin brother or sister.
62	Well-travelled. The character has travelled widely, either on their own or with family or friends. Gain a Contact.
63	Wicked Step-parent. One parent died and the other remarried. The step-parent is cold, calculating and brutal towards the character. Gain an Enemy.
64	Sibling Death. The character's brother died or was killed.
65	Parental Death. Both of the character's parents died or were killed.
66	Sole Survivor. The character's entire family was wiped out in a tragedy.

NEW CAREERS

The character generation process for these 14 new careers is exactly the same as described in Character Creation (5 TMB) with the addition of the creation of the character's physical features and family background.

Characteristics & DMs: Generate your character's characteristic scores (5 TMB) and note any characteristic DMs (6 TMB).

Social Standing & Noble Titles: At this point you can refer to the Social Standing table (15 CB3) to get an idea of your character's social background. If your game or campaign allows the use of Noble titles, follow the rules for these (6 TMB).

Physical Features & Family Background: It is best to generate your character's physical features (11 CB3) and family background (15 CB3) when your character is aged 18. You may decide to do this once character generation is completed or skip this stage completely.

Background Skills: Determine the number of background skills your character is allowed (6 TMB or 5 CB2). Next, determine the type of homeworld your character comes from, and any homeworld and education skills your character has using the background skills rules (6 TMB or 4 CB2).

Family Events Skills: Reduce the number of background skills (6 TMB or 4 CB2) available to your character by the number of skills gained from the Family Events table (17 CB3) at age 18. If you create your character's family background after the character generation process, any skills gained from family events should be ignored.

Qualification, Skills and Training: The rules governing career qualification and the acquisition of skills and training are detailed on 8 TMB.

Basic Training: The procedure for characters to gain basic training is described on 8 TMB. Note that some careers in this book have Rank 0 that also grant a skill to the character, in addition to the skills obtained from basic training.

Survival, Mishaps and Events: The rules for Survival, Mishaps and Events are shown on 8 TMB and apply to these careers.

Injuries: The rules for dealing with the application of injuries and their effects are detailed on 37 TMB. Injury tables are shown on 37 TMB or 5 CB2.

Commission: None of the careers in CB3 have Commission throws. However, Physicians may become Licensed using the rules described below.

Licensed Physicians: A licensed physician is similar to a commissioned military officer. Licensing is a long process involving a comprehensive written exam and a series of practical exams. Graduates of an accredited medical school (9 CB2) automatically become licensed upon graduation. Physicians may attempt to pass the licensing exams once per term:

To pass a Medical Licence exam: Medic, Education, 1-6 Days, Difficult (-2).

Being a Licensed physician grants the following:

- The title of 'Doctor';
- +1 Social Standing;
- Automatic Commission when transferring to a career that has commissioned officers;
- May roll on the Licensed Skill table during subsequent terms;
- +1 DM on all benefit rolls for this career;
- Automatic skills shown on the Licensed Rank and benefits table in addition to any normal rank benefits.

Advancement, Drifters and the Draft: The character generation rules for Advancement, Rank and Benefits and Drifters and the Draft are described on 9 TMB.

Tenure: Scientist characters may obtain Tenure using the following rules. When a professor obtains Tenure, they cannot fail their future enlistment rolls in this career specialty. Tenured professors who roll less than the number of terms they have served on their Advancement roll may continue in their career but with a -1 DM on all future Advancement rolls. This DM is cumulative if a professor continues to fail enlistment rolls.

Mishaps and failed Survival rolls can still cause a tenured professor to leave this career. Tenured Professors may not transfer to another specialty or career without giving up their tenured position.

Rank & Benefits: It is possible for characters to gain skills or benefits where a career has no formal Rank titles. In such cases the skills or benefits for Advancement are shown in the Rank and Benefits table.

Mustering Out Benefits: The process for mustering out is described on 9, 34, 35 TMB. CB3 provides alternative mustering out benefit rules and tables for the careers in the TMB (4, 5 CB3), CB1 (6 CB3), CB2 (7, 8 CB3) and CB3 (9, 10 CB3).

Life Events: The procedure for using the Life Events tables is described on 34 TMB. Alternative Life Events tables are provided on 12, 13 CB1 for the careers in the TMB.

Contacts, Allies, Rivals and Enemies, Ship Shares, & Aging: The rules governing Contacts, Allies, Rivals and Enemies, Ship Shares, and Aging are described on 35 TMB. The physical effects of aging are detailed on 13, 14 CB3.

Retirement Pay: The rules for retirement pay are shown on 36 TMB. Due to the nature of the careers, the careers listed below are not eligible for retirement pay. All other careers in this book are eligible for retirement pay.

- Inheritor (28 CB3)
- Privateer (38 CB3)
- Renaissancer (42 CB3)
- Wastelander (46 CB3)

2	Severely injured. Roll twice on the Injury table (37 TMB, 5 CB2) and take the lower result.
3	Disgraced. You cause your employer to make a serious social mistake and resign in disgrace. Gain an Enemy.
4	Fight. You get into a physical fight with another Assistant. Your employer fires both of you. Gain a Rival and an Enemy, but also gain Melee (Unarmed).
5	Thief. You are accused of stealing something valuable from your employer. If you did steal it, roll Advocate 10+. If you succeed, you may keep your benefit roll from this term. If you fail, you must take the Prisoner (Convict) career (34 CB2) next term. If you did not steal it, gain the real thief as an Enemy.
6	Scandal. Your employer is caught up in a scandal and you take the blame to protect them. Take -1 Social Standing, but gain an Ally.
7	Injured. You are injured protecting your employer. Roll on the Injury table (37 TMB, 5 CB2).
8	Bankrupt. Your employer loses all their money and cannot pay you. You may find a new employer and stay in this career, but you must forfeit all of your benefit rolls to this point.
9	Addiction. Your employer has a powerful addiction and you pick up the same problem. Gain an Addiction to drugs or alcohol.
10	Betrayal. You are accused of betraying your employer by releasing incriminating evidence to the paparazzi. Gain an Enemy, but you may keep your benefit roll for this term.
11	Sabotaged. Another Assistant sabotages your career. Gain an Enemy.
12	Disappeared. Your employer has disappeared and no one knows what happened.

EVENTS

11	Disaster! Roll on the Mishap table, but you are not ejected from this career.
12	Escorting your employer from a party, you are attacked by crazed fans. Throw Melee or Dexterity 8+. If you fail, roll on the Injury table (37 TMB, 5 CB2).
13	You discover that your employer's accountant has been embezzling. If you keep it a secret, gain an extra benefit roll and a criminal Contact. If you turn them in, gain +4 DM on your next Advancement roll and an Enemy.
14	A stalker begins harassing your employer. You are attacked by the stalker when you attempt to prevent them from reaching your employer. Gain an Enemy and throw Dexterity 8+. If you fail, roll on the Injury table (37 TMB, 5 CB2).
15	Your employer attempts suicide. Throw Education or Medic 8+. If you fail, your employer dies and you must take a -2 DM on your next Advancement roll due to the stigma. If you succeed, you lose your benefit roll for this term since your employer must pay the huge medical bill.
16	Your employer suffers a major financial setback due to your error. Throw Education or Admin 8+. If you fail, take a -2 DM on your next Advancement roll and gain a Rival.
21	You are approached by a member of the media and asked to reveal some dark secret about your employer. If you accept, throw Deception or Investigate 8+. If you succeed, gain an extra benefit roll. If you fail, lose your benefit roll for this term. If you do not accept the offer, gain +1 DM on your next Advancement roll.
22	Your employer spends a lot of time with their new lover, leaving you with nothing much to do. Throw Education 8+. If you succeed, gain either Gambler 1 or Carouse 1.
23	Another employee fails to do their job and you must step in at the last minute to save your employer from embarrassment. Throw Admin or Education 8+. If you succeed, you save the day and gain +2 DM on your next Advancement roll and a Rival. If you fail, both of you are blamed and you take -1 DM on your next Advancement roll.
24	During a kidnap attempt, the kidnappers grab you instead of your employer. Roll 1d6 for the outcome: 1-2 Angry that they grabbed the wrong person, the kidnappers severely beat you. Roll on the Injury table (37 TMB, 5 CB2). 3-4 Your employer pays the ransom, but resents you for how much they had to pay. Take -2 DM on your next Advancement roll. 5 You manage to escape your captors. Your employer is so happy for your return that you gain an automatic promotion. 6 You escape after the ransom has been paid. You can take the money and run or give it back to your employer. If you keep the money, gain an extra benefit roll and an Enemy. If you return the money, gain an Ally and +2 DM on your next Advancement roll.
25	While waiting for your employer, you work to improve yourself. Gain +1 Education or gain any skill you do not already have at Level 0.
26	Your work requires you to learn a new language. Gain Language (Any).
31-36	Life Event. Roll on a Life Event table (34 TMB, 12, 13 CB1).
41	You build a network of contacts among other Assistants. Gain 1d3 Contacts.
42	Your employer asks you to do something that is against your conscience. If you agree, gain a Contact and one of the following: Recon 1, Stealth 1 or Melee (Any) 1. If you refuse, gain a Rival.
43	You are asked by your employer to hire some new employees because they are too busy. Throw Intelligence 8+. If you succeed, gain either Recruiting 1 or Interrogation 1.
44	You and your employer are caught in the middle of a savage fire fight. Throw Dexterity 8+. If you succeed, gain Gun Combat (Any), Melee (Any) or Survival.

'Barbarians' are stereotyped as club-wielding savages, but there are other, higher tech societies that have little or no contact with interstellar civilisation. On worlds of Tech Level 3 to 5 the 'barbarian' is a Renaissancer.

Qualification: End 4+

–1 DM for every previous career

Assignments: Choose one of the following:

- Farmer: You produce food to feed the growing masses in the cities using tractors and other mechanical devices.
- Musketeer: You serve in the military fighting with sword and black-powder musket.
- Worker: You are a worker in one of the new factories or assembly lines that produce goods in large quantities.

PRE-GENERATED CHARACTERS

The following 54 pre-generated characters have been generated using the careers in this book and can be used as player or as non-player characters.

THE CHARACTER PROFILE

Each character's information is presented in a standardised format called the Character Profile.

Number, Career(s)

Each character profile shows the number of the character in this list, followed by the character's career title(s).

Characteristic Block

The characteristic block shows the values of each characteristic and associated characteristic DM, as described on 5, 6 TMB.

Psionic Strength (Psi): If a character has psionic powers, the Psi characteristic is shown at the end of the second line of the characteristic block. This value and characteristic DM has been generated by and is used as per the rules in the Psionics chapter (152 TMB).

Basic Information

The next line of the profile shows the character's age in standard years and the total number of terms served. The next line or lines shows the careers and speciality assignments for the character. Characters that have only had one career will not have anything under the first line of the basic information block.

Money

The character's Credit balance on mustering out and any Retirement Pay due (see below) is shown on the next line.

Retirement Pay

The character's retirement pay (in Credits per year) is also shown on this line if the character has served five or more terms in a career that qualifies for retirement pay, as per 36 TMB.

Note that the following careers do not qualify for retirement pay due to the nature of the careers:

- Inheritor (28 CB3)
- Privateer (38 CB3)
- Renaissancer (42 CB3)
- Wastelander (46 CB3)

Skills

Skills for each character are listed in alphabetical order. Wherever a skill has a speciality, this is shown as (Any) after the skill name (e.g. Engineer (Any)). This allows Referees and players to adjust the pre-generated character's skills to suit the game more readily with the minimum of effort.

Where a character has a skill of Level 2 or more (such as Gun Combat (Any) 2) the Referee or player can split the skill levels into separate skills (such as Gun Combat (Slug Rifle) 1 and Gun Combat (Slug Pistol) 1) to suit the needs of the situation.

Psionic Talents: If a character possess psionic powers, their psionic talents are listed in alphabetical order on a separate line, underneath the list of normal skills.

Events & Mishaps

All events and mishaps that the character has experienced are listed in the order the event or mishap was generated.

Family Events: The events and mishaps section of the Character Profile does not include family events as these have not been generated for these pre-generated characters (but see Family Background & Family Events, below).

Equipment

The equipment for each character is listed in alphabetical order in the Equipment section. Equipment can include vehicles, Travellers' Aid Society membership ("TAS"), travel passages (Low, Middle or High Passage), body armour, and starships.

If a character has more than one weapon or ship share as part of their equipment, the number of each is shown (for example: 3 Ship Shares, 2 Weapons). Weapons are assumed to be of a type that the character already has a skill in.

Allies, Contacts, Enemies and Rivals

Allies, Contacts, Enemies and Rivals are shown in the Equipment section of the character profile. Some have a clarification in parenthesis after them, such as Contact (Criminal) or Ally (Alien). This indicates what types of ally, contact, enemy, or rival the character has.

Where a character has more than one Ally, Contact, Enemy or Rival listed in the Equipment section each is shown. For example: Ally, 2 Rivals, Rival (Alien) indicates that the character has one Ally and a total of three Rivals, the species of two of which are unknown and one of which is an Alien.

Allies, Contacts, Enemies and Rivals arising from family events have not been generated for these pre-generated characters.

Physical Features

Descriptions of each character's physical features are not provided. If a physical description of a pre-generated character is required, Referees and players should generate the character's physical features using the rules starting on 11 CB3.

Family Background & Family Events

Details of each character's family background and family events are not provided. If a family background and events are required for a pre-generated character Referees and players should generate these using the rules starting on 15 CB3.

SPICA

P U B L I S H I N G

Bringing you more resources for your Traveller game!

Designed to be used with the current edition of Traveller, Spica Publishing has more products for players and Referees!

FIELD MANUAL

From time immemorial there have been warriors. Men who fought not from need or as conscripts but as their trade. Warriors are not a phenomenon unique to man; virtually every culture has warriors, from the Ancients to the Vargr and Aslan. And where there are warriors, there are those who fight, not for clan, nation, race or creed, but rather for pay. They are the mercenaries.

FIELD MANUAL provides Referees and players with all the information needed to run Mercs in a Traveller game or campaign, including: Everything you need to know about mercenaries in Traveller: what makes a mercenary; how they behave, and why they do what they do; why they are what they are; and how they engage in their very dangerous trade. The daily affairs of mercenaries: what makes a good contract and why; a Merc's daily life and routine; how they operate within the Third Imperium; and why many are just as happy to operate outside its borders. A look at the different types of mercenary units: including detailed write-ups of Merrick's Rangers, The Dark Angels starmercs, and more. A first glimpse of Urnian subsector in Foreven sector: the sector's political entities and events, and a detailed look at its history. The Inanye, a new alien species! A Change of Management, a complete mercenary adventure, including a planetary summary with planetary and local maps.

FIELD MANUAL is available to download from DriveThruRPG.com at:

SYSTEM BOOK 1: KATRINGA

SYSTEM BOOK 1: KATRINGA includes: A realistic planetary system, based on current astrophysical knowledge; details of the worlds in the system, including the mineral-rich Idowa Belt, the gas giants Accra and Yendi and their moons, and Olufemi and the Outer Asteroids; a planetary map of Katringa showing major landmarks and settlements; a full physical description of the planet Katringa, including a detailed breakdown of its geographical features and timekeeping system; Katringa's unique African-influenced society, history and government; important NPCs that may be encountered on Katringa, from all walks of life; Adventure Seeds to occupy player characters while in the Katringa system; detailed asteroid mining rules

SYSTEM BOOK 1: KATRINGA is the first in a series of books from Spica Publishing that describes a complete planetary system and its society, and is designed to be usable in any science-fiction RPG. Katringa is a former corporate mining colony that is gradually being allowed more independence over time, although corruption still pervades the government. Conditions are harsh in the asteroid belt close to the system's energetic primary star, but the riches are worth the risk.

CAREER BOOK 3

Career Book 3 is the third and final volume in Spica Publishing's highly successful Career Book series. Career Book 3 brings Referees and players 14 completely new career options for Traveller character generation. Inside Career Book 3 you'll find:

ALTERNATIVE BENEFITS TABLES

Tired of having your characters muster out with an equal number of starships and blades? These alternative benefit tables weight the benefit away from high-credit options, providing a more realistic benefit distribution. Tables are included for all careers in the Traveller core rulebook as well as all three Career Books from Spica Publishing.

PHYSICAL FEATURES

Need to know if your character is too tall to make it through that hull breach? Career Book 3 gives you rules for determining a character's height, mass, skin tone, hair and eye colour, allowing anyone to quickly determine what their character looks like.

FAMILY BACKGROUND

Everyone comes from somewhere, and this system provides details of a character's family, including parents and siblings, as well as how their Social Standing affects their livelihood. A Family Events table is included to help fill in what happened to a character before they turned 18.

NEW CAREERS

Fourteen new careers are presented including:

INHERITOR

The survivors of the end of the world fight their way back to the stars.

MARINER

Mariners are sea-going people, making a living working in, on, or under the ocean.

PRIVATEER

Private companies and planetary governments need to protect their assets; with a Letter of Marque, privateers are mercenaries with space ships.

WASTELANDER

You live and work in the dangerous places where most people fear to go.

PRE-GENERATED CHARACTERS

54 pre-generated characters, created using the careers in Career Books 1, 2, 3 and the Traveller core rulebook, are presented for when you need non-player characters in a hurry!
