UNITED STATES NAVY'S OFFICIAL HISTORY OF WORLD WAR 2 1941-1945

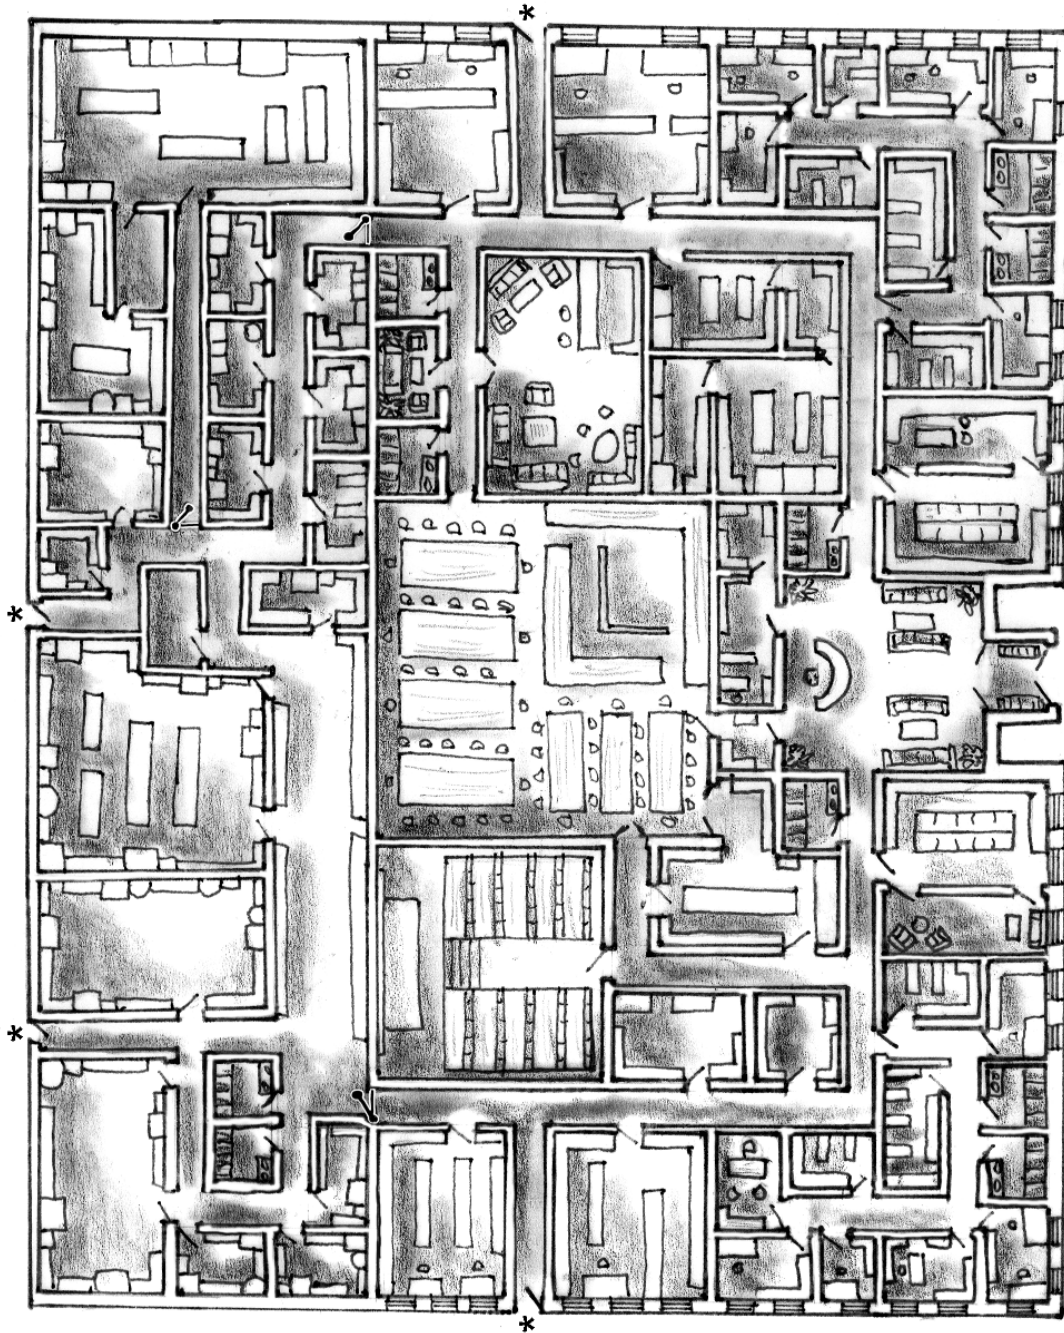

D.E.173 U.S.S. ELDRIDGE

U.S.S. Eldridge was laid down on February 22, 1942 at the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydocks, Newark, New Jersey, with a length of 306 feet and a displacement of 1,240 tons standard and 1,520 tons full load. The ship was launched July 25, and the official commissioning took place on August 27 at the New York Navy Yard. During the month of September, U.S.S. Eldridge combined escort duty with shakedown operations in the Bermuda/British West Indies area. She continued in this duty until December 28, when she took time out for a three-day training period in the vicinity of Block Island. From the Block Island area she proceeded down the coast to Hampton Roads, Virginia, there to await her first overseas escort assignment. After brief escort and patrol missions which took her into the Chesapeake Bay during the first week of January 1944, the ship headed out across the Atlantic as one of the escort units to a large convoy of merchant ships. Between January 4, 1944 and May 9, 1945, U.S.S. Eldridge sailed on the vital task of escorting to the Mediterranean men and materials to support allied operations in North Africa and on into Southern Europe. She made nine voyages to deliver convoys safely to Casablanca, Bizerte and Oran. Following service in the Atlantic, U.S.S. Eldridge was transferred to the Pacific, where she remained until the end of the war. Upon returning to New York, she was decommissioned on June 17, 1946 and remained in reserve until January 15, 1951 when she was sold under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program to Greece.
