Jet (Driver)

As a spoilt child from a rich family you wanted for nothing living but health. Your immune system just wasn't capable of protecting you from the hazards of day to day life outside your isolation room. Your exposure to the outside world came from your drones, remotely controlled cars and helicopters that fed you some sense of the world outside.

Finally after years of expensive gene therapy and operations you body can handle the outside world. Chafing from years of family care you headed for the shadows hiring yourself out as a deniable asset.
